RACING BILLS ARE DEFEATED

FIGHT ONLY BEGUN—HUGHES

NEW YORK TURFMEN HAPPY

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 8.—With the vote standing 25 to 25, a tie, and thus one vote short of the majority required by the constitution, the Senate to-day defeated the measures embodying the Governor's recommendations for the abolition of race-track gambling.

Gov. Hughes, after the result had been announced, issued a statement, in which he made it clear that he would renew his fight for the proposed reforms. No details in connection with his programme were divulged, but it is understood by his friends that he will order a special election to fill the seat of Senator Stanislas P. Franchot of Orleans and Niagara, who died recently, and then call an extra session of the Legislature. The Governor and his legal adviser, Mr. Sanford, are at work considering the plan this evening.

"It is impossible to believe that the people will permit the plain mandate of the Constitution to be ignored. The contest has not ended. It has only begun. It will continue until the will of the people has been obeyed."

Chanler to the Rescue.

After the final vote had been taken Lieut. Gov. Chanler aided the friends of the proposed reforms in winning the only victory they achieved, by voting with them to table a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bills had been defeated. Senator Grady, the minority leader of the opposition forces, pressed for immediate action on the motion, depending on the Lieutenant Governor, who has the casting vote on a tie in a proceding of that nature, to vote with the Democrats.

Senator Grady was angry at the action of Lieut. Gov. Chanler. While there is little hope that the vote may be changed on reconsideration, his action will make it possible to revive the fight on the bills, the fate of which, had he voted the other way, would have been sealed irrevocably.

The decision in the Senate was greeted by a ragged yell from the galleries, which were packed with a crowd in which abounded the types generally seen on the race tracks. On the floor of the Senate, where the friends of Senators of the opposition stood five deep behind the forum rail, an attempt was made to start a demonstration, which was sternly suppressed by Lieut. Gov. Chanler.

Senator Raines, the Republican leader on the floor, moved to have the galleries and floor of the Senate cleared of all except the members and the newspaper correspondents, but withdrew his motion after Senator Grady, who led the fight on the bills, had protested.

To-night the victory of the racing element is being celebrated by adherents who came up from New York.

Vote on the Bills.

FOR THE BILLS—Agnew, Allds, Armstrong, Carpenter, Cobb, Cordts, Davis, Dunn, Fancher, Foelker, Gates, Heacock, Hill, Hinman, Hooker, O'Neil, Page, Raines, Saxe, Smith, Travis, Tully, and White, Republicans; Fuller and Taylor, Democrats. Total—25.

AGAINST THE BILLS—Ackroyd, Boyce, Burr, Cassidy, Cohalan, Cullen, Emerson, Frawley, Gilchrist, Grady, Grattan, Harte, Hasenflug, Knapp, McCall, McCarren, McManus, Mullaney, Owens, Ramsperger, Sohmer, Sullivan, Thompson, Wemple, and Wilcox. Total—25.

These Republicans voted to defeat the bills: Burr of Suffolk, Cassidy of Schuyler, Emerson of Warren, Gilchrist of Kings, Grattan of Albany, Knapp of Clinton, Wemple of Schenectady, and Wilcox of Cayuga.

The taking of the final vote was preceded by a bitter debate and incidents more stirring than any seen at Albany since the day when the Eighty-Cent Gas bill was defeated. Mrs. Hughes, who occupied a seat in the Senate Chamber when the session began, left before the debate on the race track bills. She escaped listening to a bitter attack on her husband by Senator Grady, who, in his opening speech, expressed doubt as to the honesty of Gov. Hughes. All day long the agents of the race track interests lobbied in the corridors and precincts of the Senate.

Fancher Decoyed Away.

One sensational incident connected with the final stage in the long struggle was the detention of Senator Albert T. Fancher of Chautauqua at a private house in Albany, whither he had been decoyed last night by a person said to be closely allied with the opposition to the bills.

The absence of Senator Fancher, who was known to be in favor of the bills, when the debate began, and a subsequent search and discovery of his whereabouts by the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate, assisted by members of the local detective force, led to the disclosure of the circumstances surrounding this sensational episode.

According to the story told by the Senator himself he returned to the Hotel Ten Eyck, where he stays, about 10 o'clock last night after taking dinner with some friends. He found waiting a request that he call up a certain number on the 'phone. When he did so, he was urgently invited to come to a certain residence, where, he was told over the 'phone, some friends had a little surprise in store for him.

A friend of the Senator's who had received the original telephone call had been told by the person at the other end

MISS MARLOWE ILL.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 8.—Overcome by the news that she had been named as the co-respondent in a divorce action brought by Mrs. Clara Louise Von Hermann against Karl Stephen Von Hermann, her press agent, Miss Julia Marlowe cancelled her engagement in "Gloria" at the Lyceum Theatre to-night. The house was entirely sold out at $1,500.

Miss Marlowe had not read of the news of the divorce suit until she reached this city to-day. When she arrived this afternoon her car was surrounded by newspaper men, but she remained in strict seclusion. During the afternoon Miss Marlowe became much affected, and to-night sent word to the manager of the Lyceum that she was too ill to appear.

Mr. Ellsler, her manager, said to-night that Miss Marlowe would speak at the proper time.

Details of the Case for Sale.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., April 8.—Mrs. Clara Louise Von Hermann, who filed a suit for divorce yesterday in Salem, Mass., against her husband, Karl Von Hermann, naming Miss Julia Marlowe as one of the two co-respondents, admitted to-day, according to a dispatch received here from Hamilton, Mass., that she had entered a similar suit several years ago, but that it had not been pressed.

She said she thought her husband was in Boston and indignantly denied that he had been seen frequently of late about her own home.

A. C. Cummings, proprietor of a livery stable at Hamilton, stated positively that he had seen Von Hermann there all the Winter.

Mrs. Von Hermann is reported as having said she would not tell the details of her complaint against Miss Marlowe except for money. She refused to give her photographs to some newspapers, also, it is said, but offered to pose for a consideration.

A man who said his name was "Hartzyll," but who is said to resemble Von Hermann closely, has offered to tell the entire story for a consideration.

THINKS LOURDES CURED HIM.

Brother Joseph Used Water from Shrine to Relieve Mastoiditis.

Brother Francis Joseph, head of the Christian Brothers of the Roman Catholic Church in the East, was stricken with mastoiditis several months ago and taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, where the surgeons told him that it would be necessary to perform an operation. He declined to consent to the operation, and after being four months in the hospital was taken to another institution, where he received further treatment.

At this institution also the surgeons thought that an operation would be necessary to save Brother Joseph's life, but still he would not consent, hoping that a cure could be effected without resorting to the knife. Later he was removed to St. Francis's Hospital, where medical treatment was administered without avail, and again an operation was suggested as the only means of relieving him. Still he refused to be operated on.

On March 17 James E. Doherty, a member of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, learned of Brother Joseph's trouble and carried to the hospital a bottle of water from the famous shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes, in France, and suggested that it be used on Brother Joseph. This was done. Officials of the hospital say that an improvement was immediately noticed, and on March 19 Brother Joseph appeared to have been entirely relieved of his trouble.

He is so confident that the water was the means of his regaining his health that he has left for Paris to make a pilgrimage to the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes to show his gratitude.

March 19 was St. Joseph's day. St. Joseph is the patron saint of Brother Joseph.

RIVAL LABORERS IN BATTLE.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 8.—One man was shot and several score badly bruised and battered in a pitched battle between 500 Poles and about 100 Italians near the Standard Oil refineries now in course of construction at Linden, on the outskirts of this city, this morning. All were seeking jobs as laborers, and each faction thought the other was trying to get ahead of it.

The fight started shortly after 7 o'clock. The Italians, forming under Giuseppe Compti, who, it is said, was at one time an officer in the Italian Army, made a stand behind an elevated spur of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad which runs through Linden. They flanked the Poles, but were repulsed. Bricks, stones, and all sorts of missiles were employed and scores were hurt. As they fell out they were carried off to their little shacks in the settlements near by.

Some of the Italians finally drew guns and opened fire. One or two of the Poles had guns. Incenzo Ricotelli, as far as could be ascertained, was the only one hit by a bullet. He was shot in the thigh and badly wounded. The Poles gave up the fight when reinforcements began arriving for the Italians, and the fight was practically over when police from this city reached the scene.

The authorities in Linden will probably ask the Sheriff for protection. About 2,000 men are working on the refineries now. No more laborers are needed, it was said by Supt. Black to-day, but thousands continue to apply.

TWO ROBBERIES IN HARLEM.

Servant Girl Takes Mistress's Money and Silver—An Apartment Looted.

The Harlem branch of the Detective Bureau has been working for a week trying to solve two robberies committed in the Harlem territory within the last two weeks.

The first case is that of Mrs. Abraham Tauber of 235 West 111th Street, who had $40 and a quantity of table silver stolen from her apartment about eight days ago. Mrs. Tauber, who was ill at the time, says the money and silverware were stolen by a servant girl whose first name was Margaret. The detectives are still looking for Margaret.

The victim of the second robbery was Mrs. Mazie Klug of 316 West 111th Street. A week ago she went out shopping, and when she returned found that her apartment had been broken into and jewelry worth about $250 stolen.

ABRUZZI-ELKINS WEDDING THIS FALL

NO OBSTACLES TO MARRIAGE

Miss Elkins in Due Time Will Embrace the Catholic Faith—Will Be No Question as to Money.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—No person in Washington society shows less outward concern regarding the cable dispatches from Rome reporting the family conference of the house of Savoy about the love affair of the Duke of the Abruzzi and Miss Katherine Elkins than the young woman herself.

The dispatch saying that the King of Italy yesterday gave his consent to the marriage of his cousin and Miss Elkins is an obvious error.

That consent was given long ago, before, in fact, the Duke of the Abruzzi made his formal proposal for Miss Elkins in Paris last Summer. Without that consent the proposal would not have been made.

What has prevented the announcement of an engagement ever since has been the attitude of Miss Elkins, and of no one else. Even now Miss Elkins tells her closest friends that there is no engagement, but at the same time all these friends expect the wedding to take place.

That there has been no formal engagement is the strict and literal truth, but there has been and is a very thorough understanding between the Duke and Miss Elkins, and it may be said with the utmost positiveness that when the Duke returns to the United States the wedding will not be long delayed.

Miss Elkins and her family have all been opposed to a formal announcement of an engagement, partly for personal reasons and largely because of the unpleasant condition which would be certain to result in the publicity that no amount of reserve on the part of the young woman and her family could prevent.

The fact is that horror of the sensational inventions of the yellow press has had something to do with the reticence displayed by the family of Miss Elkins regarding the suit which the open action of the Duke of the Abruzzi has made so evident.

There has been no question of financial settlement, and will be none.

Neither will there be any question of religion. Miss Elkins will embrace the Catholic faith when the time comes, and that consideration has never been an obstacle.

In diplomatic circles here the marriage is expected to take place not later than October. At that time the Duke will have reached the rank of Rear Admiral, his promotion having been in the regular order of service and totally regardless of his personal rank. His present vessel, the battleship Regina Elena, is his second command. After his promotion, which will be due in September, it is believed he will retire to his estate in Turin, with possibly a palace in Rome placed at his disposal in the event of his marriage.

Both Miss Elkins and the Duke are entirely satisfied with the situation as it stands at present, and in the wishes of their daughter and her royal suitor Senator and Mrs. Elkins concur.

The exchange of hospitality between the Elkins family and the Italian Embassy in the last two weeks is remarkable only by reason of the fact that the Elkins family has never been identified with the diplomatic set usually affected by Washingtonians of large means and social prominence, neither Mr. nor Mrs. Elkins entertaining or being entertained by any foreign envoy unless the acquaintance was marked by some personal friendship.

Their daughter has selected her friends from the older resident circle in Washington society and from her contemporaries in West Virginia and New York.

TURIN, April 8.—The Duke of the Abruzzi arrived here to-day from Spezia. It is reported that his marriage with Miss Elkins will take place in September.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 8.—"I know the Duke of the Abruzzi. He is a mighty good fellow—a gentleman and a thorough sportsman as well. He is better than the average of the titled foreigners they send over here for American wives," said Richard Elkins, brother of Miss Katherine Elkins, whose engagement to marry the cousin of the King of Italy soon may be announced.

Mr. Elkins left here to-day on a three months' hunting trip in Alaska.

SHOOTS WIFE AND SELF.

Mrs. Mary Moybecker, who lives on the top floor, rear, of the furnished room house at 2,013 Lexington Av., threw open her door into the hall soon after 6 o'clock last night when she heard two pistol shots, followed by the screams of a woman. As she looked into the hall, Mrs. Moybecker saw the door of the front room fly open, and Albert Heiser, who occupied it with his wife, Hannah, run into the hall. Outside his door Heiser stopped, and putting a revolver against his head, he fired.

As he fell senseless, almost at her feet, Mrs. Moybecker fled screaming down the stairs and out into the street. Behind her staggered Mrs. Heiser, shot through the left arm and in the back. Mrs. Heiser ran to the basement crying:

"Oh, help me, some one. I am shot."

She collapsed, although she did not lose consciousness, and there Policeman Cunningham and Hartmann of the East 126th Street Station found her. In the hall on the top floor they found Heiser. He was still alive, although unconscious, and Dr. Fisher put husband and wife in an ambulance and started at full speed for Harlem Hospital.

Heiser died before the ambulance reached 125th Street and Dr. Fisher ordered it driven to the police station. Mrs. Heiser, who had not lost consciousness, showed no emotion when the surgeon told her that her husband had died, and she sat in the ambulance, unmoved, while his body was carried into the station house. She was taken to the hospital, where the surgeons said last night that she would probably die also.

The couple were married about nine months ago. The husband was a baker and worked at night, but three weeks ago he lost his place. Mrs. Heiser admitted that since he had been at home he had chided her about her conduct and had quarreled with her about it just before drawing the revolver.

ANXIETY AS TO KAISER.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 8.—There is considerable mystery with regard to the Kaiser's movements during his present Mediterranean cruise, and the report has gained credence that the real reason for keeping them secret and delaying his Majesty's arrival at Corfu is that the authorities responsible for his personal safety are not fully satisfied with the effectiveness of their arrangements.

The Emperor's personal entourage at Achilleion will include a Lord Chamberlain, two aides de camp, six officers of the Guard, two physicians, twelve body servants, and a private secretary; while the Empress will be attended by a Lord Chamberlain, two ladies in waiting, two equerries, and six maid servants. Twenty-four cooks and maids have gone from Berlin to conduct the imperial kitchen; even the kitchen utensils have been forwarded from Berlin.

Two Court carriages, six motor cars, two luggage motor cars, and ten chauffeurs and eight machinists also will be quartered at Achilleion. There are twelve pairs of horses and twenty grooms and coachmen.

The palace, which lies 2,000 feet above the sea, is connected with the lower country by a small cable lift. Special postal and telegraphic facilities have been installed, while the island's primitive roads, in some cases, have been rebuilt for the Emperor's benefit.

EARLE AND AFFINITY WED?

Artist Reported to Have Married His "Soul Mate" in Italy.

Friends in this city of Ferdinand Pinney Earle and Miss Julia Kuttner, whom he described as his "soul-mate," heard yesterday that the couple had been married about two weeks ago in Italy, whither Earle had hastened, according to report, immediately upon the French courts divorcing him from his wife, who went to her native land last September for the avowed purpose of freeing her artist husband in order that he might wed his affinity. A brother of Miss Kuttner declined last night to either deny or affirm the rumor.

Ferdinand Pinney Earle is the son of the late Gen. Ferdinand Pinney Earle of this city. He was married to his first wife in Paris in 1903 after he had spent seven years there studying art.

She was the daughter of W. C. Fischnacker, a publisher of Paris, and it was to his home that she fled with her 4-year-old son after her husband and Miss Kuttner had prepared a letter in which they set forth their belief that they were "soul mates," and as such must not be separated.

EVANS EXTREMELY WEAK.

Admiral's Recovery Probably Will Be a Matter of Many Weeks.

PASO ROBLES, Hot Springs, Cal., April 8.—Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans spent a quiet day to-day. He appeared to be rather feeble this morning and somewhat depressed, and complained of being weary. Later in the day, however, he recovered his spirits and apparently felt much better. Surgeon P. E. McDonald to-night said the Admiral had had a good day.

Despite the assertions of Dr. McDonald that Admiral Evans is getting stronger rapidly, the impression is gaining ground around the hotel that he is having a hard battle. While relieved from all acute pain as a result of the treatment at the springs, it is apparent that he is still in a weak condition, and that recovery will be a matter of many weeks.

The second day of his arrival the Admiral was out on the lawn watching a game of croquet. The third day he was taken for a two hours' drive. Since then he has not left his wheel chair.

It is reported that his baths have been reduced because of his weak condition, but Dr. McDonald, however, refuses to confirm this. Asked if Admiral Evans was suffering from any organic disease, Dr. McDonald was noncommittal, and declared that he thought the Admiral had done well since his arrival.

KILLED IN AUTO SMASH.

Machine in Which E. J. Downing Was Riding Rams Trolley Car.

Edward J. Downing, proprietor of a hotel in Irvington, was instantly killed last night in an automobile smash-up in Warburton Avenue, Yonkers. The car in which he was riding was the property of C. H. Matthiessen of Irvington and was being driven by the latter's chauffeur, Hewitt Kelleher, unknown to the owner. It is believed that Kelleher was trying to make up for lost time in reaching his employer's house when he drove his car into a trolley car in Warburton Avenue near Arthur Street.

The automobile fell over on its side, pinning Mr. Downing in the wreckage. The front platform of the trolley car was smashed, and the motorman cut and bruised. Apparently Kelleher escaped injury, for when the police reached the scene, a few minutes later, they found that he had disappeared.

Where Kelleher picked up Downing is not known. The chauffeur had been sent to Tarrytown by his employer with orders to return and take Mr. Matthiessen's family for a ride. Instead of returning, it is said, Kelleher went to Manhattan and was late in starting back for his employer's home.

BREWSTERS WRECK VERDICT.

Mother Gets $6,500 for the Death of Her Daughter in the Disaster.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, April 8.—An action for the death of a passenger in the Brewster Express wreck, near Woodlawn, in which over a score of lives were lost, resulted to-day in a jury awarding Mrs. Ruby Merritt a verdict for $6,500 for the loss of her daughter.

Mrs. Merritt, who lives at Pleasantville, sued the New York Central for $100,000 damages for the death of her daughter, Sarah Merritt, who was a high school teacher at Pleasantville and a passenger on the train. The plaintiff is 69 years old, and her daughter, who was her sole support, was earning $550 a year at the time she was killed. Justice Arthur S. Tompkins denied a motion for a new trial made by Lawyer Ernest M. Welch for Mrs. Merritt, as he said he considered the verdict a fair and reasonable one.

HOUSE REPUBLICANS FORCE A GAG RULE

Cannon Has Power to Declare a Recess Without a Vote Until Monday.

HARD FIGHT BY MINORITY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The Democratic fillibuster in the House forced the Republicans to-day to a renewed application of gag rules, in which they went beyond even the extreme limit they set for themselves the other day. The Rules Committee, having obtained its full Republican membership through the attendance of Representative Sherman of New York, was able to hold a meeting without calling on John Sharp Williams and Judge De Armond to contribute their presence to a quorum.

So it proceeded to devise special rules that would retire the fillibusters to their side of the House and keep them there, silent and wrathful, boiling within, until Monday.

The first shot in the skirmish was the privileged report of the Committee on Rules of a new rule continuing until next Monday the present legislative day, providing, without vote, for the House to go at stated times into the Committee of the Whole for certain specified bills; fixing the limits of general debate on the Naval Appropriation bill, and providing that amendments shall be voted on all together in connection with the pending bill. In short, the new rule would have carried the House over to Monday without the call of a single roll, save once for the passage of each bill to be adopted.

The Rules Attacked.

The discussion of the proposed rules gave the Democrats the opportunity they have been denied for two days to say what they thought of the Republican policy of forcing their way along by special rules in violation of the accepted procedure of the House. Mr. Williams and Mr. De Armond attacked the new rules as an arbitrary and all but unconstitutional abuse of the power of the majority, and Sereno Payne and Mr. Dalzell repeated with further emphasis their views on the childishness of the minority fillibuster.

In a lull the Committee on the Judiciary reported favorably Speaker Cannon's resolutions calling for information from the Department of Justice and the Secretary of Commerce and Labor on what steps have been taken to investigate the paper trust. Mr. Williams held the Democrats with some difficulty to his promise given some days ago that there would be no Democratic opposition to the resolutions.

Mr. Fitzgerald raised the point of order that the new rule consisted of six separate propositions, each of which required a vote. The Speaker decided that there were four propositions in the rule requiring separate votes. For another day, at least, victory was with the Democrats. Each provision of the rule would take two roll calls and another two calls for the adoption of the whole, making a total of ten rolls necessary for the adoption of a rule intended to expedite business. The roll calls would have taken nearly seven hours.

The Republicans admitted their defeat by letting all but the first provision lapse. After passing a rule providing for a recess without vote to-night and to-morrow, they brought in another special rule suspending rules on General Appropriation bills until the end of the session, and providing further that a majority, instead of the two-thirds regularly required, should be sufficient to pass the bill.

Mr. Sherman said that the Democrats were in the absurd position of asserting that they were aiding the advance of legislation by blocking the wheels.

Williams Attacks Dalzell.

"The Hon. John Dalzell," he said, "thinks that I am angry with him. But everybody here knows that I am the best-tempered of men. If I were going to get angry, it would be with the Captain, not with the Lieutenant; with Sir John Falstaff himself, not with his page. In his own State the Hon. John Dalzell has never had a separate command.

"The gentleman has lost his temper and in the most unparliamentary manner charged with being idiotic, childish, and a disgrace to the full stature of a man. But might not the country well ask what is more idiotic, more childish, more asinine than to lose one's temper when two great parties are debating great questions in the manner they think to the greatest good to the country?

"I am not sure of a campaign expense publicity bill this year, but I am sure of free wood pulp and print paper."

Mr. Dalzell then spoke, taking most of his time in reading a versified paraphrase of an anecdote Mr. Williams had told of his boyhood a few days ago.

May Flout President's Wishes.

The House oligarchy is not satisfied with the pickle in which it has permitted itself to be caught by the Democratic fillibuster to force through legislation demanded by the President, and is preparing to antagonize the President even more openly than it has done heretofore by an adjournment May 10 or 15. The scheme involves the enactment only of the appropriation bills, with possibly some sort of currency measure, and ignores the remainder of the President's programme.

306 STUDENTS EXPELLED

Clemson College Classes Were Insubordinate in April 1 Pranks.

CLEMSON COLLEGE, S. C., April 8.—Two hundred and fifty-seven students of Clemson College were to-day dismissed from the institution. This number, with the forty-nine members of the junior class dismissed on Saturday, aggregates 306 dismissals, on account of the All Fools' Day escapade when 309 cadets absented themselves from the campus, drills and classes from 7:45 A. M. until 6 P. M. Of the 309 participants only three escaped expulsion.

The cause was alleged insubordination in April-fool pranks. At the time of the last commencement there was trouble of a similar nature with the senior class over a nightshirt parade, and Capt. C. M. Clay of the United States Army, the Commandant, resigned.

RESCUED BY THE MAJESTIC.

PLYMOUTH, April 8.—The White Star liner Majestic rescued April 5, in mid-Atlantic, the crew of the Norwegian tank steamer Helios, from Philadelphia, March 25, for Blaye.

The Helios was abandoned in north latitude 44, west longitude 39, after she had been exposed to a three days' storm.

The oil leaked from the tanks into the engine room Saturday last, and there was fear that it would reach the fires and cause a disastrous explosion. One hundred and fifty tons of oil were pumped from the bunkers, but the task of removing the remainder of the oil was beyond the efforts of the crew. The hurricane, with the accompanying heavy seas, rendered it impossible to remove the hatches to allow the fumes to escape.

Before the crew left the vessel the sea cocks and hatches were opened to facilitate her sinking, as she was in the direct track of liners.

AMERICAN BOY IN THE VAN.

Two Years Ahead of the European Boy in His Mentality.

LONDON, April 8.—Sir William Henry Preece, formerly President of the Institution of Civil Engineers, in a paper which he read before the Royal Society of Arts to-night on "Technical Education in America," said it would be difficult, if not impossible, to make a just comparison of the methods of technical education in England and America, conditions being totally different.

"The American boy," he said, "possesses the energy and smartness of a new race, and the European boy mentally is two years behind him. This would account for the difference in curricula and papers set for examinations."

WILL NOT SURRENDER ROY.

France Won't Send Over Alleged Murderer of Glacia Calla's Brother.

PARIS, April 8.—The Ministry of Justice, to which the Foreign Office turned over the request of the United States for the extradition of Paul L. Roy, the husband of Glacia Calla, and the alleged murderer of her brother, has decided that no law exists in this country under which Roy may be given over to the American authorities.

The Ministry declares that to surrender Roy to the United States would be a violation of a principle of French justice, which forbids extradition of a citizen of France charged with a crime in a foreign country.

The Ministry holds, however, that Roy may be prosecuted in France.

FASTER STARVES TO DEATH.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 8.—Knute Ohnstead died here to-day from starvation, after an attempt to fast for forty days in order to demonstrate his theory that the mind controls the body and that mind is mightier than matter.

GIRL BURNED IN EXPLOSION.

Lamp Bursts and Sets Her Clothing and the Building Afire.

An alcohol lamp which Miss Hortense Lehman, 18 years of age, was attempting to light last evening in her father's place of business on the fourth floor of 156 West Twenty-third Street, exploded, setting fire to the girl's clothing and also to the building.

BROOKLYN JOKE ON CHICAGO.

Brooklyn wore an ear-to-ear grin yesterday, at the expense of Chicago, as it believed. The rubber plant borough was hugging the belief that it had the laugh on the Windy City and that the efforts of the lakeside metropolis to show the world that the old joke about the generous proportions of the average Chicago woman's foot was a base slander had ended in the discomfiture and humiliation of the town of stock yards.

It seems that The Chicago Tribune set itself to the task of proving that the feet of Chicago women were just as trim and dainty and shapely as those of the women of any other city in the United States. It started a "most perfect foot" contest, offering a gold slipper, studded with diamonds, as a prize to the winner. Mrs. Clarence W. Chalfant of Kenmore Avenue won the trophy, and The Tribune pointed with pride and triumph to the daintiness and smallness of her foot, calling the world's attention to it as a sample of the Chicago foot of fact and not of jealously conceived fiction.

But alas! Mrs. Chalfant's feet are not native to the Windy City. They were born and bred in Brooklyn. Until ten years ago Mrs. Chalfant lived there.

$100,000 GIFT FOR SCHOOL.

Mrs. Frederic Courtlandt Penfield Supposed to Have Made It.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., April 8.—Archbishop Ryan to-day announced that a $100,000 gift had been made by a woman, believed to be Mrs. Frederic Courtlandt Penfield, formerly Mrs. Anne Weightman-Walker, for the proposed Catholic high school for girls in this city.

It is expected that there will be other gifts from Catholic laymen and women. The amount deemed necessary is $500,000.

Vanderbilt Gift of $50,000 for Yale.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, April 8.—Frederick W. Vanderbilt, who has given the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale two dormitories, to-day made the institution another present. He purchased the home and grounds of the late Judge William K. Townsend, in Grove Street, for about $50,000, and presented them to the school, which already owns the block next to the Townsend residence.

$10,000 Gift to Columbia.

It was announced yesterday at Columbia University that a bequest of $10,000 had been received under the will of Benjamin D. Silliman. This fund will be used to establish a new scholarship in science or letters. The scholarship will be known as the William Mitchell Scholarship. William Mitchell, in memory of whom the bequest was made, was a member of the class of 1820 and was the father of Edward Mitchell, a member of the Columbia Board of Trustees.

HARRIMAN CASH SAVES THE ERIE

MORGAN PLAN A FAILURE

The $5,500,000 of Erie Railroad notes, which fell due yesterday, were provided for in full after the close of business through the intervention of E. H. Harriman, one of the road's Directors, after the plan announced last Saturday by J. P. Morgan & Co. for the exchange of the old notes for new notes had failed.

This came as the climax to an interesting series of conferences which resulted in Mr. Harriman assuming personally the responsibility of paying off the road's notes to save it from bankruptcy and receivership.

Facts which came to light late yesterday regarding the Erie's financial position, among them that the road had nearly $2,000,000 in cash in its treasury, made it appear that the road's position was much less desperate than was supposed.

The offer made by Mr. Harriman was to take $5,500,000 of the new three-year 6 per cent. notes at an underwriting commission of 5 per cent., and with the proceeds to pay off the maturing notes, or, as an alternative, to give in place of the old notes new notes at par plus a 5 per cent. cash payment. In other words, Mr. Harriman underwrote the $5,500,000 of new notes and gave the old noteholders the right to take the new notes on the same terms on which he himself agreed to take them. The offer will be open until April 15. It is expected that this new offer of exchange, carrying with it as it does an alternative issue of full payment in cash, will be accepted by a large number of the old noteholders.

This arrangement in no wise affects the previous agreement to underwrite $5,000,000 additional notes at par to provide the road with funds. It was said yesterday on authority that the money to be raised under the new plan will provide for all the road's requirements this year. Moreover, there is still left in the treasury $4,500,000 of new notes out of the authorized issue of $15,000,000.

Big Deal Put Through by Telephone.

An additional element of interest was injected into yesterday's events by the fact that Mr. Harriman was not downtown at any time during the day. The final arrangements looking to the paying off of the notes by Mr. Harriman were made over the telephone.

Mr. Harriman himself would not discuss at any length the action which he took yesterday. He said:

"The situation speaks for itself. This action was taken for the purpose of preserving for the Erie Railroad its position among the lines in its territory and with a view to its upbuilding the territory adjacent to its lines, as other lines in the same section have upbuilt their territory."

Mr. Harriman, it was learned, was acting individually and not in behalf of any company or any other railroad. Friends who are in his full confidence said last night that he did not seek to gain control of the Erie, and that he did not desire to be placed in the position of assuming responsibility for the property. He felt, however, his friends said, that as a Director of the Erie he had responsibilities which he would be neglecting if he allowed the road to fall into the hands of receivers so long as there was any reasonable opportunity of saving it. Mr. Harriman, his friends say, does not regard the position of the Erie as a desperate one, but believes that its position is inherently strong, and that the future will amply demonstrate the wisdom of the steps he took yesterday to prevent the road being thrown into a receivership.

That the road is in need of a sounder financial policy, and that it would be greatly strengthened by a readjustment of its securities, is generally admitted. In some quarters it is thought likely that the place which Mr. Harriman has assumed in the Erie's affairs may lead at some time in the future to a readjustment of the road's finances for the purpose of permanently establishing its credit and giving it some leeway in its finances.

The Official Correspondence.

Mr. Harriman's offer and its acceptance by the Erie Directors was made known in this corresponce which passed yesterday between Mr. Harriman and the Erie and J. P. Morgan & Co.:

To the Erie Railroad Company—For the purpose of enabling your company to pay its $5,500,000 notes maturing this day, I offer to purchase $5,500,000 of new 6 per cent. collateral trust gold notes, payable April 8, 1911, authorized by your board, at the price of 95 cents on the dollar, such price to be paid by me when and as, but only when and as, the same shall be required for and be applied to the payment of such $5,500,000 notes maturing to-day, and in consideration of the receipt of the new 6 per cent. collateral gold notes, secured as heretofore proposed, the notes and indenture to be substantially as considered and approved by my counsel.

Immediately upon your acceptance of this offer, you are to cause announcement to be made to the holders of your said notes maturing to-day that they may receive payment thereof at par in cash; or, until and including Wednesday, April 15, at their option, they will have the privilege of receiving for their present notes at par new 6 per cent. collateral trust notes at par, and also cash to the amount of 5 per cent. of the new notes, less the interest accrued thereon. You may cause such payments and deliveries to them to be made out of the cash to be provided or out of the new notes receivable by me under this offer and its acceptance. Yours truly,

Harriman, Esq., and the acceptance thereof by this board, and authorizes you to make all the deliveries and payments mentioned or proposed to be made by or in behalf of this company under the said offer and acceptance.

ERIE RAILROAD COMPANY,
By F. D. UNDERWOOD,
President.

Attest:
DAVID BOSMAN, Secretary.

Referring to the above correspondence, we are now prepared to pay to any note holder presenting notes or our receipts for notes already deposited par for the said notes, or at the option of the holder until and including April 15, 1908, to deliver a new three-year 6 per cent. note and 5 per cent. in cash, less accrued interest on the note.

The opinion was expressed in bond circles yesterday that the insistence of the Morgan interests that the underwriting of the new issue of notes was to be contingent upon the entire old issue of notes being exchanged for new ones, had made it practically impossible for the Morgan plan to be successful.

Note Holders Insist on Cash.

This was made clearer than ever early yesterday when large numbers of the note holders insisted upon payment in cash and refused to accept the exchange offered through Morgan & Co. At the close of the day a representative of the Morgan interests said that many of the notes had not been presented either for payment or for exchange.

It appears that Mr. Harriman's offer was made by him even before the results of the old offer became known through the failure of the note holders to accept the proposal made by Morgan & Co. It was learned, however, that it was only after much deliberation that the Morgan interests and their representatives on the Erie board accepted the offer made by Mr. Harriman to provide cash for the entire $5,500,000 of notes which the road had to meet yesterday.

What prompted the hesitancy of the Morgan interests in accepting the offer from Mr. Harriman was the subject of much speculation in the financial district yesterday. Another point about which there were many interesting surmises was the identity of the purchasers of the notes which sold yesterday. For all during the day sales of the notes which fell due yesterday were being made on the Curb and elsewhere in the Street at prices as low as 88.

At the very close of the day the notes rose to 97, and at the same time the stocks of the company advanced a couple of points. These gains in Erie securities were the first real intimation the Street had that the notes were to be paid off in cash.

When it was learned that the funds which made this offer possible had come, not from the company's bankers, but from Mr. Harriman personally, the Street was ready to accept the reports that actual control of the Erie had passed to Mr. Harriman. It can be said on authority, however, that Mr. Harriman has not sought control of the Erie.

Harriman May Get the Erie.

Nevertheless, some of the comment passed upon the part which Mr. Harriman played yesterday indicated the belief on the part of many that the logical outcome of yesterday's developments was the passing of actual control of the Erie from the Morgan interests to E. H. Harriman.

In addition to the funds which Mr. Harriman and the Harriman interests supplied to the Erie last Spring to continue its improvement works, amounting to $5,000,000, Mr. Harriman in connection with the plan announced last Saturday obligated himself to the extent of $2,000,000 more, and yesterday he undertook to pay off $5,500,000 of notes. Should all the noteholders take cash instead of the exchange provided for under Mr. Harriman's offer he will be called upon to advance an amount equal to the face of this note issue. This would raise the total of money which Mr. Harriman personally supplied to the Erie up to $9,500,000 in addition to $3,000,000 loaned to the road by the Wells-Fargo Express Company. The investment of this amount of money in the road places Mr. Harriman in a dominant position in its affairs.

Many of the banks downtown had instructions from clients yesterday to present the Erie notes for payment. One bank presented $300,000 of the notes in this way and another $275,000. The demands for cash in such large amounts made it clear to the Morgan interests early in the day that their plan would not go through. It was stated in the financial district that when the failure of the old offer was made apparent the Morgan interests declined an opportunity which was offered them to join with others interested in the Erie to raise cash with which to pay off the notes.

The advances in the Erie issues just before the close of the market carried the common stock from 14¾ up to 16⅝, the second preferred from 20 to 22¾, and the first preferred from 30 to 32½. The general lien bonds, which had sold to 67, moved up to 68, and the convertible A's from 51 to 52. These advances were coincident with a jump in the maturing notes from 88 to 97.

The sales of the notes yesterday were placed at many hundred thousand dollars, many of which sold at the low prices of the day. The stock market generally showed increased strength at the end of the day, and most issues closed with net gains.

HELEN MALONEY CASE HALTS.

Discovery of a Letter Written by Osborne May Cause a Rehearing.

The report of Daniel F. Cohalan, the referee appointed to take testimony in the annulment suit brought by Miss Helen Maloney against Arthur H. Osborne, which was expected to be submitted to the court at any time now, may be delayed and the hearing reopened through the discovery of a letter purporting to have been written by Osborne to William A. Boyd of Mamaroneck, N. Y., the Justice of the Peace who married them, asking for a copy of their marriage certificate and intimating that he and Miss Maloney were living together as husband and wife.

The ground on which the annulment was applied for was that the couple never had lived together. However, a statement was given out yesterday by Charles T. Cowenhoven of 20 Broad Street over the name of Osborne, in which the latter, while admitting that he wrote the letter, said that its contents were utterly false and that it was written for the purpose of "throwing Mr. Boyd off the track" regarding the writer and his identity.

Augustus L. Humes, counsel for Miss Maloney, said he never knew of the existence of the letter, and that the statements in it were proved to be untrue by the evidence adduced before the referee.

HAZERS PUNISHED; COLLEGE WAR ENDS

VACATION, SAY STUDENTS

The rebellion of the New York University students on University Heights seemed to come to an end yesterday. The Faculty suspended the entire junior class for three days. The Student Body set upon Freshman Henry Bloch and mildly thrashed him hard by the chapel door immediately after the sentence by the Faculty was announced. After that they laid a plot, which did not mature, to kidnap him last night for further "initiation."

The professors hurried off to write to professors in other colleges, according to many previous requests from all over the country, about how this wave of undergraduate insubordination had been hurled back. The eighty members of the junior class, supplemented by other undergraduates, hurried off to get ready to move upon the Great White Way in celebration of what they consider a "bully three days' vacation."

At sunset yesterday both sides seemed to be well content with themselves. The Faculty pointed out that the students had not all gone on a self-imposed period of suspension, as they had threatened last week. The students pointed out that the Faculty decision had taken out of the suspension all the usual disabilities as to exclusion from athletic and other student activities, thus making the penalty only a howling good vacation for the juniors. Here and there freshmen, sophs, and seniors coveted the sort of "punishment" put upon the third-year men.

Ducked Bloch for a Starter.

It will be remembered that Henry Bloch was seized last Wednesday and thrown into the fountain, books and all, and was then told not to come back to the university. It was stated on behalf of the students at the time that Bloch had rendered himself persona non grata by begging off from the regular initiation at the first of the year on the ground that he had a sore ear, and that later when an attempt was made to duck him he had run to the office of Chancellor MacCracken and "squealed."

Henry Bloch, assisted by his father, mother and sister, stated on his behalf, that he had been ducked two nights after he had registered on University Heights; that he had been ducked and beaten on Hallowe'en night, the regulation time for the initiation of freshmen, and that he had complied with all the rules for freshmen.

Last Thursday A. A. Young, President of the Junior class, was suspended pending his trial by the Faculty on the following Tuesday on the charges made by Bloch. All the students walked out, yelling the battle cry: "Punish us all alike or none."

It was explained on Friday that Young had been suspended as a representative of the junior class, and that his suspension was to last only until the Faculty meeting on Tuesday. Whereupon the Student Body—350 strong—voted to go back to their classes. In an "ultimatum" sent to Dean Snow as the representative of the Faculty, the students said they proposed to take upon themselves, after the Tuesday decision, the same punishment put upon Mr. Young.

Both sides then marked time until Tuesday. Letters began to pile in upon the Faculty from all parts of the country begging them to stand firm, as the spirit of insubordination was getting too strong a hold in colleges.

Piteous Appeal to the Faculty.

One man in New England wrote:

"For God's sake take a firm stand in this. Do not yield. If you do, New England is ruined."

Many letters were received from New York City people saying that the men who had ducked Bloch were "toughs," "roughs," and other kinds of persons, all not nice.

The decision was to be formally given out at chapel yesterday morning, and everybody was there, including all of the professors. Even the juniors were there. The organist played Chopin's funeral march as the students marched in. Recorder Waters read from the Scriptures, and then gave out a hymn to be sung. It turned out to be "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and both the faculty and student body burst into laughter.

Recorder Waters then read the Faculty's decision to one of the most attentive audiences he ever had. It noted that the ducking of Bloch last Wednesday was plainly hazing, that this offense had been defined and provided with punishment for years, and that the junior class had been primarily responsible for the ducking.

The last two paragraphs read:

"As a penalty for the offense of Wednesday the Faculty suspended the junior class for three days, April 8, 9, and 10, the suspension to carry with it no disabilities extending beyond the period of suspension.

"The resolution of the Student Body failed to recognize that the judgment of the Faculty in matters of discipline must be final. Therefore the Faculty will view as willful insubordination, to be penalized not less severely than with suspension for the remainder of the year, the act of any student not a member of the junior class who shall absent himself from classes without good cause on the days above named."

Then the Student Body cheered, and the Faculty marched out. Freshman Bloch was one of the first to retire. He was surrounded by a crowd of the students, who hit him on the head, brought him to his knees and then dumped a huge dictionary or two on his head and back. He got up, grinning, as usual.

At 12:30 the Student Body was called to order in the Y. M. C. A. Assembly Hall by A. H. Sherin, its President. John C. Brodsky, a junior himself, unchained his oratory to say that the Faculty had acted very fairly in that it had punished an entire class and not Mr. Young individually. He advised that the students should not "butt in" on the Faculty decision.

Students Agree to be Good.

After a good deal of undergraduate verbal fire "Pud" Huntington, a senior, got through the following motion:

> Whereas, The Faculty have acted leniently in their punishment, having punished a representative body and not an individual, we make the following motion:
> That we remain in college and abide by the Faculty ruling.

That was carried with a whoop. The case of Henry Bloch, freshman, causation of the unpleasantness, as the logic "prof" might have said, then came on to be heard. Should the Student Body agree to inflict one more physical initiation upon him, in accordance with the following proposition, which was submitted to President Sherin last week by Samuel Levine, a lawyer friend of young Bloch:

> This proposition is submitted to Mr. Bloch: Would you be willing to take any punishment meted out to you for failure on your part to comply with college customs, provided the five men here present—Arthur Sherin, Willis Thompson, George Young, Halsey Johnson, and Harry Mowen—are constituted a committee to take charge of the punishment?
> This proposition is hereby accepted by Mr. Bloch. (Signed) HENRY BLOCH.

Samuel Levine was writ down as witness. The question was should the Student Body sign the paper. No, shouted Mr. Brodsky again; the proposition was a disgrace to the Student Body.

"I move that the motion to sign this document, Sirs, be laid upon the table," he shouted, and the motion carried.

It was the general understanding among the students yesterday that they would harry Bloch until he left the university. They wanted no agreement on his part to accept punishment; that was superfluous. He has been getting it without any agreement since he "squealed" away back last Fall.

"Cardinal" Wolsey, Superintendent of the university grounds, was busy yesterday and last night seeing that the juniors obeyed the requirements of the suspension. Though it was shorn of most of its hard features, it still demanded that all juniors should keep off the campus and that those in the "dorm" should move out, with the exception of those who live far away, as, for example, several men from South America and the West Indies. These were allowed to remain.

Freshman Bloch Ostracized.

Freshman Bloch finds himself in a position at college which would be distressing to the ordinary student. He may enter the grounds, but no one will talk to him, and students who are near him jeer and hoot at him as he passes. He only smiles.

He may, and does with clocklike regularity, enter the class rooms, but sits apart. If the instructor leaves him alone a few moments with his fellows, they call him "squealer," and hurl books at him.

Up to last week he could eat in the Commons, the student eating hall. The management indicated to him after the suspension and strike that if he continued to do so the other students would stay out. He said that he did not want the management to lose money on his account and left. He hasn't been there since.

He is not only ostracised; he is actively and physically persecuted at every opportunity, which has for its object his retirement from the university.

Dean Snow on the Job.

Dean Snow, who was somewhat angered by the statements in the afternoon papers that the students had won the fight on the Heights and knew it, gave out a statement last night in effect as follows:

> The following points influenced the penalty. It was generally admitted that the Faculty was in the right. The press was with us, and a large portion of the students themselves had admitted that they were in the wrong.
>
> We could have punished either spectacularly and severely or in such manner as to show that there was no venom in the penalty. The second course was open to this objection—that some might consider that the Faculty were afraid of the students.
>
> Such a view, however, was not tenable. Hazing, however popular, had been recognized for what it was in the decision. The students' objection to the punishment of one man had been followed by the punishment of an entire class, and any further manifestation on the part of the students was to be followed by individual or class suspension.

Cintinuing, Dean Snow said that the more mature and generous plan of punishment decided upon by the Faculty would be appreciated by those who are so "thoroughly and admittedly down."

CABMAN FIGHTS A FINE.

Duffy Contends He Did Not Violate Law by Driving on a Pier.

Thomas F. Duffy, a cabman, appeared before Supreme Court Justice Hendrick yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus sued out by his counsel in connection with a fine of $2 imposed on him by Magistrate Droege in the Jefferson Market Court for causing a breach of the peace. The argument was adjourned until to-day.

Duffy is President of the Independent Hackmen's Association, and on March 14 he was arrested at the White Star Line pier for driving on the pier, contrary to regulations made by the steamship company. It is alleged that by so doing he caused a breach of the peace and interfered with passenger traffic.

Duffy is the man who fought the Hotel Belmont, maintaining that independent cabmen had the right to stand and solicit fares in front of that and any hotel, despite an ordinance giving stable men that exclusive privilege. He says his association numbers 460 drivers, and that they are opposed to the Liverymen's Association, which includes those having contracts for supplying cabs to hotels and other public places. Duffy has also begun an action for damages against the steamship company.

POLICEMAN BRESNAHAN DIES.

Sergt. Nerney, Who Shot Him by Mistake, Held in $10,000.

Policeman John Bresnahan of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, whom Sergt. Nerney of Inspector Sweeney's staff shot last Friday morning, believing him to be a crook, died yesterday morning in Roosevelt Hospital, and Nerney immediately gave himself up to Magistrate Wahle, who had paroled him at the time of the shooting, and who yesterday remanded him to the Coroner.

Despite the pleas of Inspectors Titus and Walsh, Coroner Harburger declined to parole Nerney in their custody and committed him to the Tombs to await the inquest. Nerney's friends got a writ of habeas corpus in the afternoon, and after Deputy Commissioner Bert Hanson had argued for the Sergeant Supreme Court Justice Hendrick admitted Nerney to $10,000 bail, which was supplied by Elias Johnson, an iron manufacturer of Spuyten Duyvil.

Squadron A Inspected.

The annual inspection of Squadron A of the National Guard was made last evening in the armory at Madison Avenue and Ninety-fourth Street, the inspecting officers being Major Lloyd F. McCormack, Assistant Inspector General U. S. A., and Col. Wingate and Major Greer of Gen. Roe's staff. After the inspection of the troops of the squadron their commanding officer, Major Oliver Bridgeman, was complimented by the regular army officer.

George B. Ward's Daughter Drops Suit.

of the wire that it would be worth a lot of money to him to come. This part of the message Senator Fancher never received.

It was the recollection by this friend of the telephone number that finally led to the discovery of Senator Fancher, who was found asleep a little before noon, with his watch indicating that it was just 9 o'clock. The watch had been turned back. The identity of the friends Senator Francher met has not been disclosed.

But there was a poker game in which the Senator was a constant and heavy winner, and there were refreshments.

Francher Arrived in Time.

The identity of the man who decoyed the Senator to the place where he was so hospitably entertained is known at the Capitol, and the incident is being investigated.

Senator Francher arrived at the Senate Chamber a little after 2 o'clock this afternoon, during the recess which had been declared largely for the purpose of giving him time to return.

"I am glad I am back in time to vote," he exclaimed as he entered. "I am for the bills."

The defeat of the bills was encompassed chiefly by the change of front of Senators Cassidy of Schuyler and Grattan of Albany. Both voted for the advancement of the bills last week. Senator Grattan was persuaded to vote against the bills by William Barnes, Jr., the Republican boss of Albany, after he had declared on the floor of the Senate a week ago that he would be for the bills, and had reiterated this pledge as recently as last night.

The action of Senator Cassidy caused widespread comment chiefly because two years ago he introduced bills in the Legislature which aimed at precisely the same amendments to the law provided for in the Agnew-Hart bills. A great outcry went up at that time that the Cassidy bills had been inspired by the poolroom interests, and they were killed in committee after Senator Cassidy had urged repeatedly in speeches and in interviews that the discrimination in favor of the race track gambling was iniquitous and the Percy-Gray law should be repealed.

Cassidy's Explanation.

When Cassidy's name was called he begged to be excused from voting in order that he might explain his vote. He spoke in a voice so low that it could scarcely be heard across the Senate Chamber, and kept his eyes riveted on the desk in front of him as he spoke.

"I don't think that these proposed bills embody the appropriate law to prevent the offenses prohibited in the Constitution," said the Senator in his explanation. "I feel that it would be superfluous for me to go into any explanation of this statement. The only thing for me to determine is whether the Percy Gray law or this would be the best and most effective law. I don't think these bills repesent any adequate attempt at scientific legislation to prevent gambling at race tracks, and until such legislation is framed to carry out the inhibition of the Constitution I shall continue to vote as I vote upon this measure now. I vote No."

Senator Grattan, who had been summoned to the home of William Barnes while he was attending a committee meeting at the Capitol before the session, did not return to the Capitol until noon, and then served notice on Senator Agnew that he had changed his mind and would vote against the bills. When his name was called on the final roll call he explained that, while he had promised to vote for the bills, he would vote No because with the Sept. 1 amendment defeated the enactment of the Agnew-Hart bills would mean confiscation to the race track interests.

Senator Knapp of Clinton, who had assured his friends as late as last night that he would vote for the passage of the bills, did not vouchsafe any explanation of his vote. To the newspaper men he said:

"The people in my district are after me to vote against these bills. The only requests to vote for them which have come to me were from a lot of ministers, who never have done me any good politically."

Debate on the Bills.

The debate upon the bills lasted four hours. Senator Grady led the oratorical attack on the reforms. He confined himself to an attack upon Gov. Hughes, accusing the Executive of attempting to coerce members of the Legislature, and trying to create public sentiment in favor of his ideas of what the Legislature should do. The Governor was criticised for his speech before the Brooklyn League Monday night. He was accused of unfairness in making declarations which were open to the inference that members of the Senate were being cajoled and threatened for refusal to take a position against the bills.

"There is a protest," he said, "against the Governor touring the State, and undertaking to deceive the minds of the uninformed by pretending that the fundamental law is being violated only through race track gambling.

"I repeat that the Governor, with an unfairness unworthy of his high office, is responsible for creating this prejudice, and by declaring that these bills were desired by the moral element, and that every one who opposed them did so from corrupt motives."

Armstrong Led Fight for Bills.

In a strong defense of the Governor's position, Senator Armstrong made the only important argument in favor of the reforms. The Governor, he said, had taken an oath to support the Constitution, and had pointed out the inconsistency between the constitutional prohibition against gambling and the special penalty provision of the Percy-Gray law. Senator Armstrong answered the charge of Senator Grady that Gov. Hughes had closed his eyes to Wall Street and more serious forms of gambling. Any form of gambling, except that on a race track, he said, was an evasion of law, as severe penalties were imposed for gambling in any other place than a race track.

In defense of Gov. Hughes Senator Armstrong said:

"The name of Gov. Hughes will be remembered as the synonym for honesty long after the name of every man occupying a seat in this Chamber has been forgotten."

Predictions at Recess.

After Senator Hinman had spoken a recess was taken. At that time Senator McCarren announced that he felt certain the bills were beaten by a vote of 25 to 24. Senator Fancher had not yet arrived. When he appeared at the afternoon session, which started an hour later, Senators Raines and Agnew both declared that they had 26 votes, sufficient to pass the bills.

Senator Gilchrist, one of the Republicans who voted against the bills, tried to justify his vote by showing that the Bible contained references to gambling, and to back up this assertion cited the parable of the talents and the servants. Senator Ackroyd, a Democrat, in explanation of his vote against the bills, had recourse to the Scriptures, too, to show that the desire for gambling was one of the fundamental traits of human nature which could not be eradicated by legislation.

"Even Adam was a gambler," said he. "He knew it was a long chance he was taking when he ate from the Tree of Knowledge, but he took it."

Some criticism of Senator Raines was heard to-night for allowing the bills to go over until Wednesday instead of Monday night, when the debate could have been had. In the interim agents of the race-track interests, in the opinion of many legislators, contrived to do the work among legislators and political leaders which resulted in the defeat of the bills. There was some talk during the recess of forcing a caucus on the bills, but it amounted to nothing.

The representatives of the race-track interests are keenly alive to the fact that the battle to be finally won must be fought all over again, at an expense probably as great as the outlay that paved the way for the defeat of the bills to-day. They are looking forward, too, with a great deal of apprehension to the reaction that is certain to follow the manoeuvres in the Senate to-day after the Assembly, by a practically unanimous vote, had passed both bills.

The Special Election.

One phase of the situation which is causing the politicians here much worry is the prospect of a special election of Senator in the Orleans-Niagara district. The Republicans in the district are divided into factions, one of which owes allegiance to the Wadsworths, the other to State Superintendent of Public Works Stevens, who is one of the Governor's stanchest political friends.

That the special election, which the Governor can call at a two weeks' notice, would provoke one of the most bitter fights within the Republican Party in this State is the universal opinion of the leaders. Balloting lasting for days with the rival factions in a deadlock preceded the nomination of Senator Franchot, whose vacant seat is proposed to be filled by the special election.

The Democratic leader in Orleans County is Barry Murphy, who is private secretary to Lieut. Gov. Chanler. The latter is favorably disposed to the bills. That the special election would be almost certain to result in a Democratic victory gave a grain of comfort to the opponents of the race-track reforms, who believed it would net them a vote, until it was learned that the man most likely to be nominated was Thomas Eckensperger of Orleans, who was elected Sheriff on a reform ticket and would be likely to vote with the Governor's friends on the race-track bills.

Serious constitutional problems are involved in this special election. Senator Franchot was elected under the old apportionment which the Court of Appeals has since declared unconstitutional. The new Apportionment act passed at the extra session last year rearranged the Senate districts, but left that particular district the same as before, consisting of the Counties of Niagara and Orleans.

Whether Senator Franchot's place can be filled by special election under a different apportionment is a question which the constitutional lawyers are debating to-night.

SENATORS MAY GO ABROAD.

Would Remove Two Votes in Case of Special Session.

The assumption by the race-track men that the Anti-Betting bill was beaten finally when it failed to obtain a majority of the votes of the Senate, was said last night to be based on beliefs which take in the possibility that Gov. Hughes may call a special session of the General Assembly to reconsider his proposed legislation against race-track gambling.

The race-track men assume that the vote of the Senate yesterday will not be changed, should the bill be brought up again at the present session, and it was asserted that they had no fear that there would be any danger to them in an extra session, as they already have assurance that the bill will lose votes in the event of a special session.

One Senator who voted for the bill under pressure of his party leaders and in deference to the wishes of Gov. Hughes, was said to have declared to partisans of the race tracks that should Gov. Hughes call for a special session of the Assembly to consider anew the racing question he will resign, as he believes he already has gone as far as he can as a party man.

Two other members of the Senate, it was said, already have made plans to sail for Europe immediately after the adjournment of the Assembly, and have asserted that they will not permit the Governor to change their plans. Gov. Hughes may gain one vote by ordering a special election to fill the vacancy caused by the death of a Senator, but the race track men are confident that three votes will be lost by resignation or absence, and that the Senate again will vote down the reform bill.

The announcement of the vote was received with immense satisfaction by the group of turfmen, members of The Jockey Club, and racing officials, who, for the afternoon, made their headquarters in the Waldorf-Astoria. There about fifty men were present prominently identified with the management of race tracks and the direction of racing under the control of The Jockey Club.

The first intimation of the failure of the measure came when a cheer rose in the corridor, as the news of the tie vote was brought in by a messenger from a news ticker. It was received as only a rumor then, but there was almost immediate confirmation of the announcement in telephone messages and telegrams, which came in for numerous individuals.

The best known of these were James R. Keene, steward and vice chairman of The Jockey Club and owner of the most conspicuous racing stable in the world, Philip J. Dwyer, President of the Brooklyn and Queens County Jockey Clubs, J. H. Bradford, steward of The Jockey Club and treasurer of the Coney Island Jockey Club, and Andrew Miller, another steward of The Jockey Club and Secretary and Treasurer of the Saratoga Racing Association.

Other notable figures in the crowd were Foxhall P. Keene, James B. Brady, E. Berry Wall, J. S. McDonald, G. A. Johnson and Schuyler Parsons.

Dozens of men interested in racing only as visitors to the tracks crowded about to congratulate Messrs. Keene, Dwyer, and Bradford. Mr. Keene remained only a short time after the details of the vote in the Senate became known. He declared his satisfaction at the defeat of the anti-betting law, but would not express an opinion beyond the conviction that the action of the Senate disposed of the proposed legislation effectually.

Philip J. Dwyer alone of the race track managers added comment on the action of the Senate: "We have won on a tie, and it was too close to say much about, except that we are to have what we want. That will have to satisfy us, for I do not see what further there is to look ahead to."

Foxhall P. Keene, son of James R. Keene, was more outspoken in his comment than were the men identified with the conduct of the race tracks and the affairs of The Jockey Club. Mr. Keene said:

"The action of the Senate was only reasonable and nothing more than the people of New York had a right to expect. It saves racing, but, more than that, it is a deserved defeat for the bigotry and prejudice of the Governor, who, without taking the trouble to inform himself of the facts, started out to destroy the greatest sport that the world ever enjoyed.

"He never saw a horse race and he knew and cared nothing about the pleasures of the people from whom he wanted to take racing. He did not trouble to inform himself, but assailed the sport without regard to the truth. His own beliefs he tried to force on the entire public, and he assumed, without hearing anything from the other side, that horse racing is bad because he wished to believe it bad."

All over New York crowds hung over the news tickers through the hours that the Senate was known to be in session.

The interest was most marked, however, in the Windsor Arcade, where the offices of six racing associations and the rooms of The Jockey Club are maintained, while a number of other tenants are interested closely with racing. There a news ticker in the hall was the centre of a large crowd.

In the forenoon bookmakers said that some of their craft laid odds of 6 to 5 that the anti-betting bills would pass, but there was such willingness to bet that they would be beaten that the odds shifted, and what little betting took place was at even money.

TO STOP BENNING BETTING.

Congress Will Be Called On to Act on Favorable Report.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Abolition of race track betting will be brought squarely before Congress through the decision to-day of a sub-committee of the Senate Committee on the District which has had the question under consideration. The sub-committee made a report favorable to the suppression of betting at the Bennings track.

The matter probably will be passed upon favorably by the whole committee and recommendations made to the Senate Friday. The action of the Legislature of New York in refusing to condemn race track wagers makes the action of the Senate committee of more than local importance.

ALASKA CUT OFF; NO NEWS OF AUTO

Crews of French and Italian Cars Are Busy Preparing for the Journey in Alaska.

Special to The New York Times.

SEATTLE, Washington, April 8.—Officials of the Alaska Steamship Company declare that the American Thomas car, which is leading the race from New York to Paris, which has been organized by the Paris Matin and THE NEW YORK TIMES, is undoubtedly on the trail between Valdez and Fairbanks, although no word has yet been received of the arrival of the steamer Santa Clara at the Alaskan port.

Because of submarine earthquakes and volcanic eruptions, cable communication between Valdez and Seattle has been completely cut for the last ten days, and it has not been possible to re-establish it, though it was estimated that communication would be re-established a week ago. To make matters worse the Canadian telegraph lines have been broken down on account of exceptionally heavy snow and wind storms, and there is no possibility of getting word from Alaska by this route.

Unless communication can be re-established, there will be no way of hearing from the American car until the return of the Santa Clara to Seattle, and then the steamer can bear no tidings of the success of the attempt to pass Keystone Cañon and Thompson's Pass, the two formidable barriers to its progress immediately outside of Valdez.

The Santa Clara was due in Valdez last Monday afternoon. Except in unusual storms, it is exceptional for the boat to be delayed a day. The crew of the American racer had instructions to lose no time in moving out of Valdez, and it undoubtedly started over the trail on Tuesday. Every day was considered of the greatest importance, as the success or failure of the expedition might be determined by a day's delay.

The purpose of the Thomas crew was to send a courier over the route from Valdez immediately upon arrival there. The automobile would be unloaded meantime and all the extra baggage packed on sledges to be dragged behind the machine. The purpose of this was to distribute the weight as much as possible to avert any chance of the machine breaking through the crust of the frozen trail in event of an early thaw.

It was estimated by the managers of the Orr stages, which operate between Valdez and Fairbanks and carry the United States mail over the trail, that the car would reach Keystone Cañon on the first day out from Veldez and that its chances of crossing the Coast Range would be determined on the second day, when it would attempt Thompson's Pass. If the trail was still frozen hard, they estimated that the car would reach Tickhell in the first three days and would have little trouble if not overtaken by thaws south of Fairbanks.

There is the keenest interest here in the success of the undertaking, and news of the first days on the trail is awaited with the greatest impatience. The last cable communication between the two cities announced that Valdez awaited the arrival of the car with all preparations made to extend every assistance possible to it and to get it through if possible, although the residents there were mostly disposed to view the attempt skeptically. There had been no breaking up of the trail since the freeze which followed the early thaw, but the late date increased the chance of a break-up at any time.

OVERHAULING FOREIGN CARS.

Italian and French Crews Busy Making Ready for Alaska.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 8.—Both the Italian and French crews of the automobiles which are racing from New York to Paris were busily engaged all day to-day in overhauling their cars preparatory to shipping to Seattle on Friday to begin the Alaskan trip. Supplies have to be purchased for the extraordinary conditions to be met in Alaska, and the short time the cars are here is scarcely sufficint to attend to all the details of the trip.

The reports from Alaska of early thaws and unfavorable conditions does not discourage the foreigners one whit. They say they are prepared to overcome any obstacles.

The foreigners will remain at Seattle three days before they will be able to take the boat for Valdez. The steamer reaches Seattle on Monday morning, and the first boat going north will sail on the following Thursday.

RED TAPE DELAYS GERMANS.

Special to The New York Times.

OGDEN, Utah, April 8.—The Protos car returned here to-day by train and will remain until Lieut. Koeppen returns from Seattle with the extra parts which are necessary to effect repairs.

Seattle wires that the parts are there awaiting the car, but there are some formalities with the customs requirements which Lieut. Koeppen must personally arrange. It was impossible to ship the parts needed to Ogden until these requirements were satisfied.

RYAN EXAMINED IN METROPOLITAN SUIT

IGNORANT OF THE DETAILS

Officers Manage the Road—He Advanced $5,000,000 and Obtained as Much More in Loans for Merger.

Thomas F. Ryan was a witness yesterday in the Seventh District Municipal Court before Justice William H. Young in the suit brought by Emanuel Weil and Minnie Weller against the Directors of the Metropolitan Street Railway. The suit is brought to recover damages alleged to have been sustained by the complainants through their failure to dispose of Metropolitan Street Railway stock in 1905 and 1906, which they held, as they say, because of reports of the New York City Railway Company. These reports, they declare, were false and misleading, and did not correctly represent the company's financial condition. Mr. Weil is the owner of ten shares of the stock and Mrs. Weller the owner of three shares. The suit is backed by the committee of Metropolitan Street Railway stockholders, of which William F. King is Chairman.

Mr. Ryan was accompanied by De Lancey Nicoll and John B. Stanchfield, his counsel, and was one of a number of witnesses prominent in traction and financial affairs, who had been summoned for the hearing. These included H. H. Vreeland, President of the New York City Railway; Douglas Robinson, one of the Federal receivers of that company; J. J. Corbiere, Vice President of the Morton Trust Company; Charles A. Conant, ex-Vice President of the Morton Trust, and Treasurer Warren of the New York City Railway. Foreman Edward Cuddihy of the Grand Jury, which has been investigating traction matters, was also in the room for a short time to tell the counsel for the complainants that certain records of the Metropolitan Street Railway which have been subpoenaed in this case are at their disposal, so far as the Grand Jury is concerned.

Proceedings Delayed by Counsel.

In the matter of these records opposing counsel came into conflict at the beginning of the hearing, and between the lawyers and the disposition of Mr. Ryan to take a hand in the proceedings there was little peace for Justice Young. The attorney for the complainants remarked at the beginning of the hearing that he had noticed a peculiar circumstance, in that every time he wanted to subpoena any paper or book from the receivers of the New York City and Metropolitan Street Railways he found that it had already been called for by the Grand Jury, and was accordingly beyond the jurisdiction of the receivers.

"Perhaps," said he, "this is only fortuitous, but it is strange nevertheless. The Grand Jury is through with its Metropolitan investigation now and the District Attorney cannot possibly want these books, even if he ever did want them for the Grand Jury investigation."

Attorney Brown of Mr. Nicoll's office, acting as spokesman for the receivers, for the time being, declared that the complainant ought to get an order from Judge Lacombe of the United States Circuit Court for each particular paper required of the receivers in this action. The attorneys for the plaintiff could not agree to this proposal.

There was no let-up in the disputes when Mr. Ryan took the witness stand; in fact the session grew livelier, because the witness took an active part in the proceedings. Counsel for the complainant sought to show that Mr. Ryan was intimately connected with the affairs of the surface street railroads down to and including the merger of the Metropolitan and the Interborough systems. He asked him what part he had in the negotiations leading up to the merger of January, 1906, and Mr. Ryan, after the objections of his counsel had been overruled, testified that his part consisted of agreeing to put his stock of the surface systems into the merger upon certain terms.

"Whom did you meet in those negotiations?" Mr. Ryan was asked. There came another protest from Mr. Nicoll, which was again overruled.

"I met very few people," said Mr. Ryan, "I met Mr. Belmont once or twice, and also Mr. Freedman."

"In the interviews with Mr. Belmont," demanded the counsel for the complainant, "was the condition of the Metropolitan Street Railway property discussed?"

"No," replied the witness.

"And was it discussed with Mr. Freedman?"

"No, the negotiations were principally between Mr. Freedman and Mr. Cravath."

"So you left the matter to your agents?"

"I had no agents," said Mr. Ryan sharply. "I was only in the matter as a stockholder."

"But," said the plaintiff's counsel, "Mr. Belmont has testified here that you were the only person he looked to in the situation. Is that correct?"

"I can't help what Belmont testified to," said Mr. Ryan. "So far as I was concerned the whole thing was settled in five minutes. He made an offer for my stock, and I accepted the proposition, and then turned it over to my counsel. I was the largest individual stockholder of the securities in this system."

"You were the largest individual stockholder of what stock?" counsel inquired. Mr. Ryan leaned forward and shook a long forefinger over the rail in front of the witness chair.

"I refuse to give you my private holdings for your purposes."

This started another dispute among the lawyers, and finally Mr. Ryan said that the matter did not amount to anything anyway, but Mr. Nicoll would not let him answer at that time. It came out subsequently in Mr. Ryan's testimony that he converted a large part of his Metropolitan Street Railway stock into Metropolitan Securities stock, following the lease of Feb. 14, 1902, by which the Metropolitan Street Railway was leased for 999 years to the New York City Railway.

Counsel for the complainant sought from time to time to pin the witness down to an admission of knowledge in regard to specific items in the balance sheets of the New York City Railway that are complained of, but Mr. Ryan in these instances replied either that he had no knowltdge whatever of the matters referred to, such as holdings of securities and value of improvements made on leased lines, or else declared that he was informed only by the officials of the companies in the system. Mr. Ryan tried a half dozen times to state that he retired from active connection with traction affairs in 1893, resuming such a relation again about the time of the negotiations leading up to the lease of 1902, but counsel for the plaintiff always cut him off to avoid becoming bound by Mr. Ryan's denials of the fact which the plaintiffs were trying to establish, namely, that the witness was the controlling factor in traction affairs from beginning to end.

Ryan Anxious to Make a Statement.

Mr. Ryan laughed when this theory was propounded and said that he thought he had an opportunity to correct some mistaken impressions while he was on the stand. He was asked, however, to wait until his cross-examination for this. He said that the first conversation he had about the lease of 1902 was with Otto H. Kahn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and that his interest at that time in the property came as the result of having advanced to it $5,000,000 personally and of having put $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 more of borrowings from banks and trust companies into it. Mr. Ryan said that Mr. Whitney was the active man with Mr. Vreeland and the Philadelphia contingent on behalf of the Metropolitan Street Railway at this time. When he was pressed about his own connection with the merger he declared to the examining counsel:

"You know very well who was the directing and guiding spirit. You needn't ask me that, for you know."

On the basis of the testimony which Mr. Ryan had given in the Wormser suit in 1903 he was asked and admitted that he had substantial holdings of Metropolitan Street Railway stock up to that time.

"Did you have a substantial interest in this stock in 1906?" was the next question. Mr. Nicoll entered an objection, but was overrruled, and Mr. Ryan then replied that he transformed a large part of his Metropolitan Street Railway stock into Metropolitan Securities stock after the lease of 1902, but he said at the time of the merger his holdings did not stand in his name, nor would their extent appear on his books. Mr. Ryan did not even remember how extensive they were at that time.

Mr. Ryan dclared that his purpose in going into the Metropolitan Securities transaction was to put the surface lines on their feet, and that he then estimated that there were $53,000,000 of cash assets behind the lease in the shape of the money actually paid for the Metropolitan Securities stock, franchises, and various stocks and bonds.

"What interest had Kuhn, Loeb & Co. personally in the $53,000,000?" Mr. Ryan was asked.

"They were to take $6,500,000 of the amount," he replied.

"And were you to take a large interest in that subscription?"

"I was obliged to take $750,000."

"And you subsequently acquired a large interest in the Metropolitan Securities stock?" asked counsel for the complainant, referring to the sale to Mr. Ryan of what was left of the Kuhn, Loeb holdings in 1903.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Was that taken at the requirement of Mr. Schiff?"

"No, Sir," said Mr. Ryan, "nor at the demand of Mr. Schiff, nor of anybody else." The financier again leaned forward and emphasized his testimony with an outstretched first.

"Was it bought in the market?"

"No, Sir," said Mr. Ryan, "it was bought from the old Kuhn, Loeb syndicate."

As soon as the financier had taken the stand, when counsel for the complainant sought to trace the membership of Mr. Ryan in the Directorates of the different traction companies, De Lancey Nicoll jumped up and started the first of a series of speeches.

"Look at it, your Honor," he cried; "look at it. Here are three shares, and ten shares of this stock, and is your Honor going to allow them to go into the private affairs of all these defendants on any such proposition? It is monstrous, monstrous."

Counsel for the complainant said he proposed to show that the voting Trustees of the Interborough Metropolitan Company, one of whom is Mr. Ryan, control the entire system and all its affairs.

"And if all that is shown," retorted Mr. Nicoll, "what does it prove—that these Voting Trustees instructed the New York City Railway Directors to make false reports?"

"Exactly," rejoined the other lawyer, "that they instructed and directed them to make false reports for their own ulterior purposes."

Counsel for the complainant pressed Mr. Rryan further to know what offices he had held in the traction system, and finally provoked a sharp retort from the witness.

"You ought to know a good deal about it," declared Mr. Ryan, "you and your partner, for you did some work for us some time ago."

"That's a long time ago," said counsel for the complainant.

"It was a long time ago that I was active," responded Mr. Ryan. "I brought your partner, Mr. Chandler, here and put him into business.

Mr. Nicholl again interrupted and wanted counsel for the other side to get down to the particular reports in question, and asked Mr. Ryan what he knew about them.

"Yes," said the witness, "ask me about those reports and I'll give you some information."

The complainant's counsel interrupted him.

"I ask that your Honor will admonish the witness," he said.

"Oh, I know what I am fighting," retorted Mr. Ryan. "I know what I am fighting, and I submit and ask your Honor if I am not entitled to tell about these reports. I'll tell you how we started the system. You ask me that. I'll stay here for a month if necessary, only go ahead with something."

The counsel for the complainant, however, wanted to go on in his way.

"At this point," he said, "I—"

"I object," said Mr. Nicoll. "Won't you please be as expeditious as possible?"

"I am trying to," said the complainant's counsel.

"And won't you say how long you will require this witness?"

"About two days," said the other lawyer.

Then all the counsel for the defense were on their feet together with more objections, and the morning session wound up with nothing more tangible than the recital of several additional things that Mr. Ryan in his function as stockholder did not remember.

The case will go on this morning with Mr. Ryan still on the witness stand.

Long Island Subway Jubilee in June.

Long Islanders propose holding a three day jubilee at Jamaica on June 4, 5, and 6 to celebrate the opening of the subway connecting Jamaica with Manhattan in 25 minutes and also show their approval of the project to build more subways on the installment plan, including the proposed one in Jamaica Avenue. The celebration will be really a big affair. There will be auto and military and civic parades, balloon ascensions, open-air opera, and pyrotechnices at night.

Welfare

Here is a word that means something now that it never meant before. It describes a department in business whose value is not reckoned in Arabic numerals. The Welfare Departments of big corporations attempt to make life pleasanter for the employees in ways which are not nominated in the bond. Sometimes these experiments succeed; sometimes they are ghastly failures, disgusting the men and souring the employer. It all depends.

In the same issue of THE POST read "How They Make Ends Meet in New York," by Will Payne, and an article by Arthur Train, "Con Men Abroad," in which he recounts the interesting experience of an American who was too strong to work, amid the unsympathy of the Old World.

MRS. L. S. BERNHEIMER SUES FOR FREEDOM

Declares That Her Husband Was Jealous and Cruel on Wedding Trip.

ACCUSED HER OF FLIRTING

Affidavit Demanding a Separation Says Husband Struck Her—He Denies Charges.

It became known yesterday that Mrs. Selma Bernheimer, a daughter of Maurice J. Kraus of 28 West Seventy-sixth Street, has begun an action for a separation from her husband, Lorin S. Bernheimer, of the firm of Jacob S. Bernheimer & Brothers, wholesale cotton goods manufacturers, of 51 White Street, and that on March 2 last Supreme Court Justice McCall directed Mr. Bernheimer to pay his wife $250 a month alimony and $500 counsel fee pending the trial of the action. Mr. Bernheimer is now living at the Plaza. His wife is staying with her parents. Both are closely related to prominent Jewish families and are well known in society.

Mrs. Bernheimer, who is not yet of age, brings the action through her father, Mr. Kraus, who was appointed her guardian by the court for the purpose. She is very beautiful, and her début three years ago was a feature of the season in Jewish society. In her complaint she sets forth that she was married on Jan. 15, 1906, and that there is no issue of the marriage. She charges her husband with cruel and inhuman treatment and also with threatening her life.

Mrs. Bernheimer's affidavit says that while on their wedding tour, on Jan. 17, 1906, on a train between Chicago and Colorado Springs Bernheimer became ill. She called a physician, the affidavit says, and when he came her husband shouted so that every one in the car could hear him that she was trying to poison him. They arrived at Colorado Springs on Jan. 18, and went to the Antler Hotel, where they stayed a week. During that time, she says, her husband would never allow her to leave his room for an instant, and he also accused her of trying to flirt with men.

From Colorado Springs they went to San Francisco, and Mrs. Bernheimer says that while there "he would scold me if I looked at any person, and was so jealous that he would not allow me to leave him for a moment.

"On June 6, 1906, while at Watkins Glen, N. Y.," the affidavit continues, "my husband locked me in his room, struck me, accusing me of misconduct and threatening my life. After that incident, fearing bodily harm, and on my physician's advice, I went to my father's home, where I became ill with nervous prostration."

Mrs. Bernheimer says that in May, 1907, while she was under treatment from Dr. Henry Herman of 937 Madison Avenue at her father's home, "defendant came into my room and asked if I was going to live with him. I said I was afraid to live with him." Then, Mrs. Bernheimer says, he abused her, using violent language, and accused her of being in love with another man.

"On June 11, 1907," Mrs. Bernheimer says, "I went to my parents' country home at Deal Beach, N. J. While there my husband visited me and again asked me to live with him. I repeated that I was afraid to, and he abused me, my father, and my grandfather, Meyer Homberger. Up to July 15 he called a dozen times and repeated his conduct."

Mrs. Bernheimer says she went to Europe with her aunt, Mrs. James Stern, sailing on July 15. Before sailing, and in the presence of her grandfather, father, and sister, Viola Kraus, her husband called her a liar, and accused her of loving another man.

"He then seized me by the arm," continues the affidavit, "and raised his hand to strike me, when my father and grandfather interfered."

Mrs. Bernheimer says her husband threatened to follow her to Europe by the next steamship, and that to pacify him she sent him cable messages and wrote to him.

"I returned to New York on Oct. 15, 1907," Mrs. Bernheimer says. "The same evening my husband came to my father's house, and ordered my grandfather and father from the room, but I appealed to my father to stay as I was afraid. He abused my father, who called Peyton Penn, the butler, and my uncle, James Stern, to put him out. He repeated his vile language to my uncle, and with the assistance of the butler he was induced to leave the house."

Mrs. Bernheimer says her husband repeatedly told her he was worth $500,000, and that his income was $40,000 a year. Since she left him on June 7, 1906, she says all she had received from him was $1,500 and $3,000 for the expenses of the trip to Europe.

Affidavits corroborating Mrs. Bernheimer's version of her domestic troubles were submitted to the court, subscribed to by Maurice J. Kraus, her father; Peyton Penn, the butler; Meyer Homberger, her grandfather; James Stern of 8 West Seventieth Street, her uncle, and Dr. Henry Herman. Hays & Hershfield of 115 Broadway are counsel for Mrs. Bernheimer.

Through his attorneys, Nicoll, Anable, Lindsay & Fuller of 31 Nassau Street, Bernheimer has filed an affidavit making a general denial of his wife's charges. After detailing their movements on the wedding trip, the affidavit says:

"During the four months we lived together we were happy. We were inseparable. We had no quarrels until I became ill, and went to Watkins Glen. I did everything possible for my wife's comfort and pleasure, and she reciprocated by giving me her love and affection. We then agreed to live apart until I recovered my health."

Mr. Bernheimer then deals separately with each of his wife's allegations, denying them all. Regarding the European trip, Bernheimer says that his wife begged him to send her to Europe. He agreed cheerfully, and paid $650 for her stateroom. He saw her off at the pier, where she kissed him and assured him of her love. On the trip, he says, she sent him many cable messages in endearing terms. While she was away he took a suite at the Plaza, and cabled her to return. The first he knew of any trouble, he says, was when Mr. Hershfield, her lawyer, telephoned him that his wife would never live with him again.

His income for the past ten years, Mr. Bernheimer says, has averaged $20,000 a year. He is appealing from the order directing him to pay alimony, and the case will be argued in the Appellate Division next Friday.

ORR QUITS NEW YORK LIFE.

Retires from the Directorate on Account of Failing Health.

Alexander E. Orr, who for several years was a Director of the New York Life Insurance Company, retired yesterday, and William R. Innis was elected to succeed him. Clarence H. Mackay also retired as a Director. The vacancy caused by his resignation was filled by the election of Royland G. Hazard of Peacedale, R. I.

The election was held at the office of the company, in this city, and the administration ticket was unanimously elected. Ten of the old board were re-elected, Messrs. Innis and Hazard being the only two new Directors.

The retiring Directors who were re-elected were Thomas F. Fowler, A. Barton Hepburn, Woodbury Langdon, Henry C. Mortimer, and Elbridge G. Snow of this city; John E. Andrus of Yonkers, Julius Fleischmann of Cincinnati, Granger A. Hollister of Rochester, Robert J. Lowry of Atlanta, and William B. Plunkett of Adams, Mass.

Mr. Orr's retirement was due to ill-health. He was elected President of the company after John A. McCall resigned from that office and served until the election of Darwin P. Kingsley.

CATHOLIC JUBILEE WEEK.

New York Diocese to Celebrate Its Hundredth Year, Beginning April 26.

The New York Diocese of the Roman Catholic Church was a hundred years old yesterday, the diocese before 1808 was a mission governed from Baltimore. Both laity and clergy will hold a series of celebrations later in April which will begin with a mass of thanksgiving and end with a May day parade. The week commencing April 26 has been set aside for the various celebrations.

On Sunday morning, April 26, a mass of thanksgiving for a century of work will be said in every Catholic church, mission, chapel, convent, and institution in the city. This is also the day set aside by Archbishop Farley for general parochial rejoicing.

On April 28 there will be special thanksgiving services in the Cathedral, in which two Cardinals and the Papal Delegate, Mgr. Falconio, will take part. Wednesday, April 29, will be children's day, when delegations of children from all parts of the city will assemble in the Cathedral for thanksgiving services. On the evening of the same day there will be a meeting in Carnegie Hall, at which former Justice Morgan J. O'Brien will preside.

On Thursday, April 30, a requiem mass will be said in the Cathedral for the deceased Bishops and priests of the diocese. In the evening the Catholic Club will give a reception to out-of-town prelates. On Saturday, May 2, a May day parade, in which it is expected that some 50,000 laymen will march, will close the week of celebration.

JUNGLE FOLK WILD ON SHIP.

Probably the most frightened passengers on the Hamburg American liner Pretoria in the days when she was storm-tossed and before she put into Halifax short of coal were the animals which reposed between decks. The vessel had a large cargo of them, and during the storm they made life miserable in the forward part of the ship.

The collection included a six-year-old African lion, 5 leopards from Calcutta, 4 hyenas, 300 monkeys and 300 large snakes from India and Africa. The bird consigment was made up of 5,000 canaries from the Hartz Mountains, 1,000 Javanese sparrows, 50 English doves, and 50 Indian quail.

When the storm raged all the animals and birds howled and screeched until the racket was deafening. All were in wooden cages, and when the ship lurched the cages would be shifted and sometimes crash into each other. The collection was consigned to Louis Ruhe, an animal dealer in this city.

The Pretoria sailed from Hamburg on March 21, and met with continuous gales and terrific seas which delayed her so that she used up most of her coal trying to make progress against the seas and wind. On Sunday the liner put into Halifax short of coal and five days late. She arrived here yesterday.

On March 24, Dora Giliar, a young woman in the second cabin, jumped overboard and was lost. Despondency over an unfortunate love affair is said to have been the cause of her act.

VIDAVER CASE UP.

His Counsel Argues for the Dismissal of Extortion Indictments.

Arthur C. Palmer, counsel for Nathan Vidaver, arguing yesterday before Judge Crain in the Court of General Sessions on the demurrer filed against the indictments of the Grand Jury charging his client with attempting to extort $15,000 from William R. Montgomery, contended that the indictments were invalid because the threats used in extorting the money were not named.

Mr. Palmer challenged Assistant District Attorney Kresel to detail the threats. He said that unless the explicit nature of the threats was set forth in the indictments they should be dismissed.

Judge Crain asked the Assistant District Attorney and Mr. Palmer to hand in briefs by April 17. Vidaver was present during the argument.

WOUNDED HEART HEALING.

Yonkers Athlete Likely to Live After Stabbing and Sewing Operation.

Robert Inglis, the young athlete who has been in St. Joseph's Hospital, in Yonkers, since 2 o'clock Sunday morning with three stitches in his heart, was reported last evening to be greatly improved apparently. He told the physicians he felt very little pain in his heart, which his assailant's knife had penetrated, and this was taken as an indication that the wound is healing.

His case is now looked upon by medical men as one of the most remarkable in the history of the profession. The record before this case was that of a woman who lived eighteen hours after a similar operation.

Bermel to Sail for Italy April 30.

Joseph Bermel, Borough President of Queens, is to sail for Italy on April 30. He had originally planned to sail April 17, but owing to the many rumors since the Grand Jury preferred removal charges against him in connection with the Kissena Park scandal, he has been led to change the date, although the other members of the party who intend making a pilgrimage to Rome will leave on the date scheduled. Commissioner of Public Works Lawrence Gresser will take charge of the administration during Mr. Bermel's absence.

BOY ARTIST'S WORK HUNG ON THE LINE

Davidson After a Hard Struggle Wins a Place in Academy Exhibition.

HE IS NOT YET NINETEEN

In the Vanderbilt Gallery of the National Academy of Design, at 215 West Fifty-seventh Street, where the Eighty-third Annual Exhibition of the National Academy of Design is being held, there hangs a small landscape called "Evening Shadows," behind which is the story of a foreign-born boy's struggle for recognition in the art world of this country.

The painter of the picture, which hangs next to John La Farge's big canvas, "The Wolf Tamer," is George Davidson of 5 St. Mark's Place. Davidson was born in Russia eighteen years ago. Two years ago he came to New York from Hartford, Conn., and being poor and without influential friends, went to work in the shop of a crayon artist. He worked hard drawing draperies that served as backgrounds for the crayon artist's portraits. Then, when the day's work was done, the boy went to his hall bedroom, and tried to master the work in oil.

The crayon artist soon realized that the boy who helped him for so small remuneration was destined for something better. He advised him to send some of his drawings to the Art Students' League and apply for admission as a night student.

Davidson followed the suggestion and sent some of his drawings to the league. In a few days he received word that his drawings showed merit, and that if he so desired he could attend the night classes.

Davidson continued to work for the crayon artist, and from early morning until 6 o'clock in the evening he drew clothes and draperies for the crayon pictures. At 7 he was at work in the Art Students' League. Soon the boy got a better job, but he continued to study and paint by night.

A few weeks ago a friend suggested to Davidson that he should send one of his landscapes to this year's exhibition of the Academy of Design. He did so and the picture was hung on the line.

Last night a TIMES reporter found Davidson in the shop of a friend in Third Avenue, near St. Mark's Place. He was reticent about his career.

"Of course I have no rich backers," he said. "It is true that I worked in the crayon business, and it is true that I was born in Russia, but it is not true that I am only 18 years old. I am nearly 19. I don't know what part of Russia I was born in. As for my work, I hope I have made some progress. The future will tell. At any rate, I am not going to blow my own horn just yet."

It was about 6:30 o'clock then, and the young man stopped talking and started for the Subway. He was on his way to night school.

HAFFEN SUES FOR LIBEL.

Asks $100,000 from J. P. Mitchel and a Newspaper for Charging Graft.

Borough President Haffen of the Bronx has brought suit for libel against Commissioner of Accounts John Purroy Mitchel, asking $100,000 damages and naming the Press Publishing Company, publishers of The Evening World, as co-defendants. The suit is based on a statement alleged to have been given out for publication by Mr. Mitchel, and declared by the Borough President to be libelous.

In the summons and complaint, which were served on Mr. Mitchel yesterday, Mr. Haffen asserts "that the defendant intended and meant by said published article that, while the plaintiff was acting in his official capacity as President of the Borough of the Bronx, he had wrongfully permitted and connived at a fraudulent proceeding conducted and carried out by his friends."

When asked if he had any comment to make on the matter, Mr. Mitchel said: "I don't know why I should. The matter is of no special importance to me."

Mr. Mitchel and his co-defendant have twenty days in which to answer the complaint.

Wanmaker Appoints a Secretary.

George W. Wanmaker, Appraiser of the Port, yesterday announced the appointment of William S. Borchers as his private secretary, with compensation at $2,500 a year, in place of Dell A. Baker, recently transferred to the Collector's office as private secretary. Mr. Borchers has been a resident of the Eleventh Assembly District for more than thirty years.

SPLIT AMONG CUSTOMS MEN.

Their Benefit Association Divided Over the Administrative Policies.

Serious differences of opinion have arisen among the members of the Mutual Benefit Association of Customs Employes of New York regarding the manner of holding elections and with some of the administrative policies as conducted at the present time by the officers and Trustees of the organization.

The association was formed three years ago with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury and Collector of the Port to provide for families left destitute by the deaths of the members. Although the association has been in existence only three years, a benefit fund of $25,000 has accumulated, while the membership includes 1,500 customs officers and employes of all departments and grades in the local service.

The annual meeting and election of officers were to have occurred last Saturday, but, although the meeting was held, the opposition element, numbering approximately 300, succeeded in amending the constitution changing the method of balloting for officers. The election will, therefore, not take place until June.

The controversy between the conflicting elements has reduced itself to a test of strength between the supporters of the present administration and the adherents of a less liberal policy in the payment of premiums and salaries.

TOOK PRISONER TO FUNERAL.

Deputies Escorted Alleged Robber to Services for His Father.

The white-haired mother of John Kelly, who is locked up in the Tombs on a charge of highway robbery, gained admission to the Judges' Chamber yesterday, and, trembling with anxiety lest she be refused, begged Judge Foster to allow her son to attend the funeral of his father, who died on Tuesday night.

She said the boy had never done serious wrong before, and never would again, and told how her husband had longed to look upon his son in his last illness. The Judge consented. Kelly went with his mother and two deputies to his home, where the funeral services were held. Then he came back to prison to await trial.

On March 29, Kelly, with an accomplice named George Kelly, is accused of holding up and robbing a night watchman named Michael Kelly in East 129th Street.

TERRORIST NOT WANTED HERE

Case of Walter Uppit, Held for Deportation, Referred to Washington.

The case of Walter Uppit, who was arrested by the United States authorities after his discharge in the Jefferson Market Court, was put up yesterday to the Commissioner of Commerce and Labor, at Washington, for a decision.

Uppit was one of several aliens taken into custody after the bomb explosion in Union Square. It is alleged that he is an Anarchist and a member of the Russian Terrorists. It would be difficult for the immigration officials to prove his belief in anarchy so his deportation is sought on the ground that he unlawfully entered the country. He is alleged to have come here on a foreign vessel and then deserted.

Uppit is now on Ellis Island.

HAITIANS WANT US TO GOVERN THEM

MOVING FOR INTERVENTION

PORT AU PRINCE, April 8.—There is reason to believe measures are being taken in this city to force if possible the intervention of the United States.

At the moment apparent tranquillity prevails, but there is good authority for the statement that hostility against he present Haitian Government is growing intense.

It is rumored—and the rumor finds wide credence—that those who are opposed to the present Government, including the better classes of Haitians, contemplate a movement which will bring matters to a crisis within a very short time. The report runs that they will take advantage of the presence in the harbor of the United States warships and make an armed demonstration not in the expectation of overthrowing the Government, but in the hope of precipitating a landing of marines, and, following this, American intervention.

A prominent Haitian official, who is highly esteemed in the foreign colony, said to-day:

"At present conditions here are intolerable, and it is impossible that they can continue beyond a few days. Prompt intervention on the part of the United States or some other power is the only means of avoiding a condition of absolute anarchy.

"The Haitian people are not able to maintain a stable government. The better educated of them realize this, and they would gladly accept provisional American control, if only as a guarantee of protection of life and property.

"I do not believe that there exists a single Haitian capable of exercising constitutional control as President. The present Government is merely a military dictatorship, perpetuating its power through sheer terrorism."

DENIALS FROM MRS. McKEE.

Sharp Contradictions of Charges Made in the Divorce Proceedings.

PARIS, April 8.—The hearing of the McKee divorce suit was continued to-day. The suit is brought by Mrs. McKee, formerly Mrs. Hugh Tevis, against A. Hart McKee, her husband. The first hearing took place March 4, and Mrs. McKee, through counsel, described at that time alleged indignities to which she had been subjected by her husband. Mr. McKee retaliated two weeks later by bringing scandalous counter-charges against his wife through Maître Labori.

To-day Maître Barboux, on behalf of Mrs. McKee, conducted the pleading in rebuttal. The Italian nobleman, whom it is alleged Mrs. McKee met at a chateau in Varennes was identified as the Marquis Guglieni. M. Barboux denied Mr. McKee's allegation with respect to this nobleman, and offered to produce testimony in support of this denial. He declared the real object of the defense was not to furnish information to the French court, but to besmirch Mrs. McKee's reputation in America and secure the publication there of certain letters she had written to her husband.

In order further to demonstrate the animus of Mr. McKee, Maître Barboux advanced to the bar, so that the people in the courtroom could not hear him, and read to the Judge a translation of the secret code words used in the letters between the couple.

In conclusion, counsel for Mrs. McKee gave Mr. McKee a severe arraignment, saying that he would have only himself to blame if his friends turned their backs upon him when he returned to America.

"This man," M. Barboux declared, "has failed to comprehend that in insulting his former wife he also insults the mother of his child."

Maître Labori for Mr. McKee will reply to-morrow. The court will hand down its decision after April 19.

ASQUITH NOW PREMIER.

King Edward Appoints Him to Succeed Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman.

LONDON, April 8.—The vacancy in the office of Prime Minister of Great Britain caused by the resignation last Sunday of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman on account of ill-health was filled this morning at Biarritz at the meeting there between King Edward and Herbert H. Asquith. Mr. Asquith first tendered to his Majesty his resignation as Chancellor of the Exchequer and immediately thereafter he kissed the hand of the King on his appointment to the post of Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury.

It is officially announced that King Edward will leave Biarritz April 15 in order to hold a Privy Council in London April 16. The new Ministry probably will have its first audience of the King on that occasion, as it is understood Mr. Asquith was able to submit a list of his main appointments to his Majesty during the audience of this morning. The new Premier is expected in London Friday.

The latest gossip points to the retirement of Lord Loreburn, Lord High Chancellor, who, it is understood, does not stand very high in the estimation of Mr. Asquith, and the appointment of R. B. Haldane, Secretary of State for War, to this post with the peerage attachment. It is known that Mr. Haldane is ready to leave the War Office.

In the event of Mr. Haldane going to the upper house, Winston Churchill, Under Secretary of the Colonial Office, will most likely get the War Office, which would be much more congenial to him than the Presidency of the Board of Trade.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

RIO JANEIRO, April 8.—There was serious rioting yesterday in the City of Campos. It seems that the railroad has maintained exorbitant rates on freight in and out of Campos and has thus aroused the indignation of the people. Last evening the people descended upon the railroad property and set fire to the two stations, thirty cars, and several warehouses. They then destroyed the railroad bridge over the Parahiba River.

BERLIN, April 8.—The emigration from Germany via Hamburg for the quarter ended March 31 was 24,000, as against 103,589 for the corresponding term of last year.

PARIS, April 8.—Minister of Labor Viviani received in audience to-day a delegation of leather manufacturers and workmen who are about to leave Paris for the United States to investigate the improved methods employed in the American leather tanning industry.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 8.—The Council of Empire to-day adopted without discussion the bill to raise the Russian Legation at Tokio to an embassy. This bill already has passed the Duma.

HAMBURG, April 8.—The Syndicate Navigation Company has decided to begin a monthly service between Hamburg and Havana, Vera Cruz, and Tampico, Mexico, at considerably reduced rates in opposition to the Ocean Steamship Company of Flensburg, which recently entered the West Indian trade and gradually increased the number of steamers in this service to twelve.

To Clear the Way to Widen Fifth Av.

At Friday's meeting of the Board of Estimate a resolution will be introduced by Controller Metz to have all permits issued to Fifth Avenue property owners for stoops vaults, areas, porticos, and other projections over the house line, revoked. If it passes, as it probably will, the Corporation Counsel will begin proceedings to have all stoops and other projections removed by Jan. 1, so that the proposed widening of the avenue can be begun.

FIGHTING AGAINST JAPAN.

Chinese Merchants' Guild Stoutly Supporting Boycott Movement.

HONGKONG, April 8.—The Chinese Merchants' Guild has decided to cable its agents at Japanese ports not to place any more orders of Japanese goods and to ship goods already ordered in vessels other than Japanese.

Dealers in Chinese piece goods are joining in the boycott against the Japanese, which arose as a result of the Tatsu Maru incident.

ARMY OF TRADE SEEKERS.

200 Representatives of Illinois Manufacturers to Invade Far East.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Two hundred members of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, the strongest commercial delegation that ever has been sent out of this country, will go to Japan, China, and other Eastern countries within the next six months to work for the extension of American trade.

The committee will go to the Pacific Coast in a special train, and will be transported to Japan in a special steamer—the first of a new line of steamships that will ply between this country and the Orient.

Accompanying the delegation will be several diplomats from the Department of State, who will be able to post the manufacturers upon the niceties of court etiquette and Oriental procedure.

It is the intention of the committee to call upon the Emperor of China and the Emperor of Japan, to visit Korea and the Philippines, and to lose sight of no opportunity for the furtherance of American trade in the Far East.

SCANDAL IN FRENCH ARMY.

Rations Sent to Frontier Garrisons Unclean and Unfit to Eat.

PARIS, April 8.—It is believed that a great scandal in the Commissary Department of the French Army has been discovered and developments are awaited with keen interest.

It was learned recently that rations sent to some of the garrisons on the Eastern frontier were unfit for consumption. Minister of War Picquart at once issued orders by telegraph that the supplies of food delivered by certain contractors be seized at every garrison and sent to Paris for microscopic examination. That much of this food was unclean and unfit to eat already has been established, and the investigation is being continued.

PRINCE MAKES CHAIR LEGS.

Kaiser's Heir Becoming Expert Wood Turner—Lathe in His Bedroom.

BERLIN, April 8.—Crown Prince Frederick William, following the requirement of the House of Hohenzollern that each Prince shall be skilled in some trade, is becoming an adept in wood turning.

He astonished his suite yesterday by ordering that a lathe be set up in one of his bedrooms and to-day he spent the morning turning out chair legs. He worked at the machine in his shirtsleeves, and when the electricity failed he summoned an adjutant to help him turn the lathe. The adjutant also was in his shirtsleeves, and the two men alternated in driving the machine.

DE SAGAN'S COUSIN A PAUPER.

Charity Patient in Omaha Calls Prince and Count Boni His Relations.

OMAHA, Neb., April 8.—Baron Henry Louis de Ginzberg, who asserts that he is a cousin of Count Boni de Castellane and Prince Helie de Sagan, has been sent to the county hospital and placed in a charity ward. The county authorities were unable until to-day to learn his real identity. Baron de Ginzberg asserts that he lost $3,000,000 as a result of the Boer war.

KANSAS CITY, April 8.—Henry Louis de Ginzberg lived in Kansas City two years before going to Omaha. Little attention was paid here to his assertion that he was a Baron. He had a tailoring shop in an out-of-the-way place. He was arrested for creating a disturbance at the home of Webster Davis, formerly First Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

RIVAL WINS; SEEKS HIS RING.

Unsuccessful Suitor Pursues Miss Mullhall with Writ to Recover Solitaire

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 8.—A Deputy Sheriff late to-day served a writ of replevin for the return of a solitaire diamond ring upon Miss Lucille Mullhall, a young horsewoman. The writ was issued this morning at the instigation of Price M. Taylor, formerly a passenger agent for the Southern Railroad. Mr. Taylor told the Judge who issued the writ that he was afraid he would lose the ring unless he recovered it at once, since he heard that Miss Mullhall was engaged to be married to a rival.

Miss Mullhall is the twenty-year-old daughter of Col. Zack Mullhall of the "101" ranch in Oklahoma. Her daring horsemanship feats in broncho busting and skill with the lariat have attracted widespread attention. Both the President and his daughter, Mrs. Longworth, have visited at the ranch, and Miss Mullhall has been a guest at the White House.

POLICE ADMIT AUTO RIDE.

Two Patrolmen Deny They Were Breaking the Speed Law, Though.

Policemen Helm and Hunt, two of the five policemen who Sergt. Casey, head of the Motor Cycle Squad, alleged were riding in the automobile driven by Norman H. Scholle of 9 East Seventy-sixth Street, which he stopped on Tuesday night for speeding in Broadway, admitted last night that they had been in the car.

"We appeared before Commissioner Bugher this morning," the men said last night, "and told him the true story, which was, that after being off duty after the automobile carnival, we took a ride in the machine. But at no time was our car going more than ten miles an hour. We were not speeding at thirty miles an hour, as Sergt. Casey has said."

On Casey's testimony, however, Scholle was held in the West Side Court for trial. He told Magistrate Wahle that he was speeding because his passengers told him that they were policemen and that he need fear nothing.

Ruef Must Stand Trial.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 8.—The application of Abraham Ruef for a writ of mandamus and prohibition to prevent his trial on a charge of bribery before Judge Maurice T. Dooling, on the ground of alleged prejudice was to-day denied by the Supreme Court sitting in this city.

Jesup Memorial Library Presented.

WESTPORT, Conn., April 8.—Formal dedication and the presentation of the Jesup Memorial Library, given to the town of Westport by the late Morris K. Jesup of New York in memory of his parents, occurred this afternoon, Mrs. Jesup, widow of the donor turning the building over to the town, and John E. Parsons of New York, a personal friend of Mr. Jesup, making the presentation speech. Gov. Woodruff delivered an address. The library cost about $75,000.

A PICTORIAL TREAT.

The Pictorial Section of THE NEW YORK TIMES, already noted for its attractiveness and beauty, will be unusually handsome and interesting next Sunday. The first page will contain notable portraits of the Duchess of Marlborough and Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay. The centre pages will be devoted to a view of the scene at the Waldorf-Astoria at the dinner in honor of Mrs. Humphry Ward. This is a most remarkable reproduction—four hundred faces are plainly distinguishable. Order in advance, to-day, in order to be sure of getting a copy from your newsdealer.—Adv.

AMERICANS AFTER BIG BALLOON PRIZE

Lieut. Lahm and J. C. McCoy to Contest in Eight-Nation Competition in Berlin.

NEW STUDY OF AEROPLANES

Cortlandt Field Bishop Sails To-day to Report on Them to New Navigation Department of Aero Club.

Cortlandt Field Bishop, President of the Aero Club of America, will sail for Europe to-day on the French Line steamer Provence. He intends to make some long automobile trips and dabble a little in his special hobby of ballooning before returning home, which will not be until after the big international contest for the Gordon Bennett Cup in Berlin on Oct. 11.

"Let it be distinctly understood that no expense or effort will be spared to enable the American team to bring back the cup which was won by Lieut. Frank P. Lahm in the first race in 1906," said Mr. Bishop. "We are going to have a strong team, Lieut. Lahm and J. C. McCoy having just been nominated by the club as two of its members. We know who we want for the third man, but he is as yet undecided about being able to go. Every member of the team will have new balloons, and Mr. McCoy will probably have his built in Paris.

"Twenty-seven balloons, representing eight nations, have been entered for this year's race, and it will surely be the hardest-fought event of its kind seen in Europe. While I am very hopeful for America, my impartial opinion is that the French and German balloonists will make the stiffest fight for the cup. Berlin is noted for its variable winds, and it would not be surprising to see the balloons come down in all quarters of the Continent."

Mr. Bishop, with Mr. McCoy and Frank P. Lahm, both of whom are now in Paris, will be the delegates from the Aero Club of America to the International Aeronautic Congress in London on May 28 to 30. An international balloon race has been planned for the closing day, and Mr. Bishop said it was Mr. McCoy's intention to enter, probably being the only American competitor.

"I am going to make a special study of the aeroplane flights in Paris this season," said Mr. Bishop, "so that I may make a complete report of the progress in building and flying heavier than air machines abroad. The Aero Club will devote special attention to this phase of aeronautics in a new navigation department, but it is a mistake to assume that the club will abandon old-fashioned ballooning."

Mr. Bishop said that grounds had already been offered to the club on Staten Island, and the special committee, of which Albert Triaca is Chairman, at a meeting yesterday to discuss methods of work, decided to visit the proposed site within the next few days. Offers of land on Long Island have also been made. Mr. Bishop stated that Col. John Jacob Astor has shown keen interest in the new department, and practically promised to become a member. About seventy-five of the 250 members of the club are expected to join. They will pay special dues and raise all of the money needed to carry on the work outside of the regular club funds.

FOUR PATROLMEN IN JAIL.

Philadelphia Policemen Stole Goods from Stores on Their Beats.

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—Quick justice was meted out to-day to the four policemen who were arrested on Saturday for robbing stores and warehouses on the beats which they patrolled in the wholesale district. Indicted early in the day on charges of entering without breaking, with intent to commit a felony, larceny, receiving stolen goods, and conspiracy, the accused pleaded guilty before Judge Kinsey and were sentenced to serve seven years each in the Eastern Penitentiary. The convicted policemen are John W. Straub, John Kelly, C. M. Luckenbill, and A. R. Sithens.

With them in the conspiracy to rob were Harry Rothenberger, aged 19 years, whose arrest on a charge of larceny unearthed the plot, and W. A. Frost, a plumber in whose store the men divided the proceeds of the robberies. Frost and Rotherberger, who were indicted with the policemen, pleaded guilty, and were also sentenced, Frost being sent to the Penitentiary for four years, while Rothenberger was committed to the Huntingdon Reformatory.

Seldom has a prisoner been more scathingly denounced in court than were the four policemen when Judge Kinsey imposed sentence.

"I wish it were possible to find some extenuating circumstances for these men," said the court, "but the language of condemnation is inadequate to describe their offense. I know of no crime more enormous. They were sworn officers of the law, under oath to guard property during the night hours. They were false to their trust, and by their act they have brought reproach not only upon themselves, but upon the name of the Police Department and the entire city.

"One of them, Luckenbill, had been in the army of his country, and had he done in that service what he did while in the employ of the city, he would have been tried by court-martial and shot the next morning. The defendants are guilty of gross treason."

BOROUGH BANK'S NEW HEAD.

Broc R. Shears, ex-Bank Examiner, Selected by the Directors.

Broc R. Shears, an examiner in the State Banking Department, has been chosen President of the Borough Bank of Brooklyn, which is to reopen for business next week. Mr. Shears lives near Syracuse and has been connected with banks in Rutland, Vt., and Malone, N. Y.

The new President was recommended by ex-Supt. Kilburn and Supt. Clark Williams.

WON'T HAVE WOMAN OFFICIAL.

City Council Refuses Her a Commission as City Collector.

MONTGOMERY, Mo., April 8.—Mrs. Gertrude Barney, who was yesterday elected City Collector as the candidate of the Republicans and Prohibitionists, failed of obtaining a commission from the City Council to-day because she is a woman and therefore ineligible. Another election will probably be held.

Mrs. Barney's husband was killed by a train recently, and she received the nomination in the hope that the question of eligibility would not be considered.

WOMEN ELECTED IN TEXAS.

One Chosen Assessor and Two Others on Board of Education.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, April 8.—In the city elections held in Texas yesterday three women were elected to important offices. Miss Sallie Word was elected Assessor and Collector of Taxes for Palestine, and Mrs. E. P. Turner and Mrs. P. P. Tucker were elected as two of the seven members of the Dallas Board of Education.

Haitian Revolutionary Agent Guilty.

Joseph Giordani, agent in this country for the Haitian Revolutionary Party, was convicted yesterday in the United States Circuit Court of having spurious money in his possession. He was remanded until Tuesday for sentence. Giordani was indicted recently on several charges of having counterfeited the money of the Haitian Republic. He has still to be tried for having attempted to ship cartridges from this port to the revolutionists.

HUGHES BOOMERS AT ODDS.

Harmony does not prevail in the ranks of the Hughes boomers. It was learned last night that there is a possibility of there being so many "big four" tickets in the field when the Republican State Committee meets on Saturday that it will be left to the convention to name the delegates at large, in which case the delegation will probably be dominated by State Chairman Woodruff.

It appears that the Hughes League people, those who are the busiest in the cause of the Governor, have chosen the following ticket of delegates at large: Stewart L. Woodford, Benjamin B. Odell, Jr.; Timothy L. Woodruff, and John W. Dwight of Tompkins County. The beauty of this ticket, its sponsors assert, is that it gives two men from up the State, one from New York, and one from Brooklyn, which is the basis of representation usually followed.

In addition to this, it is urged, the ticket of delegates makes for harmony within the party, giving a place to the regular organization, a place to the Odell faction, which is acknowledged to be of considerable importance, and a third place to the Hughes forces as distinct from either of the other two. Very naturally, the idea of putting Mr. Odell and Mr. Woodruff in the same party of delegates has caused a lot of comment, and it is expected that Mr. Woodruff may raise some objection. The Hughes people, however, are ready with the argument that Mr. Woodruff ought to sacrifice his personal feelings for the sake of harmony.

The trouble with the other tickets that have been mentioned tentatively was that they lacked the presence of men used to conducting campaigns for nominations at National Conventions. It is said to have been chiefly on this account that the name of President Schurman of Cornell University was dropped from consideration, though it is by no means certain that it will not come up again before Saturday.

OUT TO FIGHT WOODRUFF.

Fourth Assembly Republicans Angered by His Rejection of Moore.

Timothy L. Woodruff, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, may find, when the State Convention meets on Saturday, that he has a sharp fight on his hands with regard to the choosing of the State Committeeman from President Roosevelt's own Congressional district, the First, which takes in part of Queens, Suffolk, and Nassau Counties, and is now represented by William W. Cocks. The rank and file of the Republican organization in the Fourth Assembly District of Queens is up in arms against the State Chairman.

From statements made last night by John W. Dolan, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Queens County Republican Committee, it apepars that, when the county organization withdrew its claim to a place on the State Committee last year it was promised that it would not be overlooked this year. The organization groomed H. Homer Moore for the place on the committee now occupied by J. J. Bartlett, expecting to have him chosen without question. Last Saturday some of the members of the organization called on Mr. Woodruff, and he told them, without giving a reason, that Mr. Moore wouldn't do at all and that he intended to keep Mr. Bartlett on the State Committee.

TAFT LOSES WISCONSIN.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 8.—Delegates at large from Wisconsin who will support Robert M. La Follette for the Presidential nomination at the Republican National Convention were elected at yesterday's State primary election by a large majority over the slate put up by the supporters of William H. Taft.

While the returns from the various districts are far from being complete, enough have been received to insure the election of La Follette delegates from nine out of the eleven districts.

Following are Republican delegates elected to vote for La Follette:

Delegates at Large—William C. Brumbder, Henry Allen Cooper, Atley T. Peterson, Isaac Stephenson.

JOHNSON DENIES HILL'S AID.

Says Railroad President Is Not Advancing His Candidacy.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Gov. John A Johnson of Minnesota, who is on his way to the battlefield of Shiloh, Tenn., where a monument is to be dedicated to the Minnesota soldiers who were killed in the battle, passed through the city to-day. He discussed the Presidential question freely, saying:

"I am a candidate for the Presidency in the sense that if I gain the nomination I shall accept it and make every effort to be elected. I am not making any personal campaign and do not expect to seek instructed dedegates. I consider the ambition to be President one of the most laudable aspirations which any man can entertain.

"Any insinuations or assertions," said Gov. Johnson, "that my candidacy is being advanced by James J. Hill and his interests are absolutely false. I have fought him several times and have never received a word of encouragement from him, or any similar source."

Gov. Johnson did not care to discuss William J. Bryan and any differences in policy between himself and Mr. Bryan.

"If I am considered the most available man," he said, "there will be no lack of appreciation on my part of the honor conferred on me. It all depends, in my judgment, on the platform and a vigorous campaign. As I view it, the Democratic Party has at least an even chance to win this year.

CHICAGO INDEPENDENTS WIN.

Liquor Element Makes Gain in Colorado—Tacoma Republican.

CHICAGO, April 8.—The result of yesterday's Aldermanic election shows a decisive victory for the Municipal Voters' League, a body which considers the general fitness of candidates, and indorses or opposes them without regard to party. Of the thirty-five candidates who were elected twenty-four were indorsed by the league, nine were opposed by it, and two were neither opposed nor indorsed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 8.—Complete returns show the election of Thomas T. Crittenden, Jr., Democrat, for Mayor over Henry M. Beardsley, Republican, by a plurality of 1,611 votes. The complete Democratic ticket with the exception of Police Judge and City Treasurer was elected.

DENVER, April 8.—Thirty-five towns in Colorado in which elections were held yesterday voted on the question of local option. Nineteen of these elections resulted in no license, and sixteen voted to license saloons. The anti-saloon element won over four towns that were formerly "wet," and the liquor element made gains of five towns, giving them the advantage of one in the total of changes.

TACOMA, Wash., April 8.—Complete returns for Mayor give Linck, Republican, 6,840; Wright, Democrat, 4,799. In the Councilmanic race all of the eight wards went Republican by almost 3 to 1.

Virginia Republican Convention.

LYNCHBURG, Va., April 8.—The Virginia State Republican Convention met here at noon to-day. The sentiment of the convention seemed to be for indorsing Roosevelt's Administration and Taft for Presidential nominee.

The Times Limerick AND Missing Answer Contests.

Owing to the interest aroused in the LIMERICK and MISSING ANSWER contests in The Sunday Times, on the part of readers at a distance, as well as those near at hand, it has been found necessary to extend the time limit within which replies may be mailed to this office. Thousands of replies are received each week, and of these hundreds from distant points arrive after the close of the competition.

To remedy this state of affairs and give contestants a better chance to have their answers considered, replies will hereafter be accepted which are mailed up to and including the Sunday following the appearance of the orignal Limerick or Missing Answer cartoon, as the case may be.

The uncompleted Limerick for the current week follows:

Oh! Pity this year's Easter bride,
She doesn't know how to decide,
Shall she furnish a flat
Or move into her hat?

For the best fifth line a prize of $10 will be given, and for the second and third best lines two prizes of $5 each will be awarded. Any answer mailed up to and including Sunday, April 12, will be considered, and the awards will be announced in the issue of Sunday, April 19.

TWO BATTLESHIPS IN HOUSE NAVAL BILL

6,000 MORE MEN PROVIDED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The House Committee on Naval Affairs to-day reported the Naval Appropriation bill after a long delay caused by the state of uncertainty resulting from the sweeping charges brought by Representative Lilley against the personnel of the committee and the lobbying methods of the Electric Boat Company.

It was at first feared by the Republican leaders that should the bill be reported the Democrats would make use of the alleged scandal for campaign purposes. How sure the leaders now are that no scandal will be forthcoming is shown by the fact that they are going to allow nearly two days' general debate on the matter. This debate will end either Saturday or Monday, and the bill will then be rushed through under special rules.

The chief provisions call for the construction of two new battleships, instead of the four demanded by the President; ten torpedo boat destroyers, eight submarines, and one sub-surface torpedo boat. The battleships will be of the monster Delaware class, costing $6,000,000 apiece, with $7,000,000 more needed for their armament. The total appropriation called for in the bill is $103,976,518.

Representative Richmond P. Hobson submitted a minority report calling for four battleships instead of two.

Next to the provision for ship construction comes a section calling for 6,000 additional men for service on ten new ships, either newly commissioned or soon to be put in command. The ships are the California, Mississippi, Idaho, New Hampshire, South Dakota, North Carolina, Montana, Chester, Birmingham, and Salem.

The appropriation for arming and equipping the naval militia is increased to $100,000 for the purpose of improving the reserves.

An increase of $500,000 over last year's appropriation was allowed in the appropriation for ordnance and ordnance stores, mainly for target practice, and because there will be in full or partial commission during the fiscal year twenty-four battleships, twelve first-class cruisers, sixty-six second-rate and third-rate vessels, sixty torpedo vessels, and fifty auxiliaries, making a total of 177 vessels.

The bill further provides an appropriation of $415,000 for replacing the three-pounder and six-pounder guns by three-inch .50-calibre or larger guns, because of the increase in the effective range of the latest type of torpedo. These new guns are designed to give the ships protection against long-range torpedo discharge. Provision is made for other changes intended to keep the batteries of the ships in the highest state of efficiency.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—A supplemental report, dated Magdalena Bay, March 17, a portion of which touches the question of the location of the armor belt for battleships, has been received at the Navy Department from Admiral Evans. In the course of the report the Admiral says:

"Even with smooth seas and practically no wind, the swell at times caused such rolling and pitching as to expose the lower portion of the armor belt at heavy load; hence the lower limit of armor should not be raised."

SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—A dispatch received by wireless telegraph this morning from Magdalena Bay says that the torpedo boat flotilla has arrived in fine form, ready for gun practice.

Fleet Goes to New Zealand.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, April 8.—The American Government has accepted the invitation of New Zealand for the American battle-ship fleet to visit the colony on its way around the world. The war ships, however, will call only at Auckland.

Ship Subsidy Bill Killed.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—By a vote of 8 to 7 the House Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads to-day virtually tabled the Ocean Mail Subsidy bill. It is now understood that the committee will take no further action on the bill.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Postmaster General Meyer issued an order to-day permitting the perforation of United States postage stamps for the purpose of identification only. It is aimed to protect large users of stamps against theft.

OPPOSES THE HEPBURN BILL.

Board of Trade Calls It Discriminatory and Dangerous Legislation.

The New York Board of Trade and Transportation, at its meeting yesterday, took action condemning the Hepburn bill for the amendment of the Sherman anti-trust law to exempt labor organizations from its provisions, and characterizing it as discriminatory and "a dangerous and ill-advised piece of legislation."

The resolutions were passed in the face of the opposition of William Jay Schieffelin and Albert Plaut. A substitute for the report was moved by Mr. Plaut in the shape of a resolution calling for the appointment of a commission by the President to investigate the subject. The vote was against the Plaut resolution, but the opposition was appeased by affixing Mr. Plaut's motion to the report and original resolutions. They read:

Resolved, That the New York Board of Trade and Transportation respectfully and earnestly protests against the enactment of H. R. Bill No. 19,745 introduced by Mr. Hepburn and having for its purpose the amendment of the act of July 2, 1890, known as the "anti-trust" law, for the following reasons:

First: That it is discriminatory in its provisions for the exemption of different classes of organizations from the restrictions and penalties of that act.

Second: That it confers upon the executive departments of the Government such power to exercise arbitrary control over the commerce and industries of the United States, and to exercise judicial functions in relation thereto, as may not properly be removed from the legislative and judicial branches.

Third: That its enactment would permit of such agreements among employes or employers, or between the two classes, as would legalize the boycott and the blacklist in their most comprehensive and destructive forms, and would also make possible agreements which, by controlling the cost of production or the output of labor, might establish most oppressive restraints of trade.

The matter of the proposed sectional procedure in the construction of subways was taken up and a report was read from the Committee on City Affairs, condemning the scheme. The principal objections given were that the construction would be uneven, that it would "commence nowhere and end nowhere," and that even under the most favorable circumstances the burden would be too heavy for the city to carry.

Calvin Tomkins spoke in favor of the scheme and said he believed the opposition to the plans and the recent zeal over the restrictions of the debt limit are "all part and parcel of a scheme to divest the city of its subways and turn them over to private interests for a long term of years."

President McCarroll said that he wished to explain to the Board that the plan was not to construct the subways in sections, but to so frame the contracts that the work could be paid for in sections from year to year as the debt limit would allow. The report was "received and placed on file."

A resolution was passed for the appointment of a committee to bring into the board a report on the financial status of the city with particular reference to the debt limit.

KILL JUDGE AND STEAL $400.

Jurist and Leading Pythian Shot Down Near His Own Door.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 8.—Judge James A. Frink, Past Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of this State, was shot through the temple and mortally wounded here early to-day. The police found him lying on the street within a block of his home.

An empty purse which had contained $400 was found near the body. He died several hours after he was found.

Two Names That Didn't Fit.

Permission was given by Supreme Court Justice Hendrick yesterday to Daniel Goldstein of 318 West 117th Street to assume hereafter the name of Daniel Gladstone. He set forth that he was born Gladstone, but because his elder brother was known as Goldstein he took that name also to avoid confusion. At the same time Edward Laska Platzy of 335 West Eighty-fifth Street was allowed to prune his name by dropping Platzy. The reason he gave was that he had made a success as a song writer under the name of Edward Laska.

Drowned in a Sluice, Going Home.

EAST PATCHOGUE, L. I., April 8.—William Porter, a veteran of the civil war, was drowned in a sluiceway at West Main Street. He was struggling home and, stubbing his toe, fell headlong into the drain.

Harmon Not a Candidate for Governor.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 8.—Judson Harmon, ex-Attorney General of the United States, who has been frequently mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination for Governor of Ohio, gave out a statement to-day in which he says he is not a candidate for the nomination.

House Upholds a Veto.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—By a vote of 257 to 9, the House to-day sustained President Roosevelt's veto of the bill transferring Commander Wilmot White from the retired to the active list of the Navy. The President gave as a reason for his action that the transfer would not be for the best interests of the service.

ROOSEVELT INSISTS ON NEGROES' RIGHTS

HIS LETTER PUBLISHED

Department of Justice Will Take Up the Matter and Decide on Course of Action.

WASHINGTON, April 8. — President Roosevelt to-day made public his letter of April 2 to the Attorney General directing proceedings by injunction to compel certain railroads of the South to furnish equal accommodations to white and negro passengers.

The letter in part is as follows:

"To the Department of Justice: It appears that the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway Company has not complied with the order of the commission to furnish the same facilities to colored passengers paying first-class fare that are furnished to white passengers paying first-class fare. From time to time various complaints have been made to me by reputable colored people to the effect that the accommodations furnished to colored persons on certain railways are filthy and inadequate, compared to the same accommodations furnished to white passengers paying the same fare.

"The commission has taken what is unquestionably the right ground: That where separate accommodations are provided for white and colored passengers the accommodations for colored passengers shall be as good as those furnished to white passengers for the same money.

"In this particular case where the railway has neglected to comply with the order of the commission it is important that compliance with this order be immediately obtained. I suggest that you proceed to enforce the order by injunction proceedings unless, in your judgment, some other course is preferable.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

The matter has been intrusted to Solicitor General Hoyt, who expects to decide in a few days on a plan of action.

IGNORE HUGHES MEASURE.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 8.—The telegraph companies and the Bell Telephone interests ignored the hearing given to-night by the Senate Judiciary Committee on the Page bill, which extends the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commissions to the electrical transmission lines.

The only corporations which offered opposition to that feature of the bill were the independent telephone companies, which took the ground that the extension of jurisdiction should not be made at this time.

That the big companies were not represented is attributed to the fact that the Assembly committee has separated the jurisdiction feature from other amendments to the Public Service Commissions act so that it is possible to kill it without sacrificing the other sections of the original bill.

CHILD LABOR CONFERENCE.

Report on Conditions in Canneries Submitted to Gov. Hughes.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 8.—Representatives of the child labor committees and others working to alleviate the evils of child labor in factories, including representatives of the Child Labor League of New York and the Consumers League, had a conference with the Governor today and submitted a report regarding the conditions of child labor in canning factories in the State.

It is not intended to make public this report until after certain remedial legislation shall have been agreed upon. Representatives of the canning industries were also present before the Governor to-day, headed by President James Olney of Oneida.

Legislature to Adjourn April 23.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 8.—The Assembly to-day concurred in the Senate's action of yesterday fixing Thursday, April 23, as the date for final adjournment of the present session of the Legislature.

TWO HOLIDAYS FOR BROKERS.

Stock Exchange to Close on Good Friday and Easter Saturday.

After the meeting of the Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange yesterday, Wall Street heard the cheerful news that the Exchange will be closed on both Good Friday and Easter Saturday, giving the brokers and their small army of employees a three-day holiday, to last from the closing on Thursday, April 16, to the opening on Monday, April 20. Last year the Exchange closed only on Easter Saturday, and, in fact, double holidays have been rare on the Exchange for the last five years.

The Consolidated Exchange has not taken action, but it will follow the lead of the Stock Exchange. The Coffee Exchange has voted to close from Thursday until Monday, and in London the usual Easter holiday period of four days, lasting from Thursday closing until Tuesday opening has been declared.

BROKERS ACCUSED OF FRAUD.

Referee Reports Against Discharge in Bankruptcy for Hahlo Brothers.

Judge Hough of the United States District Court has denied a discharge from bankruptcy to Hahlo Brothers, stock brokers, formerly of 6 Wall Street, against whom a petition in bankruptcy was filed on Aug. 18, 1904, with liabilities of $386,875 and assets of $243,897.

Nathaniel A. Prentiss, referee in bankruptcy, who had charge of the case, reported against a discharge on two grounds, that they converted within a few days of the receipt thereof 800 shares of Texas & Pacific Land Trust stock belonging to a creditor and appropriated the proceeds, and to conceal their financial condition failed to keep books of account or records from which such condition might be ascertained. Judge Hough confirmed the report of the referee.

ST. PAUL ROUTE TO ORIENT.

Traffic Agreement Made with a Japanese Steamship Company.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, according to dispatches from Chicago received in the financial district yesterday, has completed its arrangements with a Japanese steamship line for steamship connection with the Orient.

Some time ago it was announced that the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, a Japanese steamship company operating many boats, had offered to enter into a traffic agreement with the St. Paul. Vice President Hiland and General Passenger Agent Miller of the St. Paul have been in Japan in connection with this deal. They are expected to sail for home this week. The traffic agreement will become effective upon the completion of the St. Paul's extension to the Pacific Coast.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK GOOD.

Spencer Trask & Co. Agent Says He Found Funds Awaiting Investment.

One of the group of thirty representatives and correspondents of Spencer Trask & Co., who have just returned from a tour of inspection of public utility concerns in Detroit, Milwaukee, and Cleveland in which the banking house is interested, said yesterday that business conditions were reassuring in the cities visited.

"Quiet confidence prevails," he said, "and after the Presidential election the volume of business will be gradually restored to normal proportions.

"In the investment field there seems to be an abundance of funds awaiting investment in the best class of securities, but owing to the panic individual investors are evidently more determined than ever to place their funds only in securities combining safety of principal and interest and promising reasonably large appreciation in value. This feeling is likely to have its effect on local legislation the country over, making it apparent that to raise cash to provide for public conveniences the laws governing utility corporations must be reasonably fair to both the corporations and the public."

PACKERS' LOAN ABROAD.

J. Ogden Armour Denies That One Is Being Sought.

Wall Street heard yesterday that the Chicago packing interests, through the Armours, had been endeavoring to raise a short-term loan in London. A few weeks ago the packers sounded the New York money market on the possibility of floating one-year notes for between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000, but received no encouragement.

The Armours have many connections abroad. Bankers here with foreign connections were in receipt of cable inquiries yesterday, but would not discuss the chances of the Chicago packers getting their funds.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 8.—J. Ogden Armour said to-night: "The story that there are negotiations under way for such a loan is not true. I am at a loss to understand how the report originated."

WORMSER FIRM TO END MAY 1.

Last Survivor of Noted Stock Exchange House to Join Lauer & Co.

The old Stock Exchange house of I. & S. Wormser, which for years was identified with many of the important movements in Wall Street, is to retire from business on May 1. The death last June of Isidor Wormser, one of the founders of the house, left his nephew, Isidor Wormser, Jr., as the sole surviving partner. Upon the retirement of the firm on May 1 Mr. Wormser will become a special partner in the Stock Exchange firm of W. E. Lauer & Co.

The late Isidor Wormser, Sr., joined the Stock Exchange in 1873. Six years later he formed the firm of I. & S. Wormser, and the house soon took an important part in Wall Street. In later years it was closely identified with the operations in the stock of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company. When the New York City Railway was formed six years ago the Wormsers brought suit to force the cancellation of the lease of the Metropolitan to the New York City Railway, but the suit was unsuccessful.

VANDERBILT HEARINGS ENDED.

Referee's Report on the Divorce Suit Expected to be Filed This Week.

David McClure, the referee appointed to take testimony in the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Ellen French Vanderbilt against her husband, Alfred G. Vanderbilt, is understood to have closed the hearings in the case. His report is likely to be submitted to the court before the close of the present week.

At Mr. McClure's office yesterday the cloak of secrecy which has all along covered the proceedings was well maintained. The referee spent last week-end out of town, and it is believed that he then took the testimony of Mrs. Vanderbilt. She has not attended the hearings at his office.

CONSPIRACY IN FAILURE.

Bankruptcy Trustee Charges Auctioneer and Jobber with Fraud.

A suit for the recovery of $18,400 from L. Ullman, an auctioneer, was begun yesterday before Justice Hough, in the United States District Court, by George F. Darrell, Trustee in bankruptcy for J. Steinburg, who was formerly a wholesale clothing jobber at 212 Canal Street, but who was adjudged bankrupt in 1906.

Darrell, who was appointed receiver for Steinburg, alleges that Steinburg and Ullman conspired to defraud the former's creditors. He says that just before Steinburg failed he went to Ullman and told him that he was about to fail, and that Ullman agreed to vouch for Steinburg's reliability to several manufacturers from whom Steinburg wanted to buy goods. This, says, Darrell, was done, and the goods were delivered to Steinburg, who soon afterward failed.

A TEACHER FINED FOR BEATING PUPIL

Board Assesses Him Two Months' Pay and Some Members Want to Dismiss Him.

BRUTAL WORK, MEMBER SAYS

Investigation Brings Out That There Is No Means of Punishing Pupils for Shortcomings.

For the first time since the Board of Education recently reiterated its position as being firmly against corporal punishment in the public schools, it was called upon yesterday afternoon to do a little spanking on its own account.

Milton L. Bernstein, a teacher in Public School 158, in Avenue A, between Seventy-seventh and Seventy-eighth Streets, was charged with beating a small boy for "breaking line." The board fined him two months' pay, and it was evident that a number of members favored his dismissal. Chairman A. Stern said that if the board wanted to go as far as dismissing the teacher it would be thoroughly justified in doing so.

Commissioner Arthur S. Somers of Williamsburg, a member of the committee which tried the teacher, opposed the committee's report fixing the punishment at a fine.

"It was a brutal assault of a man on a little, defenseless boy," said Mr. Somers, "it was not mere chastisement.

"The boy did not look more than 8 years old, though I understand that he is 13. When he came before the committee he was a pitiful sight, unable even then to hold his head up on account of the injuries inflicted by this man, hired by this board. Those injuries were inflicted by the man's fist, too.

"There was absolutely no provocation for such a beating."

Mr. Somers concluded by offering an amendment fixing the teacher's punishment at dismissal.

Several members expressed surprise that the boy had been beaten so badly, and it was brought out that the boy had jumped out of line and run away, and for this the teacher called him into his room and punished him.

Chairman Stern followed Mr. Somers in a statement from the committee, declaring that the teacher had admitted whipping the child in a fit of anger, and that nowhere could there be found any justification for the violation of the board's by-laws. The Principal examined the boy's neck and hand within an hour after the chastisement, and could find no bruises, and it was stated that the lad had gotten into a fight after the school incident and been further injured. This could not be verified, but it left a doubt in the committee's mind.

Dr. Dennis J. McDonald declared also that it was "a case of assault," and that the teacher should be dismissed at once. He agreed with Mr. Somers fully.

In the discussion it was incidentally brought out that the board and the teachers are at a loss to know how to enforce discipline in the schools. A committee, it was stated, was now wrestling with this question.

The amendment offered by Commissioner Somers was lost by a vote of 29 to 5 and the report of the committee adopted.

Caleb W. Cameron, Inspector of masonry, charged with accepting refinished pianos as new, was fined forty days' pay and censured. The resolution stated that there is no evidence that he profited in any manner, directly or indirectly.

The Committee on Buildings laid before the board the letter of Controller Metz offering to recommend the authorization of $4,000,000 of corporate stock for the erection of elementary schools, with a schedule of the buildings needed, as was published in THE TIMES yesterday.

The Board of Estimate was requested to authorize the immediate issue of corporate stock to the amount of $4,107,075 to be used for the general construction of new school buildings and additions.

Lieut. Commander Lay H. Everhart, U. S. N., (retired,) was elected Superintendent of the Nautical School, at a salary of $2,700 a year. The board decided to return the training ship St. Mary's to the Government, as it was no longer needed.

NEW HEAD OF NORMAL COLLEGE

George S. Davis, Associate City Superintendent of Schools, will become the President of the Normal College May 4 next, with the indorsement of every member of the Board of Trustees of that institution.

The board met at the Department of Education yesterday afternoon and unanimously adopted the report of the Executive Committee of the College, nominating Mr. Davis.

With the report was a resolution fixing the date of his entrance upon his duties as May 4, and his salary as $8,250. Another resolution adopted gives to Acting President Edward S. Burgess a salary of $6,000 from the time he assumed the duties of that office until President-elect Davis succeeds him.

SIX FERRY LINES TO QUIT.

Brooklyn Ferry Co. Announces Their Withdrawal and City Can't Take Them.

It is probable that within two weeks the Grand Street, Broadway, Roosevelt Street, Twenty-third Street, Forty-second Street, and Greenpoint Ferries across the East River will be out of business. The Brooklyn Ferry Company has announced its intention of ceasing to operate these lines, and Controller Metz said yesterday that it would be impossible for the city to take them over and run them.

"The city has not the power to compel the company to continue to operate the ferries," said Mr. Metz, "and it has not the money to purchase them. It is undoubtedly true that the discontinuance of the lines will work hardship on a great many people, but they will have to make the best of it."

City Bookkeeper Resigns Under Fire.

Charles E. Marr, chief bookkeeper for the Board of Water Supply, resigned yesterday. According to President Bensel of the board, information was received to the effect that Mr. Marr, representing that he had influence with the board, tried to get contractors to allow him to supply them with laborers. Word was sent to Mr. Marr, who lives at 1,066 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, that the board would like to question him. Instead he sent in his resignation. The position pays $3,000 a year.

MORSE'S DEMURRER HEARD.

Judge Hough Takes ex-Banker's and A. H. Curtis's Cases Under Advisement.

Judge Hough, sitting in the United States Circuit Court yesterday, listened to arguments on the demurrers interposed to the indictments found against Charles W. Morse and Alfred H. Curtis, former President of the National Bank of North America, and ordered counsel to submit briefs before Monday next.

Former United States District Attorney Wallace Macfarlane, who conducted the prosecution and conviction of officials of the defunct Seventh National Bank years ago, appeared for Mr. Morse and W. M. K. Olcott for Mr. Curtis. United States District Attorney Stimson represented the prosecution. Both Mr. Morse and Mr. Curtis were in court and listened attentively to the arguments.

Mr. Macfarlane based his argument on the ground that it is not shown in the indictment that the bank was in any way injured by the acts of Morse or Curtis. He put a great deal of stress on the defective construction of the indictments from a legal point of view. He also contended that the purchase of stocks by a National bank, while unlawful, is not criminal.

In replying, Mr. Stimson said that in the stock purchases the only two assumptions were that Mr. Morse acted with the authority of the Board of Directors of the bank or without it, adding, "If he had acted with their authority he would have had a band of criminals behind him instead of two."

If the indictments are not quashed they will be moved for trial at the May term of the Criminal Branch of the United States District Court.

SEVENTH REGIMENT REVIEW.

Forty Members of the Regiment Receive Long Service Medals.

Col. Robert Lee Howze, commandant of cadets at the United States Military Academy, reviewed the Seventh Regiment last night.

After the review the regimental crosses of honor for long and faithful service were presented. Capt. Robert Mazet was the recipient of the twenty-five-year medal, the cross presented to him being of gold, with the figure "7" set in it in brilliants. The five twenty-year men who got gold crosses were Major Christopher J. Colles, Lieut. Arthur Drake, Capt. John A. Davidson, and Privates Benjamin A. Kellogg and Stanley P. Lassell. The fifteen and ten year men were for the most part non-commissioned officers and privates.

RAN OFF WITH HIS CHILD.

But Miller's Wife and a Policeman Overtake Him and He Is Arrested.

Leon Miller, a telegraph operator on the New Haven Railroad, who is separated from his wife, a daughter of the Rev. J. H. Kopss, a retired minister living in Lathrop Avenue, Westerleigh, S. I., with whom she is now living, went to her home on Tuesday, and picking up his two-year-old daughter, Ruth, ran off with her. Mrs. Miller saw the act and set out in pursuit.

Mounted Policeman Hayes overtook Miller, who was still carrying his daughter, just as he was entering Port Richmond, and locked him up. Mrs. Miller took the little girl home.

The husband was arraigned before Magistrate Handy in the police court in New Brighton yesterday and was paroled until April 17. A brother of Mrs. Miller said his sister, who is only 22 years old, is about to bring suit for separation.

SING SING'S CONVICT CAUGHT IN BROOKLYN

CAPTURED IN TOMATO PLOT

Whose Owner, Robbed Once, Had Spiked the Walls, Not Knowing What a Trap He Had Laid.

They got Joe La Sala yesterday—got him in Brooklyn, in an amateur garden which had been robbed last season of its tomatoes, and whose wall in consequence was some two feet higher than its neighbors and studded with the best devices for retarding garden-wall flight, into the bargain.

Joe La Sala is the convict who contrived last Sunday night to get over the river wall of Sing Sing Prison and escape down the river in a rowboat. His escape was a model of "construction" from the foresighted man's point of view, but he ran against a combination which neither he nor possibly any other recent escaping prisoner has figured on.

"It wouldn't have been so tough if the police had got me," said the captive last night, as he waited for a Sing Sing keeper to get him at the Brooklyn Detective Bureau, "but to have the combination of an outsider and an amateur garden bring me in is a bit more'n I can stand. I don't object to going back. In fact, they'll be so glad to see me that they'll batter 'welcome' all over my head when they put me in the cooler for escaping. But that won't be the worst. The other boys up there will give me the laugh."

So, sorrowfully, Joe departed last night with a head keeper and a State detective to finish out the term of fourteen years and eight months meted out to him for what he calls "the alleged robbery of a man of $295 at 127th Street and Second Avenue last October."

Baby Nerved Him to Escape.

Joe La Sala had been doing pretty well up the river until a few days before last Sunday. He had been a good prisoner who was entitled to all the commutation there was coming on a sentence of not less than fourteen years and eight months, when, according to the story he told in Brooklyn last night, he began to think of his two-year-old baby and its mother in 57 East Houston Street.

"That baby has red hair, though mine and its mothers are jet black, so I wanted to see it," said Joe yesterday. "So last Sunday I couldn't stand it any longer. I'd read a story about a man who'd been in the pen for sixteen long years and then had a bright thought and got up and opened the window. I thought I'd see what I could do.

"It was last Sunday while we was going to mess that I happened to think of that red-headed kid's yell when I saw him last October, and I poked his cheek and he said 'Da da.' That's what his mother said it was, anyway. As I walked across the yard with the line that had just answered 'One, two, three,' along the file before they came out I slipped out of the line without any one seein' me, and stood in an angle of the machine shop while the rest of the line went by. I knew they'd count the line again before it got into mess and again in the cells, but you know how those things go. Even keepers get used to routine after a while.

Taking Chances for Freedom.

"Well, I stood in the wall a long time without more than breathing enough to sustain life, while the rest of the line went by. But it went by. And then after it had gone by I got to one of the machine shop windows. There weren't any bars on the window, as I had noticed before, so I raised the sash and got in. By this time I was saying that 'Da da' of the kid's over and over again, just like a fool.

"Maybe that helped me. Anyway, I went straight to a suit of the instructor, who was an outside man of the name of Butler, and kept his shop clothes there. There was only a coat and vest. I got them on. Then the night watchman with his lantern came in. I knew then that they hadn't discovered my absence. I watched his lantern in the distant parts of the shop. Once he passed quite close to me, but I shut my eyes and said 'Da da' to meself. He went by me and out the door.

"After he'd gone I found two short planks that I threw out of the window. Then I followed, after the rest of the boys were safe in the mess hall. I got down to the river wall without any one seeing me. It was fourteen feet high on the inside, and twenty on the outside. I put one of the planks up against the wall, and climbed up to its end. Then I stretched up my arms. I couldn't reach by three feet. I had kept to within seven feet of the guardhouse on the top of the wall, as it was storming, and I figured that they wouldn't watch the parts of the wall close to them. They didn't.

Rowed a Boat Without Oars.

"But I heard a noise behind me, so I made a gigantic effort at reaching the top of the wall with my hands. I saw everything that I had ever done in my life in that minute. Most partic'larly I saw my wife and the kid. By jumping in the despair that came to me in that moment I got my hands on the top of the wall and somehow I lifted myself up to the top and slid over quickly.

"I plunged down twenty feet, luckily into sand, a foot within the edge of the river, and not on rock. When I realized that I was free I went south along the bank of the river until I came to an old boat. There weren't any oars in it, but that didn't matter. I cut the painter with a piece of brass that I'd made into a knife in the machine shop. Then, without oars, I put out into the river.

"It was raining blue streaks and the tide was running strong, but for a time I went along all right. Then I cut the seat into paddles and made out to steer the boat. Finally I bumped into an old rotten pier. I got out of the boat and crawled along the pier until I came to a gap that seemed twenty feet wide. This I jumped. I found myself in Tarrytown.

"When I got up into the place I bought a pair of trousers from the money I'd made by swapping with the prisoners for 'things even with a money odd.' Also I bought a ticket for New York on the Central. I arrived at 125th Street at 10:10 at night and went to stay with friends at 229 East 125th Street. I dyed my hair from jet black to red. Also I managed to get a message to my wife. I saw her and the kid, and heard the kid say 'Da, Da.' They live at 57 East Houston Street, but I won't tell you where I saw them.

"Then yesterday I went over into the Brownsville section of Brooklyn to see some friends of mine about raising some money to send me to Chicago. I was delayed at the house and was told to call again, so I went outside. I went into a saloon on Liberty Avenue near Belmont. I had been foolish enough to wear a pair of green goggles over my eyes. A little man spotted me, and here I am."

Chased Over Fences.

The little man was a stool pigeon employed by Lieut. Vachris of the Brooklyn Italian Detective Squad. He recognized the man, for whom a general alarm had been sent out. Although engaged with other matters, he had a picture of Joe La Sala in his pocket, and, being certain, he tried to telephone to Headquarters. But before he was well through with the job La Sala got to the street. Vachris's friend followed in time to see him board a Liberty Avenue trolley car. At the same time Policemen Howey and McLaughlin appeared. In an agony because he could speak little English, the informer rushed up to the policemen.

The policemen understood and fired a shot in the air to attract the attention of the car conductor. At Milford Street, four blocks away, the car stopped. A figure darted from it into a vacant lot and over the back fences. Howey, McLaughlin and their aid followed. McLaughlin dashed through Atkin Street, while Howey followed over the back fences in the middle of the block between Milford and Atkin Streets, until he saw the course of the fugitive. Then he ran around into Milford Street and headed down to cut the man off.

The Garden Ruined Him.

"I got over fourteen back fences," said Joe La Sala later. "On climbing over the fourteenth I saw the remains of tomato plants in the fifteenth. I also saw that the further side of the fence had an iron picket on its top that was too much for me. I almost dropped on a dead tomato plant.

"'The jig is up,' I said. 'I'm up against a gardener.'

"Just then the policeman, Howey, came running into the yard from the street with his pistol in his hand.

"'You're up against something,' he says.

"'You bet I am,' says I, 'I am up against the man that had his tomatoes stole last year.'

"And then I broke the green goggles and went with him."

ROCKEFELLER, JR., ON HEIGHTS

It became known at Columbia University yesterday that a stranger who spent all Monday afternoon examining the pavements on the university grounds and around the buildings was none other than John D. Rockefeller, Jr. The attention of many of the students was attracted by the young man, who carefully studied out the grotesque designs in the quadrangle pavement, and had all the brick walks shown to him by one of the university authorities.

At first it was rumored that he was an engineer who had been employed by the college to reconstruct the pavements so that they would act as a drain for the rain water, instead of as a basin as at present. But it came out yesterday that the supposed engineer was the son of the Standard Oil magnate, and that he was inspecting the Columbia paving with the intention of duplicating it on his home premises.

KILLS HIS MOTHER FOR FANCIED WRONGS

HIS ACT WAS DELIBERATE

Youthful Murderer Uses Money Given Him to Start Life Anew to Buy Revolver with Which Killing Was Done.

Just released from a reformatory, twenty-one-year-old Bernard Carlin shot and killed his widowed mother, Mrs. Susan Carlin, in her home, 587 Quincy Street, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon, because she had "not done the right thing by him." The murder was a deliberate one, committed with a pistol bought with money given to him by the Superintendent of the reformatory to start anew in life. After killing his mother, Carlin attempted to shoot his sister, but had already discharged all the cartridges in his revolver. It is believed he planned to kill all the members of his family. The murderer tried to escape, but was captured after a struggle. When arrested, he declared that he was glad he had put his parent out of the world.

Carlin appears to have been incorrigible since his childhood, most of his life having been spent in truant schools and reforming institutions. The offense for which he was committed to the Elmira Reformatory was the theft of a horse and wagon from a merchant in Wallabout Market. He was sentenced by County Judge Aspinall in March, 1906. Later he was transferred from the reformatory to the prison at Napanoch. Carlin was released from the latter place on Tuesday. As he was leaving he was given $10 by the Superintendent. He spent Tuesday night in a Brooklyn lodging house and yesterday morning began drinking. The more whisky he drank the more he brooded over his fancied wrongs at the hands of his mother. By afternoon he had worked himself into a state of mind to do murder. With the money he had left Carlin bought a revolver. He was careful to get a weapon of good make, as he didn't want one which might miss fire.

With the revolver in his pocket Carlin appeared at the apartment house where his mother, who was 53 years old, lived with another son, Anthony, and her daughter, Mary. In response to his ring Mrs. Carlin opened the door. Without a word of warning her son thrust the pistol into her face, and fired a bullet into her head. As she fell he fired four more bullets into her body, killing her. As Carlin ran into the flat he was confronted by his sister. In his excitement he forgot that he had discharged all the cartridges in the revolver, and began snapping the trigger of the pistol at the girl. B. F. Harrison, who lives on the floor above, ran downstairs and snatched the revolver from the young man's hand. He grappled with Carlin, but the latter broke from him, and, jumping over the body of his mother, fled to the street with Harrison in pursuit. George Ponyies of 616 Quincy Street and Edward Santell of 1,250 Thirty-eighth Street, who were passing, joined in the chase, and Carlin was caught at the corner. He fought his captors desperately, but was finally overpowered and turned over to Capt. Kelly and Detectives Britton, Corr, and Robertson of the Gates Avenue Station.

The murderer did not seem to repent of his act. He appeared to think that he had been justified in killing his mother.

"She never did the right thing by me," said he. "Nearly all my life she has had me in institutions. Why, when I was only two or three years old she put me in an asylum. Because of her I was always doing a bit somewhere. While I was a kid in the asylum I contracted a disease of the eyes and it has made me half blind.

"When I would be discharged from one institution she would have me committed to some other place. Although I am 21 years old, I have not had my freedom more than five years. I have felt sore about this for a long time and I made up my mind to get square for it all. I killed my mother to get even for what she had done to me, and I'm not sorry for it, either. I suppose this means my finish, but I don't care."

SULZBACHER PLEADS.

Not Guilty, Reply to Charges of Violating the Penal Code.

Joseph H. Sulzbacher of the stock brokerage firm of Sulzbacher & Co. was arraigned yesterday before Judge Crain in General Sessions, and through his counsel, James W. Osborne, pleaded not guilty to the three indictments filed by the Grand Jury on Tuesday, charging him with grand larceny, forgery, and violations of Sections 111 and 113 of the Penal Code, which relate to interfering with the appearance of witnesses. The privilege of changing the plea and of making further motions was reserved for a week.

The complainant against Mr. Sulzbacher on the larceny and forgery charges is Camille J. Ludman, a former customer, who charges that he was defrauded of $17,000, and that Mr. Sulzbacher, through manipulation of his accounts, tried to conceal this.

The third indictment rests on an alleged attempt to send Henry L. Wyatt, his former clerk, to Mexico, so that he could not be called as a witness before the Grand Jury.

Gibbs Prize to Dr. Norman E. Ditman.

The New York Academy of Medicine has awarded the Gibbs prize for the best thesis involving original research and new discovery in the cause, pathology and treatment of diseases of the kidneys to Dr. Norman E. Ditman, of this city. The Gibbs prize was offered six years ago and the contest closed last October. Dr. Ditman is assistant attending physician to St. Luke's Hospital. He was assisted in his investigations, by William Walker of the chemical department of the university of Pennsylvania.

BROOKLYN NEWS NOTES.

The First National Bank is to move from the foot of Broadway, where it has been for many years. The property at the northwest corner of Broadway and Havemeyer Street has been purchased by the bank and a handsome building is to be erected at a cost of $75,000. The bank paid $75,000 for the site.

While at work in an excavation at the Ridgewood Pumping Station, at Atlantic Avenue and Logan Street, yesterday afternoon, Peter Paratula of 53 Ellery Street was crushed to death by the earth caving in. His fellow laborers worked frantically to dig him out, but he was dead when they reached him. The foreman was arrested, charged with negligence.

Under the Spring schedule of the Long Island Railroad, to go into effect on May 28, the train service on the Atlantic Avenue Division will be greatly increased. There will be 251 trains in and out of the Flatbush Avenue station each day, 200 of them running between Brooklyn and Jamaica, and the others between Brooklyn and the Rockaways.

The Directors of the Jenkins Trust Company have decided to change its name to the Lafayette Trust Company. The change will have to be approved by the State Superintendent of Banking. It is expected that the company will resume business next Wednesday.

Although 72 years old, Foster N. Smith of 329 Leonard Street will embark for the second time to-morrow night on the sea of matrimony. His bride-to-be, who is twenty years his junior, is Mrs. Kate Baker. Mr. Smith's wife died several years ago. He is well known among Methodists in the borough.

The parish of St. Saviour, in South Brooklyn, which was established only three years ago, is to have a new $100,000 parochial schoolhouse. The building is to be in Sixth Street, near Eighth Avenue.

SAVE CREW THROUGH GALE-SWEPT SEAS

ONE LIFEBOAT SMASHED

Twenty-eight men who sailed from St. Malo, France, for St. Pierre, Miquelon, two months ago in the little French fishing schooner Champagne arrived yesterday as passengers on the New York and Continental liner Volturno. They were picked up in mid-ocean on March 27. Their schooner had been wrecked in a gale, and before leaving her the men set her on fire.

The Volturno was bound from Rotterdam for this port on March 27. While fighting her way through a gale she sighted the Champagne flying distress signals.

At 7:30 o'clock next morning the work of rescue started with Chief Officer McIntosh and four volunteers.

The wind was still blowing a gale, and the sea was running high. It was only occasionally that the rescuers could see the schooner. She was almost submerged, with the sea breaking clean over her. The men had lashed themselves to the stumps of the masts to prevent being washed overboard.

It was two hours before the rescuers could get away, and even then oil had to be used. Every man wore a life belt. The men from the Champagne had to jump overboard with lines about them and drift down so that they could be picked up by the men in the small boat. Fourteen men were taken on the first trip and were hauled on board the Volturno by lines. The lifeboat was smashed when she got to the steamer. Another boat was launched and in her the men again made the perilous trip between schooner and steamer, bringing back in safety the other fourteen men.

Capt. Delalande of the Champagne said that they had sailed from St. Malo for a fishing cruise off the Banks, their ultimate destination being St. Pierre. They had had a stormy trip, and two days before help came they had begun to leak.

What the crew deplored most of all was the loss of 140 squabs and 26 barrels of wine, for the schooner had been stocked for an eight months' cruise. The Volturno carried eighty steerage passengers, who watched with interest the work of rescue.

The shipwrecked men will be sent to France by the French Consul.

COURT FORGIVES FUGITIVE.

Taylor, Who Disappeared 26 Years Ago, Now a Respected Merchant.

KINGSTON, N. Y., April 8.—In some Western city, the name of which is scrupulously guarded, lives a prominent and respected citizen from whom the Supreme Court of New York to-day removed the stigma of an indictment returned twenty-six years ago. It charged John Taylor with the death of Thomas Murray. The present home of Taylor, and the name under which he has since lived, married, and risen to the head of a big mercantile establishment, are known to only three men here, and his secret will be kept.

Taylor's identity was made known by him to the court after a search for him that had covered two continents and occupied several years had been abandoned. He invited an inquiry into his life for the last quarter of a century. This was made and proved so satisfactory that ex-Supreme Court Justice A. T. Clearwater, who as District Attorney obtained the indictment, declared that it would be a gross injustice to reveal the man's new name.

Justice W. C. Howard of Troy, sitting in the Supreme Court, to-day dismissed the indictment.

Murray was killed at Port Ewen, Ulster County, on an Election Day, upon which there had been nearly a riot at the polls. Taylor and Murray belonged to opposing political parties and loved the same girl. On Election Day they first quarreled at the polls, and later fought on the street. A brick, with which Murray's skull was cracked, is still preserved in the office of the District Attorney. Several days later Murray died, and Taylor fled.

PLAN HOME COLONIES FOR OUR SAILORS

SERVICE TO BE ATTRACTIVE

Such Stations Are to be at Different Points Along the Coast, Where Ships Would Call at Intervals.

The Navy Department has under consideration a project for the establishment on the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts of what will be known as home bases for the fleets, where the enlisted men will be afforded an opportunity to purchase their own homes and where the ships of the fleets will call at regular intervals. The establishment of such a community on Staten Island is likely, in the opinion of many naval officers, and this is believed to have had much to do with the visit to New York the other day of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Truman H. Newberry, who sailed along the Staten Island coast, presumably looking for a site that would be suitable for the establishment of one of these proposed navy villages.

For many years navy officers have advocated creating home ports to enhance the attractiveness of the service and bring about much-needed increase in enlistments, particularly re-enlistments.

Before the departure of the Atlantic Fleet for the Pacific the enlisted strength of the navy was far below the requirements of the service. For years the recruiting officers had been working hard to bring the enlistments up to the maximum allowed by law. Then came the announcement of the cruise to the Pacific, with its many ports of call and numerous entertainments prepared by foreign countries. This, of course, increased the enlistments, the result being that when the fleet sailed the enlisted strength of the service was nearer the authorized maximum than it had been in years.

But it will soon be necessary for the department to do something to keep the thousands of well-trained men in the service. This, the officials think, the establishment of home bases will accomplish. Rear Admiral Burwell, Commandant of the navy yard in Puget Sound, is said to have interested a number of prominent Pacific Coast men in the project of establishing such a community there.

With this object in view, it is said that a large plot of ground will soon be purchased near the Puget Sound yard, where the enlisted men will be given an opportunity of buying lots and erecting on them homes for their families.

Whether such a community will be established on Staten Island has not yet been decided.

REVOLUTION HERE, HE SAYS.

Ex-Judge O'Brien Thinks Attacks on the Law Are Perilous.

The Alumni Association of the Law School of Columbia University gave a reception last night to Dr. Chipman Gray, Royall Professor of Law at Harvard University, at the St. Regis Hotel. Dr. Gray has been delivering a series of law lectures at Columbia.

After the reception and supper Dr. Gray was introduced by Morgan J. O'Brien, the retiring President of the association.

"In the final analysis," said Judge O'Brien, "there are but two powers, the power of the sword and the power of the law. The tendency at present is to draw from the power of the law. And if it shall come about that the attacks on the law succeed, we shall find ourselves come upon evil days. We are now passing through a bloodless revolution—nothing else."

At the meeting of the association held before the reception, George L. Rives was elected President, William B. Hornblower First Vice President, Francis Lynde Stetson Second Vice President, Adrian H. Joline Third Vice President, Samuel Riker, Jr., Treasurer, and Robert Van Iderstine Secretary.

is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing, therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would enjoy good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. feels that it is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the appoval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original method of manufacture, which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. and the same heretofore known by the name—Syrup of Figs—which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., that the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

CROWDS INSPECT AUTOS

Unusual Interest Evoked by Carnival Programme—Holiday Spirit Prevails Along "the Row."

Automobile Row continues in holiday mood. The remarkable demonstration of interest in the parade of Tuesday evening put every one in the best humor, while the visits of hundreds of persons to the various showrooms to examine the late models of cars in spite of the inclement weather yesterday further attested the thorough success of the carnival week.

To-day will be given over to the hill climb on Fort George Hill. For the event there are eighty-three entries, double the number of competitors that have ever before engaged in a similar competition. Each of the eleven events are well filled and the trials should afford excellent sport. Doubtless thousands of automobile enthusiasts will witness the trials, and the cars which win the tests will achieve significant victories.

The most popular class is that for gasoline cars selling between $2,000 and $3,000. In this class there will be twenty-one contestants, representing twelve different makes of cars. The four-cylinder gasoline cars, selling at over $4,000, rank next in popularity, with the free-for-all equally well represented. There are thirteen entries in each, representing ten makes of cars. All the other classes, with the exception of those for gasoline cars selling at less than $850, and for electrics of all types have more than two competitors. In all thirty makes of cars are represented.

The contest will start at 1 o'clock, and the cars will be sent up the hill with the greatest dispatch possible. It is expected that the trials will consume about four hours and that the awards can be made by 6 o'clock by the Competitive Committee. Col. Pardee, who has the event in charge, is highly enthusiastic over the remarkable showing. The entries for the various events are as follows:

1. Gasoline cars, selling $850 or less—Two Maxwells.

Auto Manufacturers Request A. A. A. to Conduct Stock Car Race.

A resolution expressing unanimous approval of the offer of a $3,000 trophy for stock car road racing by Jefferson De Mont Thompson was adopted yesterday at the Executive Committee meeting of the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers.

A committee representing all of the trade associations will meet within a short time with the members of the American Automobile Association Racing Board to discuss plans for conducting the international stock-car event and suggest rules.

No Action on Federal Auto Bill.

Secretary Frederick H. Elliott of the American Automobile Association stated yesterday that no action had yet been taken by the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives on the Federal Automobile bill recently introduced into Congress. An enormous impression gained credence in some quarters recently that the committee had acted favorably upon the bill. In answer to a request as to whether this was true or not a reply was received yesterday from Chairman John J. Jenkins of the Judiciary Committee, before which a hearing was held a short time ago, saying that no decision had been reached.

Georgia Troops for Auto Race.

Frank G. Battey, President of the Automobile Club of Savannah, who was recently elected a Director of the American Automobile Association, attended the Directors' meeting on Tuesday, and presented the formal application from Savannah for the Vanderbilt Cup race next Fall. The most interesting part of Mr. Battey's application was a letter from Gov. Hoke Smith of Georgia, in which he guaranteed the use of sufficient troops to guard the course during the running of the race. This in itself is a strong point in favor of Savannah, as the American Automobile Association has gone on record as opposed to holding the event over any public highways unless the militia can be obtained to safeguard the racers and the spectators.

Mr. Battey submitted maps showing two proposed routes, one measuring twenty-four miles in length and the other twenty-seven miles. The application was referred to the Vanderbilt Cup Commission, which is virtually the American Automobile Racing Board.

Marshall Loses to Schlechter.

VIENNA, April 8.—Much interest was evinced at the pairing in the thirteenth round of the international chess masters' tournament, played at the local club to-day, as Teichmann was pitted against Maroczy, Schlechter against the American, Marshall, and Tartakower against Rubinstein. Marshall lost to Schlechter, Teichmann and Maroczy drew after a hard game, and Tartakower succumbed to Rubinstein. The most brilliant game, however, was played by Mieses, who defeated Alapin. In the other games Duras beat Cohn, Swiderski won from Reti, Salwe defeated Spielmann, Suechting drew with Johner, Leonhardt with Perlis, and Berger with Bardeleben. Schlechter continues in the lead, with Duras half a point below him. Maroczy, Teichmann, and Rubinstein are two points behind the leader.

Book Is C. C. N. Y. Strong Man.

Isidor Book, '08, was declared the winner of the competitive strength test held at the College of the City of New York yesterday afternoon. Book, who is a senior, had also taken first place in the two previous annual tests, held under the supervision of Dr. Thomas A. Storey and his department of Physical Training. Book scored a total of 1,235 points, which compares favorably with his record of last year. Harry Longman of the sophomore class was Book's closest rival, with a total of 1,034 points. Louis Weinstein of the junior class took third honors with 935 points, while Allan Morris was the freshman point winner with 776 points. Book won first place in the back and leg lifts, the right and left hand grip, the dips and chins, but took second place to Gordon, '09, in the lung test. He also established two new college records by increasing his own record in the right-hand grip of 82 kilos to 85 kilos, and by lifting 633 kilos with his back, thus smashing the old figure of 608 kilos.

Hunt Club to Hold Race Meet.

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—Prominent members of the Radnor, Chester Valley, Rose Tree, Lima, and Westchester Hunt Clubs, eager to promote the breeding and testing of blooded stock in races on the flat and over the jumps, have arranged to give a Spring race meeting at Belmont Park, near this city. With the approval of the governing body a three days' meet over the picturesque course at Narbeth is to be held on May 19, 21, and 23. Robert Kelso Cassatt was chosen as the treasurer for the guarantors, while Paul Denickla Mills will act as secretary. It is the purpose to be incorporated under the name of the Pennsylvania State Breeders and Racing Association.

Big Sunday Game at Hoboken.

Billy Murray, resident and favorite of Jersey City, will take his Philadelphia National League team to the St. George cricket grounds, Hoboken, next Sunday, and there this combination, with Lew Moren, Mike Doolin, Eddie Grant, and George McQuillen, all Jersey City favorites, in the line-up, will play Joe Bean's Skeeters. Ordinarily the season in Hoboken would be pried open by the Hoboken Club, but the team, though now in process of organization, will not be ready to play for a fortnight. When it does take the field its admirers will find it stronger than ever.

SOLDIER ATHLETES COMPETE.

Handicap Events of Military Athletic League Held at 71st Regiment.

Close and exciting were all the events in the twelfth annual handicap meet of the Military Athletic League, which was held at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory last night. This was the first section of the regular annual championship meet of the league, although only the handicap events were held. The championship events will be held shortly at the armory of the Twenty-second Regiment.

The Thirteenth Regiment boys, by running well up to form in all the events, easily captured the meet and the trophy for the championship in the handicap events with a total score of 28 points.

Melvin W. Sheppard, the present American middle distance champion, ran a fine race in the trial heat of the quarter-mile run. Starting from the mark of three yards he made his way around the field, slowly but surely, finally finishing in third place. The disqualification of the winner let Sheppard into the final heat.

In the final heat of the same race James J. McIntee of the Twenty-second Regiment, running from the thirteen-yard mark, won in handy fashion over Lyndon Pierce of the Thirteenth. Many hisses were heard throughout the building over his rough work on the turns, but as the inspector did not see any foul work the referee did not disqualify him. McIntee's time for the race, 0:49 3-5, was very fast, considering the armory track.

The wall-scaling and the tug-of-war events, both of which were championship competitions, brought out displays of applause from the spectators. The summaries:

FINALS IN COURT TENNIS.

Miles and Whitney Will Decide To-day Right to Challenge Gould.

The final match in the amateur court tennis championship of the United States will be played this afternoon at the New York Racquet and Tennis Club, with Eustace H. Miles of London, England, and Payne Whitney of the New York Racquet and Tennis Club as the contestants. The winner of the match will earn the right to challenge Jay Gould, the title holder.

Yesterday was a busy day for the survivors. Jay Gould met George Standing in a two-set match, winning by the score of 6—4, 6—4. Gould declined to accept the customary odds of 15 from the professional, and played even. He showed strength in every department of the game.

Miles played against Peter Latham, the English professional, receiving 15. The amateur won the match by the same score that Gould defeated Standing. The game would, however, indicate that the title holder played the best game, as Latham and Standing are players of about equal strength. Miles showed notable improvement in his service and played the floor well.

Payne Whitney played Walter Kinsella, confining himself to practicing to meet Miles's attack to-day. Kinsella used many of Miles's strokes, especially the service, which Whitney met in good style.

Ready to Back Gotch for $5,000.

It is probable that a return match for the wrestling championship of the world, catch-as-catch-can style, between Frank Gotch and George Hackenschmidt, will be arranged, to be decided in London some time during the coming Summer. Gotch has signified his willingness to meet the "Russian Lion" again and expressed a desire to have the contest decided abroad, provided the inducements are satisfactory. Johnny Considine, who is an admirer of the champion and a friend of Jack Herman, Gotch's manager, says that he is prepared to back the "Humboldt Farmer" to the extent of $5,000 if the match is made. Considine is contemplating a trip to England, and expects to leave for the other side in about a month or six weeks. He is going to take the trip for pleasure, but will represent Gotch and Herman and try to arrange a match. Gotch, it is understood, will insist upon a large guarantee and a side bet, the same to be posted at least a month before the match is held. Gotch has received offers to show at the various English music halls at a large salary, and probably will accept a few engagements.

Americus Throws Fred Beell.

BALTIMORE, April 8.—"Americus" (George Schoenlein) to-night defeated Fred Beell by winning the first two falls of a wrestling match that was to have been best two in three. The first fall was gained by "Americus" in twenty-one minutes and the second in two minutes.

Track Meet of Columbia Team.

A. P. Montgomery, manager of the Columbia track team, said yesterday that the second annual interscholastic track meet will be held at Williamsbridge on May 16. The meet was originally scheduled for this date, but a misunderstanding caused the Columbia Oval cricket team, the lessees of the Williamsbridge property, to give the Public Schools Athletic League permission to hold its annual championships on the date selected by the Columbia manager for his meet.

F. STEFFENS WINS GYMNASTIC TITLE

West Side Y. M. C. A. Scores Majority of Points—N. Y. University Athlete Competes as "Unattached."

Frederick Steffens of the National Athletic Club won the all-around National gymnastic championship of the Amateur Athletic Union last night in one of the best gymnastic competitions that has been held by the Amateur Athletic Union for some time. The event was held in the Savage Institute Gymnasium, West Fifty-ninth Street, near Broadway, and the eight events for individual championships brought out an excellent number of entries in every case. The all-around title was restricted to four events, the long horse, side horse, parallel and horizontal bars. Steffens won first in the horizontal bars and got second in all of the others, his total points being 52.50 1-3. Frank Jirsek won second honors with a total of 45.95 points, and Anton Jahoda of the Bohemian Gymnastic Association was a good third with a total of 44.90 1-3.

The best individual showing next to Steffens was made by Theodore Anastas of the West Side Young Men's Christian Association, who won the title in rope climbing, got second in horizontal bars, and third with the flying rings. He was not entered in the all-around event, but his successes contributed materially to the leading point score made by the West Side Young Men's Christian Association, which secured 20 points in the eight regular events, while the National Athletic Club of Brooklyn was second with a total of 17. The Bohemian Association got 7.

A reminder of the troubles in the New York University which led during the day to the suspension of the entire junior class for three days, was shown in the Indian club swinging. Two New York University men were entered, and the programme bore their names and the university. George A. Flynn, however, who won the contest, had the announcer place him as "unattached," as by the rule of suspension the junior class students cannot represent the university during the period of their punishment.

Steffens by his all-around victory retains the title for another year. His performances were characterized by ease and grace in every event, and he showed decided improvement in many of the more difficult gymnastic features over a year ago. Outside of the New York University only two other colleges sent representatives, Yale and Princeton, the latter getting second with E. W. Mecabe in tumbling.

A large crowd of spectators witnessed the contests, and the A. A. U. officials were well represented, among them being James E. Sullivan, who was referee; M. P. Halpin, G. T. Hepbron, Charles D. Hawly, F. Rubien, and John R. Royle. The summary:

Flying Rings.—Won by J. D. Gleason, West Side Y. M. C. A., 11 2-10 points; Robert Hamman, National A. C., second, 10 3-10 points; Theodore Anastas, West Side Y. M. C. A., third, 10 3-100 points.

Horizontal Bars.—Won by Fred Steffens, National A. C., 13.43 2-3 points; Theodore Anastas, West Side Y. M. C. A., second, 10.03 points; Joseph Gregor, Bohemian Gymnastic Association, third, 12.70 points.

Side Horse.—Won by Roy E. Moore, Twenty-third Street Y. M. C. A., 13.51 2-3 points; Fred Steffens, National A. C., second, 13.18 1-3 points; Juan Fernandez, New York University, third, 11.75 points.

Indian Club Swinging.—Won by George A. Flynn, unattached; Joseph D. Harris, Pastime A. C., second; R. O. Phillips, Jr., New York University, third.

Parallel Bars.—Won by George Ketcham, Newark Y. M. C. A., 13.47 points; Fred Steffens, National A. C., second, 13.27 points; A. Schrall, West Side Y. M. C. A., third, 13.116 points.

Long Horse.—Won by Joseph Gregor, Bohemian Gymnastic Association, 12.63½ points; Fred Steffens, National A. C., second, 12.11 2-3 points; William Heisler, Bohemian Gymnastic Association, third.

Tumbling.—Won by A. Schnall, West Side Y. M. C. A.; E. W. Mecabe, Princeton, second; W. E. Thompson, New York University, third.

Rope Climbing.—Won by Theodore Anastas, West Side Y. M. C. A.; Joseph J. Smith, Cambridgeport Gymnasium Association, second; R. R. Leissring, New York Turn Verein, third.

All-Around Championship.—Won by Fred Steffens, National A. C., total points for the four events, (side horse, long horse, parallel bars, and horizontal bars,) 52.50 2-3; Frank Jisek, National T. L., second, 45.95 points, Anton Johade, Bohemian Gymnastic Association, third, 44.90 1-3 points.

Goldman Defeats Smith at Pool.

H. Goldman beat Alexander Smith last night in the pool tournament at Doyle's Academy, Broadway and Forty-second Street, by 50 points to 28 in six frames. The tourney has narrowed down to Goldman and W. Downs, who will play to-night. Goldman has won five games and lost one, and Downs has five victories and no defeats. The score:

Goldman—12 4 15 11 5 3. Total, 50; high run, 16; scratches, 2.

Poggenburg Outplays McLoughlin.

In the first practice game for the international amateur 18.2 balk-line championship, which is to be decided in this city on April 28, J. F. Poggenburg last night defeated Ed McLoughlin by 400 to 312. The contest was played at the Liederkranz Club Fifty-eighth Street, near Park Avenue, and was enjoyed by a large crowd of billiard enthusiasts. McLoughlin started off poorly, but toward the end he got into his stride and came near overtaking his opponent.

Brown Beats White Third Time.

M. B. Brown won his third straight game from Charles E. White in the billiard tournament for the amateur championship of Brooklyn at the Knickerbocker Academy, Brooklyn, last night, by 300 points to 211. Forty-six innings were necessary to decide the contest. Brown averaged 6 24-46 and White 4 31-45. Brown is now in the lead, with 900 points to his opponent's 575.

CITY COLLEGE OUTCLASSED.

Lehigh Lacrosse Team Defeats New Yorkers with but Little Trouble.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Penn., April 8.—Lehigh University to-day overwhelmingly defeated the lacrosse team of the College of the City of New York by a score of 8 to 0. Both in defensive and offensive playing the visitors were outpointed. So strenuously did Lehigh's attack work that the New Yorkers only had one try at the goal during the game. The other very few times that the collegians were able to advance the ball into Lehigh's territory they never got further than the defense position men.

Capt. Pasternak played a good game for New York. In tipping, running, and all-around work, Capt. Duncan, Harrower, Morris, and Hoffman excelled for Lehigh. The line-up:

New York.	Position.	Lehigh.
Pasternak	Goal	Gonzales
Thompson	Point	Barth, Brumbaugh
Belmont	Cover point	Archer, Barth
Baum	First defense	Gorman, Archer, Lakey
Heskwitz	Second defense	McCoy, Powan
Immerman	Third defense	A. Osborne
Hughes	Centre	Morris
Berman	Third attack	Clark, Zouck
Saxe	Second attack	Duncan, (Capt.)
Lack	First attack	Donaldson, Dorsey
McNichol	Out home	Hoffman, Madder
Di Martino	In home	Harrower, Lowengrund

Goals—Harrower, 4; Hoffman, 3; Morris, 1. Referee—Mr. Erwin, Pennsylvania. Goal umpires—Mr. Starr, New York; Mr. Thomas, Lehigh. Timekeepers—Mr. Morris, New York; Mr. Altemus, Lehigh. Time of halves—Twenty-five and twenty minutes.

RAIN HALTS THE GIANTS.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 8.—Though much disappointment was occasioned to-day by the calling off of the game between the Giants and Springfield because of severe rains there, little time was lost in coming to this city in the hope that the grounds here would permit of some practice to-morrow morning. The rain extended to this city as well, and while it is dry here to-night the sky is cloudy, and it is doubtful whether a game will take place.

Doyle and Crandall were the sorry members of the Giants when the Springfield date was canceled. It developed during the day that Manager McGraw received a telegram this morning in St. Louis from some of Doyle's many Springfield friends, requesting that he bring the team East via Springfield, as they had a diamond ring for presentation to Doyle.

Crandall's relatives and friends had arranged to see him pitch there, and this is the only chance they will have this year, as Crandall declares he will never return to the minor league. Taylor met the Giants at the Union Station in St. Louis this morning, and, after learning of the pitching stunts of "Matty" and Ames at Little Rock, is anxious to try himself for nine innings against the American Association champions at Columbus, probably the hardest contest of the preparatory period.

Eight Yankees Return Home.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, April 8.—The Baltimore-New York game scheduled for this afternoon was postponed on account of rain. The two teams will play to-morrow. Pitchers Orth, Glade, Hogg, Chesbro, Newton, Doyle, Zeller, and Catcher Kleinow left for New York this afternoon, where they will remain until the opening of the season.

Rain Prevents Baseball Games.

Baseball games scheduled to be played in the Eastern section of the United States yesterday afternoon were declared off on account of rain.

Murphy Outpoints Goodman.

Tommy Murphy of Harlem returned to the ring again last night after an absence of several months, and met Kid Goodman of Boston in a six-round bout at the Sharkey Athletic Club. The contest was far from being as lively as the "members" anticipated. Murphy had the better of the scrap, but while he landed on the Boston man repeatedly, Goodman was in no danger of being knocked out. In the first two rounds, although it was agreed to fight straight Marquis of Queensberry rules, Goodman elected to clinch. He did this so often that the contest resolved itself into a wrestling match, and Referee James Buckley had all he could do to separate the pair. Goodman was admonished in the third round, and he fought a trifle better after that. Then Murphy had a chance to show his skill, and he landed some stiff knocks. However, Goodman had a strong defense and in this way he managed to escape Murphy's heavy onslaught.

New Allegro a Palatial Yacht.

Special to The New York Times.

Last Musical Ride at Durland's.

The last musical ride of the season at Durland's Riding Academy took place last evening with thirty couples in the ring. After the manoeuvres the women and men composing the class formed in a circle, and George Nicholas was presented, on behalf of the class, a purse of $500, to show their appreciation of his skill as a teacher, which, judging from the exhibitions of horsemanship given last night, was well deserved. Mr. Krauss was also a recipient of many flowers and congratulations amid the applause of a large audience. This was followed by some exceedingly interesting riding. The finishing game of basket ball for the silver cup presented by William Durland, between the Durlands and the Wanderers, was declared a draw. Tandem driving, under the command of Carl Stoerzer, and an exciting hurdle race, won by Mr. Tynan, closed the evening's entertainment.

THE DEFEAT OF THE RACING BILLS.

The responsibility for the defeat of the bills forbidding gambling upon race tracks rests, of course, upon every one of the twenty-five Senators who voted in the negative. If it be the public judgment that some greater measure of this responsibility rests upon Senator Cassidy and Senator Wilcox, those Senators have only themselves to blame. Senator Wilcox had declined to make known clearly his position, but his vote was hoped for, if not counted on, in favor of the measure. It is not easy to see why anybody should have counted upon the vote of Cassidy, whose record at Albany has not been of a nature to inspire the belief that he is possessed of an unconquerable prejudice against race-track gambling. However, as the situation shaped itself at the decisive moment, it was felt that the fate of the bill rested with Senator Cassidy, and his negative vote created a tie and lost the day for the opponents of horse-race betting.

It is much too soon for the racing men to exult over what they will probably call their victory. They have yet to reckon with Gov. Hughes, who has suffered a reverse, but not defeat. His resources are not exhausted. If he choose to call an extra session it can hardly be doubted that he will compel the Senate to pass the bill.

The reverse Gov. Hughes has suffered in the defeat of the measure is not of a kind to do him harm. On the contrary, his tireless and intelligent labors in its behalf have commended him to the confidence and admiration of the people of the State and of other States.

THREE WAYS WITH A CRISIS.

The report of the Clearing House Committee upon its management of the panic comes conveniently for comparison with the Treasury's management of its share of the crisis, and with Congress's proposals for the future. These plans represent respectively the bankers' way, the official way, and the legislative way, and comparison will enable all concerned to see which they prefer from their points of view.

The bearing upon the Aldrich and Fowler bills is especially obvious, even if the parallel is not entirely complete. Speaking generally, the Clearing House Committee managed the incident in accordance with the principle of the Fowler bill, and not according to the Aldrich bill. Secretary Cortelyou's management, on the other hand, more resembled the Aldrich proposal than the Fowler plan. The comparison is less to the disadvantage of Secretary Cortelyou than of Senator Aldrich, for the Secretary acted under the spur of instant necessity, while the Senator had all the time there was to propose what was best in his judgment. The conditions, therefore, excuse and explain the example of the use of bonds as security in a crisis, as illustrated by Secretary Cortelyou's action. He lacked the facilities for utilizing commercial assets which the Clearing House possesses. He, therefore, was under compulsion to accept bonds as security for his purposes, but no one would be readier to admit than he that the list which he accepted is open to criticism. Doubtless it will be urged that the Aldrich plan will safeguard the quality of the bonds under it. But no safeguards can make bonds acceptable for such uses, and no precaution can prevent allegations of discrimination between classes of bonds, and constant pressure tending toward deterioration of the standard of acceptance. The Aldrich plan, therefore, appears bad root and branch because of defects beyond cure.

The Clearing House report, on the other hand, demonstrates that it is not necessary to use bonds for security in emergencies, there being an ample supply of commercial paper of indisputable quality. Three-quarters of the security accepted by the Clearing House was ordinary commercial paper, and not a cent of it was defaulted. This payment upon short maturity is an essential excellence which bonds lack. A crisis runs its course naturally, and the burden of liquidation is distributed over the largest practicable area, when numerous small obligations ripen to payment. On the other hand, if the Clearing House had been compelled to liquidate $330,000,000 of bonds the security markets would have been still further disordered by the means taken to alleviate the situation. No borrower takes kindly to the selling out of his loans in an adverse market, nor has any merchant a grievance by the requirement for the payment of his paper according to its face. On the other hand, the acceptance of such paper as security stimulates the market for it naturally, and affords a basis of credit much broader than any grade of public securities which can be accepted. The Clearing House report should be decisive regarding the principles upon which the Aldrich and Fowler bills are based. The Aldrich bill is beyond amendment, and criticism of the Fowler bill is reduced to details and surplusage.

THE FIRST CROP REPORT.

Winter wheat is the first crop about which we get reports, and this year's appears to-day. Quantitatively the indication is for 493,997,000 bushels, or so nearly the same as at this time last year that any distinction must be found in details. The yield per acre and the condition are higher. The acreage must be taken as given at the time of planting until we get next month the report of Winter killed and abandoned breadth. Present indications are not, as might be hastily assumed, for an outturn as good as last year's because the quantitative estimates agree. The difference in conditions denotes a robuster plant, with better prospects of undergoing the season's trials, whatever they are. Last year's indications fell short of realization by the exceptionally large amount of 75,000,000 bushels. The minimum expectation would be to lessen that by some uncertain amount. The unusually good condition suggests a considerable betterment, and this is likely to be increased by a reduction in the loss from Winter killing.

A warning is given by the fact that in the year in which condition was highest in April (1903) it was pretty near the lowest at harvest, running off 23 per cent., and the crop hardly exceeded 400,000,000 bushels. If that experience is to be repeated at least we are in good condition to endure it. The likelier prospect is that the Winter-killed breadth will approach the minimum of around a million bushels, and that the condition should deteriorate something like the average, say, 5 per cent. If these reasonable expectations are realized we shall, of course, fall far short of the indicated yield as given above—which has never been realized—but we may easily harvest 450,000,000 bushels, more or less. In other words, this year's yield is likely to approach if not to exceed the maximum, and to give us all that is good for us. For we may have too much wheat, as we are experiencing the results of too much prosperity. If the yield is excessive the price falls, and there is a demand for lower freight rates, and the crop does not move as when price and yield are more normal.

TO AVOID RECEIVERSHIPS.

The Assembly bill increasing the authority of the Superintendent of Banks and giving him the power to take possession of and liquidate failed institutions comes to a third reading to-day. There can be no doubt that it is a wise and salutary measure, and the necessity for its enactment has been abundantly demonstrated by recent experience with bank receiverships.

The bill confers upon the Superintendent practically the same power to liquidate the affairs of a bank that is now vested in the Controller of the Currency under the National Banking act. In addition to this it would enable him to correct many unwise practices, which would have a tendency to avert a failure. In his last annual message Gov. Hughes recommended this legislation in the passage which we here quote:

> The amount of legal expenses incident to the liquidation of insolvent banking institutions in this State is a grave scandal to which the Committee of Bankers fittingly calls attention. I recommend that provision be made for liquidation under the supervision of the Superintendent of Banks, and that he shall have authority to appoint liquidating agents and necessary assistants to enable him to wind up the business in the most speedy and economical manner. I do not think that there should be an attempt to oust the court of its jurisdiction to appoint receivers. But the present provisions of law for exclusive liquidation through receivers appointed by the court may be changed, and the courts should be left to exercise their jurisdiction in cases where they deem it necessary to interfere with the ordinary course of liquidation.

The Governor's Bank Commission inquired diligently into this subject, and recommended the changes in the law which the pending measure would effect. No State officer can be as familiar with the affairs of banking institutions as the Superintendent, and when a bank is in trouble it will be a natural and sensible procedure to put him in possession for a liquidation of its affairs. The similar provision of the National Banking act has worked well. In the large number of cases the dissipation of assets through costly receiverships would be avoided, and those scandals that have in so many cases attached to the appointment of receivers would be less frequent.

CONGRESSIONAL HEAD-HUNTERS.

There is something of savagery in the temper of the Republicans in the pursuit of the spoils of the Census Office. Mr. Crumpacker and his Census Committee manifest a dull, persistent rage at the mere thought that the work of the census should be done by capable [illegible] with no obligation to the politicians of the committee or of the party generally. It is the spirit of the head-hunters of Borneo who thirst for the slaughter of every man with a white skin or a shirt to his back.

The census is the most important work of its sort that falls to the National Government. Accuracy is indispensable for it. An inaccurate census is worse than none. Every business interest as well as every political interest is concerned to have the work done as well as possible. To get it done as well as possible the President has recommended that appointments to clerkships in the office be made on open competition. The Director of the former census backs this recommendation. The Hon. Carroll D. Wright estimates that the mere extra cost to the Government of the spoils system of appointment was over $2,000,000. The actual cost to the country of inaccuracy and blundering cannot be estimated. Fifty commercial bodies in twenty-six States have urged that open competition should be adopted. Against this array of evidence in support of the practical and businesslike method as opposed to the spoils method the committee is obdurate.

Not only has it stricken out the provision for competitive examinations as a test for selection for clerkships, but it has stricken out the provision that in the appointment of enumerators the Director should have authority to appoint the substitute mail carriers and the substitute rural free delivery agents in the districts to which they belong. These men being a select body, chosen for duties closely corresponding to the enumeration, cannot be expected to serve the purposes of the politicians as their own dependents would. The head-hunters are out for every bit of the patronage involved in the places connected with the census, some 70,000 in all, and the great and lasting interests of various classes of the people do not weigh in the slightest with them. We would suggest to the numerous commercial organizations that have expressed themselves on this matter already that it would be good policy and patriotic to bring these facts to the attention of the voters in the districts of members of the committee who are involved in this offense against good government.

NEW JERSEY'S RIGHTS AND DUTIES

In its last batch of decisions the Supreme Court affirmed New Jersey's right to prohibit the sale of its drinking waters to another State. Passaic River belongs to New Jersey, not to the abutting owners along the banks, and they cannot sell water to Richmond County to the prejudice of Jerseymen. The private right to use the water of the Passaic is subject not only to the rights of owners lower down the stream, but also to the broader and earlier limitation that private owners may not substantially diminish one of the great foundations of public welfare and health.

We are sorry for Richmond County, but not so sorry as we would be if New York's rivers were not assured to New York by the same decision that fortifies New Jersey's title to the Passaic. Now that it is settled that New Jersey has the right to keep its rivers, cannot the point be raised that it is its duty to keep its sewage also? Recently the obstacles to diverting the natural drainage of the Passaic Valley into New York Harbor have been removed, and the time is approaching when 345,000,000 gallons daily of house and factory waste will be poured into the lower Hudson and upper harbor. Already 455,000,000 gallons of our own wastes are emptied into these waters. New Jersey cannot embarrass us by remarking that it is also proposed to divert into the Hudson natural drainage from the Bronx into the Sound. We long ago took the position that both plans are uncivilized and deadly; but both are progressing daily nevertheless.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

An Expert Views Our Trolleys.

A Chicago Tribune man, who has just traveled by trolley all the way—nearly—from his own city to this one, says that he found the last day's journey, from Albany south, the hardest and most exasperating of all the eight during which he was on the way. Worse still, he declares that the troubles of this last day increased steadily as he approached the metropolis. After quitting White Plains the cars were crowded to suffocation, the route was tortuous, the motion slow, and the changes were frequent. The fares, he admits—and this may be highly significant—were lower than those he found elsewhere, but the service he considers more than enough poorer to make up for that, and in his irritation he asserts that what we have in this vicinity wouldn't be regarded out in his country as worthy of the name of interurban service. There is no reason for concealing the truth, which is that for many years the whole Bronx and Westchester region has had a trolley service as bad as incompetence or something worse could make it. Instead of consulting public interests and foreseeing public needs, the deplorable "Huckleberry line" has seemed to have no object except to keep its franchises alive. With an enormous population eager to grow still larger for its potential patrons, that company has apparently hated to put on enough cars to handle the traffic, and it has persistently run those in use so as to make changes innumerable and delays endless. No attempt whatever to attract pleasure travel has been made, and, while every car has been cruelly jammed with people, they have never contained anybody not compelled to take them by a necessity more or less stern.

There has been of late a slight improvement under the several receivers, and there may be better times coming—times when the pleasant land to the northward of the city will be as well served by its trolleys as are innumerable parts of New England and the West. Meanwhile the trolley officials can get more business, if they want it, by making it easier to find out what they offer in the way of transportation. "I could always," says the Chicago man, "find out how to get to a given point by steam, but it was difficult to learn what could be done by trolley." That is a common experience.

Just what the Faculty of New York University should have done to the juniors to vindicate its offended dignity and in illustration of its purpose to maintain discipline we are not prepared to announce—and properly glad are we, too, that no special obligation to solve that particularly difficult problem rests upon us. It did rest upon the Faculty, however, and, after a struggle, they seem to have done worse than give it up, for the suspension for three days of the junior class is less than nothing—from the undergraduate standpoint, a reward rather than a punishment.

No wonder the young cubs yelped with joy on hearing their sentence and celebrated their victory over the Faculty from the moment they began to suspect how complete it was to be. Indeed, it is but little wonder that some of them, as they trooped hilariously out of chapel after that derisory allocution, fell upon the unhappy Bloch and pommeled him till he also yelped, though not with joy. Of course, that wasn't hazing at all, or a joke at all, but mere malicious and cowardly persecution. In it few participated, however, and an immediate end was put to that form of sport by the wiser and decenter boys who happened to be near. Hence no great amount of indignation need be wasted in its denunciation.

The case of the Faculty is different. From its members competence to deal with the familiar questions of college discipline as they arise can fairly be expected, and when, as in this instance, the only remedy they can devise for an undergraduate mutiny is a three-day vacation in early Spring, when everybody is just aching to be out of doors, then one is moved to ask if Chancellor MacCracken hadn't better shorten his European tour and leave the Scandinavian youth to their natural guardians and instructors. In seemingly desperate need of both guardianship and instruction are the youth of the New York University, for at present they are getting lamentably mistaken notions as to their place in the world and of the powers which they have a right to exercise over themselves and others.

Automobile Parades Hereafter.

Tuesday evening's automobile parade was sufficiently impressive in itself and for its designed purpose of illustrating the magnitude attained by the automobile business in a single decade. The exhibition had another significance for some, however, and what they saw in it was a prophecy of what can be accomplished with these machines in the days to be when they have come into common use for all the ends of business and pleasure that involve transportation.

Then there will be parades in which the assorted kinds of motor cars will figure largely, indeed, but as a means and not as objects of immediate and direct interest—will figure, that is, exactly as horses and carriages have done in the past. We will probably have the processional sense better developed by that time than it is now, and, with the automobile as basis and moving power, it will be possible to organize parades of a grandeur and beauty as yet little more than imagined.

To be sure, the horse lends himself not ungraciously to spectacular effects, but the horse is an untrustworthy and timid beast, with which too many liberties cannot safely be taken. The automobile, on the other hand, is not afraid of anything, and it knows not weariness under any burden. Moreover, it is always under perfect control. At least, the automobile advertisements say so, and they are written by, or for, men who know more about automobiles than anybody else, and common, if not quite invariable, experience lends credibility to their claim.

In the parades of the future everything will depend on the capabilities of the automobile, but the automobile will be as little considered as are the lumbering trucks under the symbolical "float" with which we are now familiar. The self-moving car, however, will provide endless opportunity for decoration and illumination and for progress stately or graceful, according to the demands of the occasion.

Princess in Her Own Right.

Why all this talk about the eligibility of Miss Elkins for marriage with royalty—this general assumption that somehow her social rank must be raised before she can mate with a Prince? We are too modest and the Italians are a bit too confident of the Abruzzian superiority.

The fact is that Miss Elkins, as the daughter of a sometime Secretary of War, can claim to have been nearer a throne than is the Prince, for her father was then in direct line of succession to the Presidency, and could have reached it by a shorter and not less easily conceivable series of accidents than that by which this Prince's bride can be brought to share in royal honors.

That the ex-Secretary is at present only a Senator does not affect the question, since it is well known, especially in Europe, that dignity and privilege survive service and function indefinitely, and many a family over there is not the less "princière" because it is "non-regnante." For proof and particulars see the Almanach de Gotha.

FRESH AIR.

One Who Suffered from Tuberculosis Recounts His Cure.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with a great deal of interest what Miss Helen Schloss has to say in regard to the fresh air. I can best speak my sentiments by describing my experiences for the past few years. Through lack of proper ventilation at night and during the day; through fear of the night air, by having myself shut indoors when I should have been outside in the sun, and from various other causes that I see now, my lungs became weak, and I fell an easy prey to tuberculosis. I was sent to the mountains. I was forced to remain in the air, no matter how the weather was, and I had to sit there, bundled up and quiet, irrespective of the cold. Many a day I sat out with the temperature 15 and 20 degrees below zero, and I have slept out with it 30 degrees below. What at first was a hardship for me, I gradually began to like, and am now uneasy and uncomfortable when indoors.

Thousands of my kind can describe similar experiences, and you will find us outside, whether it rains, snows, or hails, whether it blows or scorches, and in the majority of cases not one of us knows what it is to take cold. Foggy weather is no impediment to us, night air is as good as the day, sleeping out in the Summer is a luxury, in the Winter it is bracing and exhilarating. Constantly on our minds is "fresh air," be it inclement or not, and we are in it from eight to ten hours a day.

"A HOUSE OF SHAKESPEARE"

AGAINST BARKER'S OPINION

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When the founders of the New Theatre offered its management to a young Englishman, the only thing to say, as it seemed to me, was that it is wise to get the best man wherever he is to be found. As a people we have always been eclectic, assimilative, and a large part of whatever strength we have is owing to this fact. But when Mr. Granville Barker consigns the whole project to perdition for no other reason than that he disagrees with the founders with regard to the size of the building, it is high time that the voice of protest should be heard.

The scant leisure and overtaxed energy of a score and more of our busiest and most important citizens have been lavished on the project, to say nothing of considerable sums of money. One of the foremost of American architects has put his heart and soul, regardless of financial profit, into the task of giving the drama an adequately dignified home. It is scarcely credible that such loyal devotion should be met with faintness of heart and facility in discouragement on the part of the very public which it is proposed to benefit.

For what sort of play is the New Theatre too large? For "all that is best," Mr. Barker says, "all that is most characteristic, of the modern dramatic movement." Beyond question it is too large for certain of the plays of Shaw, Barrie and Pinero, Hauptmann and Gorky. "Candida," "Quality Street," "Trelawny of the Wells," "The Weavers," and "The Night Refuge" appeal to the intelligence and the sympathies through intimate and subtle strokes of phrase and of mimique which cannot be so enlarged and emphasized in the representation as to be widely recognized without falsifying the whole and making it seem artificial. But are such plays the best and the most characteristic products of the modern school? "Man and Superman" packed the Hudson Theatre, "Peter Pan" and "The Liars" packed the Empire, "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" has been played in our largest theatres—and all without any appreciable loss.

There is every reason to believe that they could be adequately represented in the New Theatre, though this has twice the capacity of the Empire or the Hudson. No seat in it is further removed from the stage than corresponding seats in the Hofburgtheater, in Vienna, and the Théâtre Français. In the Hofburg I saw a performance of Hauptmann's intimate and tender "Hannele," and in the Théâtre Français I have seen many modern "intellectual" plays produced with every essential effect, notwithstanding the fact that my seats were among the furthest removed from the stage. Joseph Jefferson relates in his autobiography that before playing in a theatre he always went on the stage and tested the auditorium so as to know precisely what calibre in speaking and mimicry was necessary to make him understood in every part of the auditorium. With similar care many or most modern plays can be made effective in the New Theatre.

And it is by no means certain that the first purpose of such a theatre should be to foster the modern movement—especially the modern movement of this single decade, which is conceived on a smaller scale than any other movement in the entire history of the drama of the world. Sophocles was perhaps less "intimate" than Shaw, but scarcely less subtle and artistic. Yet the theatre for which he (and Aschylus and Euripides and Aristophanes) wrote held 17,000, as against 2,300 in the New Theatre. The theatres of Plautus and Terence were huge. Lope de Vega and Calderon wrote for very large theatres. The size of Molière's theatre I cannot now ascertain, but every one knows that his plays are quite adequately represented in the Théâtre Français. Of the capacity of the Elizabethan playhouse, the only contemporary estimate is 3,000, (The Swan,) and the most modern estimates, made from an analysis of the plans for the Fortune ranges downward from 2,000 (Sidney Lee) to 1,600, (William Archer and Walter H. Godfrey, an English architect.) Until the present decade of dramatic grace the world has never produced a dramatic masterpiece which cannot be admirably represented in the New Theatre.

Mr. Barker has made his reputation in a theatre scarcely larger than the Berkeley Lyceum. His idea is that the New Theatre should have a stage twenty-six feet wide, or four feet narrower than that of the Savoy. Of his ability I make no question, never having seen one of his productions. I am told, however, on the highest authority, that his interests are limited and his scope, both as an actor and a manager, narrow. Of his candor and intelligence numerous conversations with him have given me a very high opinion. But his assumption that a permanent monument to the dramatic masterpieces of all time should be scaled to a single brief movement in the drama, or rather, to a single and, on the whole minor, phase of that movement, seems to me grotesque.

Personally, I should be glad if the New Theatre were somewhat smaller. Over two years ago, when the founders fixed the dimensions, in their outline of the conditions of the architects' competition for the commission to build it, I pointed out that a somewhat smaller house was necessary for the more intimate modern dramas. Mr. Archer quoted what I said in The Tribune of London with approval. But such a consideration has now become mainly of academic interest. The plans for the New Theatre have been worked out with every refinement of detail, and the foundations raised to the level of the street. To reduce the size of the auditorium would cost upward of $500,000.

That sum can be spent to far better advantage. Much has been made of the fact that the classical theatres of the Continent are "conservative" and largely devoted to what has been. (Incidentally, it may be remarked that their chief purpose is to conserve the classics and to keep vivid in the public mind a high standard of taste and appreciation.) From time to time advanced movements have found homes in smaller theatres. Reinhardt in Berlin and Antoine in Paris have gained great reputations for being more intelligent than the managers of the classical houses.

Gladly I grant that their services to their time have been vast. The difference which they have made, however, has been due to the size of their theatres, rather than to any absolute artistic superiority. In all his career, Antoine has produced no play equal to any of the great French masterpieces. Even among the most advanced moderns he has missed the credit of producing the masterpieces of Rostand, Maeterlinck, Donnay, Lavedan, and Hervieu. And his enterprise was so far from successful that he gave up the Théâtre Antoine to take the management of the Odéon—where, it is said, he has not been really successful.

As the large playhouse is essential to conserve the classics, so the small playhouse is essential to the blazing of new paths. The opera, we have found, requires two houses of different scale, and it is proposed to devote two evenings a week at the New Theatre to opera comique. In the drama the conditions are precisely similar. Sooner or later what has happened in Paris and Berlin and Vienna and Munich will happen here. The increase of interest in dramatic art, which a classical theatre always stimulates, will express itself in a playhouse which is ostensibly more intelligent, but which in reality derives its quality from mere difference in size. If the founders of the New Theatre wish to repair their original error—granting that it is an error—let them see to it that we have a playhouse for the drama which is too small in scale for their present building, and which is, furthermore, as Mr. Barker cogently urges, too limited in public appeal to run profitably in so large a house.

Meantime let us not forget that New York is to give the English-speaking world its first example of a theatre devoted to the art of the drama—to raise the first adequate monument to the genius of the greatest of all dramatists. For over 200 years there has been a House of Molière. Now we are to have a House of Shakespeare.

MARY HART'S COMMENTS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The argument has gone far afield, hasn't it? I should think Mr. Fides in Matrimonium must be wrinkling his brows in perplexity and asking, "Did I ask how to pronounce 'Auchtermuchty,' or was it Mary Hart who couldn't find Alaska on the map?"

In a leter printed yesterday the boarding house was made to blossom like the rose, and to-day we learn why so many men are single. It would all be very disquieting if we didn't know upon what a flimsy foundation it all rests. The Misses "A. R. L." and "A. B. M." are not alone. I suppose most business women have signed the Declaration of Independence with an aggressive flourish, and think that the possession of an independent salary is the acme of happiness. And then along comes Dan Cupid, and the whole superstructure falls like a house of cards.

M. M. Breslow's remarks are very much to the point, and the letter is a splendid summing up. The dollar mark is not the gauge by which to measure our happiness, matrimonial or otherwise, and $200 a month is no more the cause of "A. B. M.'s" happiness than the lack of it is the cause of mine.

In closing, I should like to say to Mrs. Brower, in reply to her kindly expressed criticism, that we should indeed feel selfish in withdrawing into our home with our books, camera, and work did we not feel that by so doing we spare our associates as much as we spare ourselves. We do not doubt the existence of people with tastes similar to ours, but fortune has not sent them our way. And so we are happy in spite of our lack of social pleasures, not at all because of it.

Seeks Information.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I should like to ask "A Young Woman Who Knows" to explain to one who does not know how one gets along "nicely" on $35 per week. Maybe she will be so kind as to fill out the following list of items:

Personal allowance (wife).......... —
Rent .... — Gas .... —
Insurance .... —
Housefurnishing — replacing pots, pans, glasses, linen, &c. .... —
Presents .... —
Amusements—theatres, concerts, vacation, &c. .... —
"Enough" left .... —
Not to speak of the child or children.......... —

This list is not meant to discourage "Fides," for doubtless many people live on less than $35 per week. It is a real case of seeking information.

ONE WHO DOES NOT KNOW.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos the letter from the happy business girl in a boarding house, I venture to suggest to the "lonely business" girls who sometimes wish that they had a "Mrs." prefixed to their names that they try a flat. We—three bachelor girls—have had a happy time this Winter living in a Harlem flat—and it doesn't cost as much as boarding, either. Oh, yes, we have plenty of men friends who drop in to tea and gallantly help us with the dishes and the garbage. We find men like to get away from the formality of boarding houses as much as women.

Not long ago a dignified Columbia professor was invited over for a pancake treat—with real maple syrup. If he came with the expectation of not having a hand in the affair he was happily mistaken, for we let him show his skill in the art, much to his enjoyment. Of course we believe in matrimony—who doesn't?—but we feel that many girls take the step too hastily for comforts not to be found in a boarding house, perhaps, and that certainly will not be the incentive in our case.

The Bachelor Speaks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am much of the opinion that Mr. Hart is not the sort of man that would be guilty of all or any of the masculine habits enumerated in your issue of to-day by "A. R. L.," (who wouldn't be a "queen.") Least of all do I think that he wastes any time at stage doors. And why do I say this? Simply because Mary Hart is the kind of woman that, having entered into a man's life, fills it. If "A. R. L." were to marry I dare say her husband might do the very things she says men do—loaf around saloons, political meetings, clubs, &c., and give his wife an "allowance." On the other hand the husbands of the Mary Harts are the men who wear the dials off the office or store clocks and form the flying wedges on the Subway express platforms, all on account of their Marys in Harlem.

A BACHELOR BECAUSE THERE ARE SO FEW MARY HARTS.

Would Save House Rent.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If "Fides" is getting $35 per week and his sweetheart $20, and they together have saved $1,000 a year and have it in the savings bank, would it not be a good idea to wait, say, four years, before they marry, and then with the $5,000 or $6,000 they have saved buy a small house in the suburbs?

A Word to Standpatters.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your leading editorial of the 6th inst. was of a most appropriate, timely, and commendable character. We are indisputably confronted with "an irrepressible conflict." It will be the part of wisdom for the standpatters, or strict protectionists, fully to concede the imminence of this conflict.

EXHIBITION AT THE MONTROSS GALLERIES

SOME STRONG LANDSCAPES

An Art That Is Notably Individual and Expresses Nature with Force and Refinement.

The group of paintings in oil and water color by W. L. Lathrop now on view at the Montross Galleries, 372 Fifth Avenue, not only have incontestable merit, but have also a note of individuality that makes itself felt, curiously, more in the finished paintings than in the brisk sketches accompanying them. This indicates apparently that the painter's point of view is not so exclusively his own as his sentiment for nature, since the point of view is the basis and substance of the sketch, and the expression of a sentiment may very well be a slow process, a gradual unfolding of a mental mood. The most reminiscent canvas in the collection is "The Old Mill Race," in which it is impossible to avoid receiving a reminder of an earlier master of landscape from the gray-green silhouette of the trees at the right, tremulous against the clouds; the curving road and silvery pool, and the gray sky, all held in a cool tone and innocent, with the exception of the slightly leaden wall of the sky, of any suggestion of pigment. Yet even this composition is not imitative. It is merely a successful expression of an aspect of nature visible to every sensitive observer at certain times, but difficult to reconcile with the downwright method commonly pursued by Mr. Lathrop in the translation of his impressions; and it promises a further future for his art in which his sturdy honesty of representation shall be united to a greater distinction of style. It is this distinction rather than any superficial resemblance of color and theme that brings Corot's name to the mind in looking at the picture just mentioned.

The landscape entitled "Early Spring" contains, on the other hand, the very essence of the painter's habitual regard of the outdoor world. The subject is a simple one—a hillside with sparse trees and shrubs, a slow stream meandering through the foreground, the linear perspective of the scene clearly marked by the placing of the trees and by the stream's banks, the color perspective less closely observed, and a general nobility of effect due to the wide horizon, the unobstructed outlook over the more or less monotonous land, the almost monumental character of the rugged ground. Another picture in which Mr. Lathrop has expressed his serious and large vision of nature is that called "Waste Land," the title itself indicating the severity of the subject. The sky is filled with cold gray clouds, thickly gathered above the horizon; below are cold gray rocks placed in lines that open out like wide-flung arms to the horizon, the color of the foreground is a wan green, the grass hardly staining the dry earth; at the horizon line the meadow sharply dips, emphasizing the form of the globe of which it is a part. Still another in the same class is called "Grey Day," and shows again a cold, green, pallid foreground, a wide open space, gray-white clouds, and a cluster of young bushes softly flushed with a warm violet tone. The color harmony is the finest in the collection, and a tenderness in the rendering of the atmosphere once more reminds us that Mr. Lathrop's achievement is in part a promise of still better things to come. "Spring Near an Old Quarry" is painted in a drab tone with dark trees that show none of the life of the Spring season. In "March Morning" the Spring is well begun, the vibrant purple of the trees and the quickening of the crooked stream giving their subtle indications of the breaking up of the frigid season.

In the water colors, six of which are exhibited, the artist works with much variety of treatment. "A Corn Field" has all the virtues of the medium chosen, the color rings out clearly and the perspective of the road and the field of cornshocks is beautifully understood. The brushwork is free and the texture of paper unworried. In the little "Marine" a much bolder method is used, and the brilliant, moist clouds overhanging a foreground drenched with light are full of zest in execution and of care in observation. The collection as a whole is that of a painter more interested, perhaps, in permanent than in evanescent effects, and who has gained breadth of workmanship without sacrificing truth of detail; who has, in a word, an important equipment.

Praise.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Several of my friends have spoken to me of the especial charm of the article in your Sunday edition entitled "Circus in Hospitals." All noticed it, and agreed with me in thinking that it was equal to R. H. Davis's work in his best days.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I take this opportunity to express my very great interest in the remarkable automobile New York to Paris race? The story as told daily by THE TIMES is certainly vivid and thrilling.

A Prince Edward Autophobe.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial paragraph for the exclusion of the automobile from Prince Edward Island inks the pen of a native of that vernal isle. Are you quite sure that the islanders deserve reproach for their action? Is it a mark either of insularity or old fogyism to detest, with deep detestation, the popularizing of the auto, with its menace to human as well as brute life, its odious outrages upon the senses of sight and smell, its nerve-murdering noises, its utterly coarse, brutal, and disgusting characteristics?

SOME RHYMES OF THE TIMES.

A Naval Operation.

"'Twas off the blue Equator
The Fleet was sailing free,'
Or so the salt narrator
Hath told the tale to me;
"The Surgeon bold commanding
Piped every one on board,
And 'neath the hot sun standing
This message loudly roared:

And here I now propose
To solve the earthquake's riddle,
And cure our cosmic woes.
Who'll leave his present station
And help me to perform
A needed operation
On Nature's vermiform?'

"Some sixty nurses splendid Responded then with glee,
And later on descended
Beneath the surging sea;
But if that brave physician
Successful was, or nay,
None knows—the Expedition
Is down there yet, they say."

Housekeeper to Don Quixote	Mrs. Holcomb

It may be doubted whether any other dramatist has ever succeeded in getting as much of Cervantes's story into one play as Paul Kester, whose version of "Don Quixote" was laboriously acted by Mr. Sothern and his company at the Lyric Theatre last night, but it is one thing to get things into a play and quite another for the audience to get them out.

Mr. Sothern, on his part, has gone to much effort and expense, and so far his purpose deserves respectful admiration. But even with the assistance of active and lusty-lunged players, constantly on the go and constantly striving to "get things over," the impossible cannot be accomplished.

Not many less reams were employed in the preparation of Mr. Kester's manuscript than were required to hold the original, or so at least it seemed, as the actors attempted to unfold it. Bustle there was in plenty—somewhat too much of it—and cackling laughter and noisy shouts, with yards upon yards of talk, and endless explanations; and action, too, of a kind, but to follow it all meant labor.

No doubt due reverence was observed, which seems a pity, since it was quite apparent that had Mr. Koster loved Cervantes less there would have been less of the book, and possibly then more of a play, and had Mr. Sothern loved Quixote less there might have been fewer of the long speeches, which would have been an advantage, since they were frequently unintelligible or tedious and uninteresting long before they reached a period.

There is much of repetition in the play, repetition of speeches, that if not identical amount to the same thing in the end, and repetition again of incidents which if not exactly the same are so nearly parallel that the effect is gone before a climax has been reached. And the practical jests of Samson Carraro and of Nicholas, the barber, with the later jests of the Duke Ricardo and his Duchess, are so long in coming to a head that the fun is out long before the point is driven home. Seeing these people at their pranks is a good deal like playing nine-pins in an alley where you set 'em up yourself. The fun doesn't last long enough to pay for the trouble.

The introduction of a secondary love interest concerning the hapless Dorothea de Clenardo, whose husband has forsaken her to woo another lady, only serves to delay such action as there is without in any sense providing ample excuse for its existence. The most famous incidents of the book—the encounter with the windmills, the attack on the flock of sheep, and the destruction of the wineskins—one gets only in the hearsay, but this is not to say that there is a lack of active details of the Sorrowful Knight's adventures.

Don Quixote lays about him more than once with his tall lance or his sword, and his enemies go down like the victims of the little tailor in the famous fairy story. So, too, we see him in his sentimental moods, with a wonderfully gentle dignity, as Mr. Sothern acts him, for try as he will it is the man's more melancholy mood that persistently comes over. That is the mood which reaches us as he stands in the inn-yard at watch over his armor, and as it impresses itself in his impassioned apostrophies to the beloved Dulcinea del Tobosco. And the cadaverous features, with the high cheekbones and the gray hollows under the eyes—a splendid piece of make-up—help to create a feeling of sympathy instead of mirth. There are moments, of course, where Don Quixote must be laughed at by reason of the ridiculous situations to which his madness drives him, and here Mr. Sothern's seriousness, as is quite right, provides a part of the illusion.

The rôle is very long, and his voice was not always equal to the task, especially as the supers and the supporting actors seemed to know little of restraint; but, considering the difficulties, his personal success was considerable.

It is not a performance that can be unhesitatingly commended, but it is one of dignified purpose. And as such it merits praise.

Mr. Buckstone's Sancho Panza provided most of the comedy. He wisely refrained from too much buffoonery. At the outset he was occasionally indistinct, but as he gained confidence and as his audience warmed to him the character mellowed in his hands, and the scene of his Governorship of the Island of Barataria, with the incident of the dinner at which he is denied all food, was carried forward in a spirit of excellent drollery. Sancho's many proverbs, and his repetitions of his masters' final phrases were spoken as they should be, the one with breathless eagerness, the other with adoration expressed in every syllable.

Of the others, Mr. Reichert, who spoke the prologue excellently; Mr. Wright, Miss Reed, Miss Hanson, and Miss Hammond did all that could in reason be expected. The ensembles were generally overloud and out of key with the moods of the scenes in which they occurred, but there was much richness of scene and costume, and an intelligent and interesting employment of subordinating effects in music and light.

The performance began promptly at 7:45 as advertised, but persons who had responded to the request to be in their seats at that hour were needlessly annoyed by late comers, who were shown to their seats all through the first act. If the management in a case of this kind expects its wishes to be respected more consideration should be shown to those who arrive on time.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., announced yesterday that he has signed a contract with Julian Mitchell for his exclusive services as general stage director. He has also engaged Maurice Levi, composer of the music of "The Soul Kiss," to be general music director of his attractions. Mr. Mitchell will make a trip immediately to London and Paris, and will then return to begin rehearsals of "The Follies of 1908."

Ted Marks's annual jubilee will take place at the New York Theatre on Sunday night. Many of the leading stars in the city will appear on the vaudeville bill.

ELGAR'S "KING OLAF" SUNG.

One of the most valuable agencies of musical culture which this city has known is the People's Choral Union, an organization brought into being by the genius and unselfish devotion of Mr. Frank Damrosch. It is composed, in its membership of seven or eight hundred, entirely of wage earners, whose innate love of music has been stirred into expression by the inspiration of Mr. Damrosch's teaching. Out of this heterogeneous body has grown up a choral society that is entitled to a very warm place in the affections of all who appreciate the value of an intelligent and healthy musical stimulus in the community.

Music for music's own sake and its beneficent influence on the participants is the chief aim of the organization, but once or twice a year it gives a public performance, and last night, at Carnegie Hall, it brought forward a highly commendable production of Sir Edward Elgar's cantata, "King Olaf." This work is based on a text adapted by H. A. Acworth from Longfellow's "Tales of a Wayside Inn." "King Olaf" was written by Dr. Elgar in 1896 for the North Staffordshire (England) musical festival. It has been sung only once before in this city—by the Brooklyn Choral Society in 1904.

The poem gives opportunity for much vigorous and stirring music, especially in the choral numbers, and the fresh wholesome voices of Mr. Damrosch's choristers, singing with enthusiasm and evident enjoyment, made those numbers particularly enjoyable last night. It does not speak well for either the generosity or self-interest of New York's music lovers that there was not a larger audience present to reward a worthy, unselfish offering or to seek pleasure in a finished and commendable performance of a musical novelty.

The Choral Union of 500 voices was supported by the New York Symphony Orchestra, and the solo parts were in the hands of Mrs. Beatrice Fine, soprano; Daniel Beddoe, tenor, and Edwin Evans, bass.

DAN FROHMAN MENTIONED.

Spoken of as a Probable Manager of the New Theatre.

Now that Granville Barker is to return to England, it having been mutually agreed between the Board of Founders of the New Theatre and himself that he is not the man to carry out the ideas as now planned, New York theatrical patrons are speculating as to whom the founders will call to the rescue. Otto H. Kahn recently said that he would like best of all to have an American, but that he had not been able to find an American to fill the requirements.

Though no announcement has been made, and while individual members of the board have declined to speak on the subject, it is generally believed that Daniel Frohman will be asked to take charge.

Mr. Frohman has now virtually retired as a producing manager, and, owing to old affiliations, is especially fitted to take charge of the enterprise in a practical manner.

However, it is considered doubtful whether Mr. Frohman would accept the position if it were offered him.

Supper to Granville Barker.

James K. Hackett gave a farewell supper to Granville Barker last night at the Players. Among the guests were ex-Judge W. M. K. Olcott, William Archer, H. B. Hodges, William H. Bliss, E. J. Wendell, Bernard M. Baruch, Otto Kahn, James Barnes, Howard Chandler Christy, John H. Finley, President of the College of the City of New York; Daniel Frohman, State Senator Elsberg, Senator Albert J. Beveridge, Charles H. Hart, and Pitts Duffield.

Ralph Hertz to be a Star.

Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., signed a contract with Ralph Hertz yesterday, in which he agreed to star Mr. Hertz in a new play by an English author. The rôle is a serious character part. Mr. Hertz is at present playing the rôle of Mephisto in "The Soul Kiss" at the New York Theatre.

Riding Stunt for Friars' Festival.

Among the latest volunteers for the Friars' Festival at the New York Theatre on May 14 are Barney Bernard and Stella Tracy, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Melville, from the Hippodrome, who will appear with their horses in an exhibition of high school riding.

NOTED HORSEMAN DEAD.

Frank Ferguson Warred Upon Dishonest Coachmen—Won First Blue Ribbon.

Frank Ferguson, owner of the San Francisco stables at 120 West Fifty-second Street, well known among horsemen as an exhibitor and trainer of fine horses, died of heart disease at his home, 224 West Fifty-second Street, on Tuesday. Mr. Ferguson had been ill nearly six months, and, according to his family, had worried himself ill in his ten years' fight to stop the tipping and commission system of coachmen employed by many of his wealthy patrons.

The fight against the system raged so bitterly for several years that when Mr. Ferguson's stable was burned down six years ago, he said it was the work of an incendiary and an outcome of his warfare against the system. Many coachmen who had been proved dishonest attributed their dismissals to Mr. Ferguson's war against their system.

Mr. Ferguson was the first winner of the blue ribbon in the light harness class at the New York Horse Show, and for several years thereafter repeated his triumph in that class. For over forty years his stable housed noted horses, while among the famous ones bred by himself was the trotter Georgena, 2:07¼, winner of the ten-thousand-dollar Charter Oak Stakes at Hartford, Conn.

Mr. Ferguson was born in Cohoes, this State, fifty-seven years ago. A widow and daughter survive him.

Miss Harriet Kissam.

Miss Harriet Kissam died in Peekskill, N. Y., on Sunday last. She was born on June 20, 1820. Her father was Dr. Benjamin P. Kissam of this city, a Surgeon in the United States Navy, who died on Oct. 26, 1828. She was the granddaughter of Peter Rutgers Kissam, a merchant of this city in Colonial days, and a descendant of John Kissam of Flushing, L. I., who was born in 1644. Her uncle, the Rev. Samuel Kissam, was the father of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt. Miss Kissam was a charter member of Van Cortlandt Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and was active in church and charity work. Her mother was the daughter of Dr. Seth Miller of Ossining, N. Y., and niece of Bishop Jarvis of Connecticut.

Capt. James H. Mannville.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 8.—Capt. James H. Mannville, formerly an Assemblyman from Washington County and for many years well-known as a steamboat Captain, died to-day soon after being stricken with apoplexy. Capt. Mannville was born at Whitehall, Washington County, in 1841. He represented that county in the Assembly in 1886, and was re-elected the following year. He was Sergeant at Arms in 1890. He was Captain of the Hudson River night steamboat Dean Richmond for years.

County Judge Andrew Fallon.

County Judge Andrew Fallon of Rockland County, who for many years was a resident of Piermont, died on Tuesday at the Colonial Hotel in this city. Judge Fallon's nervous system broke down and he came here four weeks ago for treatment, but was unable to obtain relief. He was born in Piermont, in 1856. At his death he was serving his second term as County Judge and Surrogate. Judge Fallon is survived by his widow, a son, and a daughter.

On Friday there will be an excursion to West Point, and on Saturday a trip to Poe's cottage, Fordham, and to Bronx Park.

BLACK HAND RUMOR CAUSES SCHOOL PANIC

FEARED DYNAMITE PLOT

Idle Report Spread by Boys Leads Italians to Demand Children's Release—Pupils Hurt Leaving Building.

Fifteen hundred frantic men and women, parents of children in the Seventh Avenue public school in Newark, most of whom were Italians, surrounded the building yesterday morning on report of a "Black Hand" threat that the structure was to be destroyed by dynamite. Before the police could clear the streets a panic had resulted in which many children were injured, two seriously.

Efforts to reassure the parents of the children were unsuccessful, and a rush for the doors followed. This was repelled, and while the crowd surged around the doors and attempted to force them, Principal J. C. McLaury formed the pupils for fire drill and ordered them to leave the building by a rear door. News of this reached the crowd, and there was a rush for the yard of the school. Parents and children met, and the latter were thrown to the ground by the rush, trampled upon, and driven back against the school building. Almost as soon as the excitement from the cries of the children and the rush of the men and women started, it was over. When the police arrived every one engaged in the affair was busy carrying home injured children, while others were running to summon doctors.

Seriously injured and unable to walk, eight-year-old Attilo Ciccone was carried by the police to a near-by doctor and later taken to St. Michael's Hospital. Antoinetta Ruglio, 13 years old, was found in a semi-conscious state and was taken to the office of Dr. F. A. Caruso, who is taking care of her. She was trampled upon. Other injured children were carried to their homes by their parents.

At 8 o'clock yesterday morning an unknown Italian woman called upon Principal McLaury and told him that she had heard a man say that the school was to be blown up by dynamite as the result of an extensive "Black Hand" plot. Others followed the woman and told the same story. Principal McLaury reassured all of them, and they went away, only to gather later in front of the school with demands that their children be sent to them. As soon as the police had succeeded in clearing the streets after the panic, the school was ordered closed. St. Lucy's parochial school, which is near the Seventh Avenue school, was also ordered closed, as the same rumors had reached it.

LOADED CHINAMAN UP A TREE.

Policeman Has Several Climbs Before Getting Him and His Laundry.

Policeman Hemmer heard strange noises in the branches of a tree in the Fort Washington woods, at 195th Street and Broadway, early yesterday morning, and, glancing upward, saw a Chinaman hanging out on the limbs a green sweater, a pair of bright yellow trousers, pink shoes, and a white shirt.

"Come down, you heathen," ordered the policeman. Hemmer couldn't repeat the Chinaman's answer later. Then Hemmer climbed the tree. As he went up one side the Chinaman came down the other. So down came Hemmer, but up went the Chinaman at the same time. Up went Hemmer again, and down came the Chinaman, and then they repeated the performance until Hemmer was back on the ground with the Chinaman over his head.

Hommer sat down under the tree, waited till the Chinaman came down again, and nabbed him.

"He had a load of clothes, and another he ought to have made two trips for," said Hemmer in the Harlem Court. Magistrate Kernochan held the Chinaman for examination this morning. He said his name was Chin Kung Gin of 20 Mott Street. He wasn't in a condition to explain how he came to be climbing trees in Fort Washington.

SHE NEEDN'T WEAR TIGHTS.

Miss Henrietta Lee, an actress, who in private life is Mrs. Charles P. Morrison, won her fight with Hurtig & Seamon, theatrical managers, on the question as to whether they could order her to wear tights in the musical comedy, "Me, Him, and I," in which she was starring, after she had played the part for three months in feminine attire.

A jury before Supreme Court Justice Gerard awarded her $4,700, the amount of salary she would have earned under her contract had she not been discharged for refusing to appear in tights.

ERIE'S NOTES TAKEN UP

The chief influences at work upon sentiment and in control of prices on the Stock Exchange yesterday came once more from the Erie situation and from the Government's April report on the condition of the Winter wheat crop. Expectations of a favorable crop showing have had much to do with the strength of the market for several days, and yesterday forecasts of this nature were borne out by the document itself, with its condition figure of 91.3, against 89.9 a year ago and a ten-year average at this time of 86.2. While the general feeling was that the Erie's financial plans would go through without a hitch, this was not officially confirmed before the close of the stock market. There were, however, a number of happenings which pointed strongly in this direction. Maturing Erie notes, after selling on the Curb market at 89 in the forenoon, rushed up just before the close of trading to 97, and $100,000 worth of the securities changed hands at this price. This sensational advance was enough in itself to indicate the success of the plan, but in addition to this it became known that holders of notes unwilling to exchange for the new issue had been invited to present their holdings and had received cash through measures put into effect by Mr. Harriman. With this assistance on the financial side, the operating department of the Erie, having already effected large economies in operation, is confident of weathering the present business depression without further incident.

As regards the April crop report, the indications from yesterday's condition figures are for a yield of some 494,000,000 bushels, and this is susceptible of a diminution of 85,000,000 bushels before it falls below the actual harvest of last year. It is an important fact in connection with the report that the surplus States hold an exceptionally strong position, the area producing over 60 per cent. of last year's yield, showing a percentage well above 90. Other matters to which attention was directed during the day indicated a further reduction in the price of copper metal, and statistics of pig iron production for the month of March, the output being 1,228,204 tons, as compared with 1,077,740 tons in February, a short month. At the opening of April, however, the weekly capacity was nearly 2,000 tons under that of March 1. The stock market closed firm after another day of light business.

Money rates underwent practically no change, while foreign exchange crept up an additional 5 points. Paris exchange on London rested at the level of the previous day, and all the important European markets displayed strength. One of the causes for the firmness in London was the successful offering of $13,750,000 of London County 3½ per cent. bonds, late cables reporting that this issue had been subscribed for ten times over.

COPPERS WEAK AND DULL

Nevada Gold Stocks Only Mining Issues to Show Strength—Erie Notes Close at 97.

Except for the interest in the Erie Railroad notes due yesterday, which made an advance of nearly 7 points on the Curb, the market was listless, with price changes of nominal character. The rain cut the attendance of brokers down to a handful at times, and in the mining issues transactions were in small volume outside of the Nevada gold stocks. Yukon Gold reported transactions of only 7,000, with the price still going down. A new low record of 4⅜ was made, but the close was at 4½, even with the opening price. The Goldfield stocks made small gains. Coppers were weak wherever activity appeared. The Erie notes, after opening at 90¼, sold up to 97 on well-authenticated stories that the cash to take care of the notes would be forthcoming. Transactions of $177,000 were reported.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Sharp Rally After Early Decline—Closes Steady 4 to 8 Points Up.

Cotton made further low records for the season early yesterday, and then rallied on reports of steady interior markets and predictions of cold weather in the belt. The market opened steady at a decline of 3 to 7 points on lower Liverpool cables and a favorable weather map.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Traders Mixed in Their Views.

Speculative sentiment was apparently bullish but actually very much mixed at the close of the market yesterday. The earlier trading was of such a character that price movements were not such as to make it easy for the ordinary trader to determine the ultimate trend, and the natural tendency, in view of many uncertainties, was to assume a bearish attitude. The substantial rally in the late trading ought to have been inspiration for a reversal of this attitude, but opinions once formed are not easily changed and the lack of sympathy with the upward movement might possibly be ascribed to stubbornness rather than to anything else. That there was a professional influence in the advance, was accepted without question, but the fact that over night the Erie position would become clear lent force to the market attitude of aggressive traders, even though they were professionals. Brokers, as a rule, simply told their customers to follow any definite trend in prices conservatively, in other words to make liberal use of stop-loss orders. There is a decided difference of opinion among shrewd operators in the market and in consequence it may be accepted that the uncertainty of sentiment is more or less logical.

Good Winter Wheat Crop.

Presumably there were many traders yesterday who did not even know that an official crop report had been made indicating a record yield for Winter wheat. Just now crop conditions are apparently not essential to the development of speculative sentiment; consequently they are ignored. Nevertheless, those who took the trouble to scan the figures regarded them as eminently satisfactory and indicative of the return of normal conditions, to say nothing of prosperity. It is argued that with a bumper crop this year there is no question about the complete elimination of the after effects of the panic. There are those, of course, who point out that a big crop will mean the same old trouble in financing it, and the development of a further money stringency. Those who argue in that way either have no reliance on the effectiveness of the Aldrich bill or profess to believe that it will not become a law. Bankers say that if the good crops develop there is a strong probability that the effect of such a big yield will more than compensate for any adverse monetary developments resulting from the necessity of financing the movement of the crop in a limited money market.

Pessimism of Easterners.

One of the customers of a brokerage house, who has just returned from a two months' vacation at one of the popular Winter resorts in the South, said yesterday that so far as he could judge there was more pessimism in the East than in any other part of the country. "My reason for making that assertion," he said, "is that at the hotels at which I stopped in the South there was a predominance of Westerners, who seemed to be able and willing to take life easy and did not appear to be worried about existing conditions. So far as visitors from this section of the country and from the East generally were concerned, they were not very much in evidence. They were more or less inclined to be blue, and some of them were undeniably nervous. I was able to make a comparison because I have been a visitor to the same place at the same time for six or seven years. Possibly, it would be a fair estimate to say that taking certain Eastern sections the representation at that Winter resort was only about 25 per cent. of normal.

Cost of Living Figures.

Those who have faith in index figures as a sure indication of the general cost of living profess to see something favorable in the fact that there has been an advance recently in the accepted index prices. Their contention is that while prices are comparatively well maintained, the real serious after effects of a panic are not realized. The theory is that if it be possible to maintain prices without a serious break the period of recuperation will be shortened substantially and the return to healthy conditions expedited. Such things as index prices do not interest the average trader very much. They seem to be just a little too deep for him, their effect on market prices too slow, and the results on any given stock not commensurate with the necessary study apparently involved. They would prefer to find out how the professionals regard the market, where the so-called Standard Oil interests stand, and what the Steel earnings are likely to be for the next quarter.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—Arbitrage dealings in Reading and United States Steel furnished about four-fifths of the limited volume of business on the local Exchange, with fluctuations narrow and wholly without significance. Philadelphia Electric was sustained by the annual report read at the meeting, which was very satisfactory to the shareholders, including the opposition element.

The annual meeting of the Vulcan Detinning Company will be held on May 7 at 15 Exchange Place, Jersey City. Books close April 16 and reopen April 17.

The Hudson Trust Company has been appointed agent for the distribution of the dividend scrip recently declared by the Knickerbocker Ice Company on its common.

Frederick Townsend Martin was elected yesterday a member of the Board of Directors of the Metropolitan Trust Company to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Morris K. Jesup.

The retirement was announced yesterday of Albert W. Harris from the bond house of N. W. Harris & Co. Mr. Harris was admitted to partnership in 1898, but since the Chicago office of the firm became the Harris Trust and Savings Bank, in 1907, R. W. Harris, who became Vice President of the institution, has made his headquarters in Chicago. He retires to devote his time entirely to the Chicago institution. There are eight remaining partners in the firm.

The 1908 edition of "The Earning Power of Railroads," compiled by Floyd W. Mundy of James H. Oliphant & Co., is off the press. The book gives the mileage, capitalization, bonded indebtedness, earnings, operating expenses, fixed charges, cost of maintenance, &c., of 181 railroads, operating 211,110 miles of main line, whose gross earnings totaled $2,481,891,187. It also contains full comparative statistics and information of the investments, dividends, and guarantees of the roads.

A judgment for $20,822 was entered yesterday against the Topia Mining Company in favor of Alice Warfield on a note of the company dated Aug. 7, 1907, for $20,000, payable four months after date to the order of W. B. Devereux & Sons. The note was secured by 10,000 shares of preferred and 10,000 shares of common stock of the company. This collateral is said to be valueless. The summons was served on Horace S. Gould, Secretary and Treasurer, at 37 Wall Street. Judgment was taken by default.

LITTLE BOARD HEAD MEETS OPPOSITION

LIBERALS VS. CONSERVATIVES

The Latter Are Expected to Renominate President Budd—The Election on May 11.

For the first time since President Ogden D. Budd of the Consolidated Exchange was elected on the reform ticket two years ago the Exchange is to have an election contest. The regular Nominating Committee of the Exchange announced yesterday its choice of officers to be voted for at the annual election on May 11, and the ticket contains only two of those who have served with the present administration.

President Budd, who is now finishing his second term, was expected to be the choice of the regular Nominating Committee for a third term in recognition of the work he has done in building up the Exchange. The ticket which put President Budd into office had the backing of the conservative members of the Exchange, who wanted to see a more stringent administration of the rules.

These members are still in a strong majority and have been aroused by the attempt they believe has been made by the "liberal" element to steal a march on them in making up the personnel of the new Board of Governors. The ticket announced yesterday was put out in the face of a petition drawn up Tuesday and signed by 200 of the 300 brokers regularly in attendance on the floor, asking for the continuance of the present administration in power. The conservatives are expected to put out an opposition ticket before the week is out. No objection is made by the conservatives to the personality of the candidates for the executive positions, but President Budd's followers are opposed to any ticket which does not back up the reform administration which has been in power for the last two years. The principal candidates on the ticket announced yesterday were:

President—C. H. Badeau; First Vice President—S. A. Luther; Second Vice President—E. R. Betts; Chairman—Valentine Mott; Treasurer—E. R. Grant; Board of Governors, to serve two years—L. M. Archer, H. R. Caraway, S. H. Clarke, R. M. Jarvis, A. S. Hackley, J. Frank Howell, T. H. McGrath, A. R. Myres, F. Simmonds, R. E. Leavitt; to serve one year—A. C. Sumner.

Since the ticket was made public S. A. Luther, candidate for First Vice President, has announced that he will withdraw.

They are to be subject to purchase by the sinking fund; and to redemption on any interest day after April 1, 1927, at par and accrued interest, on not less than 90 days' notice.

The right is reserved to issue additional bonds ranking "pari passu" with the other bonds of this series to take up or retire at or before maturity an equal amount of the Consolidated Mortgage Bonds of the Mexican International R. R. Co., or of Consolidated Mortgage Bonds of the National R. R. Co. of Mexico, into which such bonds of the International Co. may have been refunded, and also to issue additional bonds to take up or retire at or before maturity an equal amount of the Consolidated Mortgage Bonds of the National R. c. Non-Cumulative Four Per Cent. First Preferred Shares for 60,000,000 Mexican Gold Pesos or $30,000,000 United States Gold.

To assure to the holders of First Preferred Shares the payment of semi-annual dividends of 1% for the period of three years from January 1, 1908, to the extent to which the net profits of the Company which shall first be applied for that purpose shall not be sufficient to make such payment, provision is to be made for the setting aside by the Company, as a separate fund, of $1,800,000 Prior Lien Bonds, and $1,200,000 Guaranteed General Mortgage Bonds, or in case of a sale thereof, then a sufficient amount of the proceeds thereof.

d. Non-Cumulative Five Per Cent. Second Preferred Shares for 250,000,000 Mexican Gold Pesos or $125,000,000 United States Gold.

The Second Preferred Shares shall confer on the holders thereof the right to receive each year out of surplus profits dividends up to 5 per cent. on their par value after the dividend of 4 per cent. on the First Preferred Shares for such year shall have been paid or set aside and before any dividend shall be paid for such year on the Common Shares, but no deficiency in such dividend in any such year shall be made up out of the surplus profits of subsequent years. After payment of such dividend of 5 per cent., any residue of surplus profits distributable in dividends for such year shall be paid to the holders of the Second Preferred Shares and to the holders of the Common Shares constituting part of the initial capital, in proportion to their respective holdings, without regard to class.

e. Common Shares for 150,000,000 Mexican Gold Pesos or $75,000,000 United States Gold.

For a full statement of the rights of the holders of the respective classes of shares, reference is made to the Decree of the Federal Government of the Republic of Mexico, dated July 6, 1907, a copy of which has been filed with each of the Depositaries and can be inspected at the offices of any of the Depositaries.

A tabular statement showing the condition of farm animals on April 1 and the percentage of deaths from disease and exposure within the last twelve months will be published in the April number of The Crop Reporter.

The condition figure of Winter wheat, wired from Washington yesterday, was better than had been generally looked for in the trade. Predictions of a percentage of between 89 and 90½ had been freely made. The yield of Winter wheat, as estimated by the Produce Exchange statistician from the average of 91.3, is 410,110,000 bushels from the last reported acreage of 31,069,000 acres. There has been a change in the method used in estimating the yield, however, since last season, and according to the old figuring yesterday's percentage of condition would indicate a yield of 493,997,000 bushels, which compares with the indicated yield at this time last year of 493,974,000 bushels. Yesterday's estimate, according to the old method of figuring, works out as follows, in comparison with the two previous years:

Area, acres	31,069,000	31,064,574	31,340,837

CUT IN COTTON ACREAGE.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 8.—In a signed statement to the farmers of the South, issued to-day, Harvie Jordan, President of the Southern Cotton Association, urges a reduction in cotton acreage of 33 per cent. Unless this is done, he says, prices will be low next Fall.

Mr. Jordan also urges growers to hold to what remnants of cotton they have.

THE COFFEE MARKET.

Coffee opened unchanged to an advance of 5 points yesterday, and closed steady net unchanged. Switching from near to late months was a feature of the trade, amounting to 40,000 bags of a total of 51,500 reported. The initial advance was due to European buying.

Neither the European nor the Brazilian markets reported any change in prices. Receipts at the two Brazilian ports were 21,000 bags, against 51,000 last year and 8,000 two years ago, when the movement appears to have been abnormally light. Jundiahy receipts were 8,000 bags, against 32,000 last year and 9,000 two years ago. New York warehouse deliveries Tuesday were 13,720 bags, against 3,979 last year and 4,067 two years ago. Spot coffee was dull, 6c for Rio No. 7.

THE FOREIGN MARKET.

Good Tone Manifested on All of the European Exchanges.

LONDON, April 8.—The better tone prevailing at yesterday's close was fully maintained on the Stock Exchange to-day. The reinvesting of dividend money resulted in an improvement in home rails and other first-class securities, while more cheerful advices from Paris assisted foreigners and Kaffirs. The settlement is progressing easily. American shares were carried over at from 2½ to 3½ per cent.

The dealings in American railroads were narrow, but the tone was firm in anticipation of a favorable crop report, while rumors of a favorable settlement of the affairs of the Erie Railroad helped the cheerfulness in the forenoon. Later the tone of the market became uncertain in the absence of definite Erie news. New York offered Erie and Union Pacific, and the market closed undecided after small business.

PARIS, April 8.—A better tone prevailed on the Bourse here to-day.

BERLIN, April 8.—Prices on the Boerse to-day were very firm upon the passage in the Reichstag yesterday of the Boerse law.

SEABOARD COMMITTEE NAMED.

A committee, consisting of William J. Graflin, Van Lear Black, Owen Daly, H. Fiske, H. A. Orrick, William A. Read, Norman B. Ream, Walter T. Rosen, and Townsend Scott, has been organized to protect the interests of the holders of Seaboard Air Line first mortgage 4 per cent. bonds, upon which default occurred on April 1. The members of the committee are holders of and represent a large amount of the bonds. H. A. Beasley of Baltimore is Secretary of the committee, and Lemmon & Clothworthy of that city are acting as counsel.

The committee urges united action on the part of the bondholders, in view of the receivership of the road and the probable formation of a Reorganization Committee.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT.—A decided improvement both in volume of speculation and the undertone of the market was noted yesterday, highest prices being near the close. At the immediate opening weakness developed on rains in the Winter wheat belt. The Government crop report made condition of Winter wheat 91.3, against 91.1 in December and 89.9 a year ago. The Produce Exchange estimate was made up in two ways, the new basis of figuring, whereby allowance is made for the theoretical deterioration between now and harvest, indicating a yield of 410,110,000 bushels, compared with 397,683,000 bushels in December. By the old method the indicated crop would be 493,997,000 bushels, against 493,974,000 estimated last April. Declines abroad were ⅜@1d at Liverpool, 2c at Berlin, and 1c at Budapest. Northwest receipts amounted to 173 cars, compared with 352 cars last year. Cash wheat in New York closed firm, as follows: No. 2 red, 98¼c, elevator, and 98¼c, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.10⅞, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.08⅞, free on board, afloat. On the late curb May was quoted 99⅜c and July 97¼c, or ¼c below the regular close.

CORN.—With few exceptions the market was strong all day. Receipts were above the estimates, but the rain in all leading States suggested lighter movement in the near future. No. 2 corn in New York was quoted 76c, elevator, and 69¼c, free on board, afloat; No. 2 white, 69½c, free on board afloat.

IRON AND STEEL NOTES.

Makers May Consult About a Cut in Prices Being Desirable.

Commenting on the situation in the trade, The Iron Age says:

The feeling among manufacturers of iron and steel is that prices should be maintained, although it is admitted that this is likely to be more difficult during the next few months than during the period after the panic, because merchants and consumers have now worked off stocks purchased at old prices, for which they claimed and got protection. It is understood that if a lowering of prices should become desirable no action will be taken by the leading interests without prior consultation.

The statistics of coke and anthracite pig iron collected by The Iron Age show that the output in March was 1,228,204 gross tons, as compared with 1,077,740 tons in February, a short month. Still, we entered the month of April with a reduced capacity at work, it being 265,590 tons on April 1, as compared with 267,437 on March 1. This is due chiefly to the fact that a number of large steel works furnaces in the Pittsburg district blew out toward the end of March. The unknown factor in the situation is the question of stocks.

The outlook for structural material is fair, to judge from the considerable tonnage which will be required for undertakings which are pretty sure to be carried out. Unfortunately many of them drag.

The Iron Trade Review says:

As for a number of weeks, activity is confined to a large extent to tin plate and wire products, although there is some improvement in sheets and tubular goods. Reports from England indicate some improvement, while those from Germany show a decidedly weaker market.

The pig iron market continues extremely dull, and persistent reports of $12, Birmingham, being shaded are heard. In the Central West leading producers have lowered their quotations. An effort is being made to obtain the co-operation of Southern interests in an attempt to maintain prices.

The City of New York, acting by the Public Service Commission for the First District, by this advertisement invites proposals to construct that part of the proposed Fourth Avenue Subway in the Borough of Brooklyn which begins at a point under Ashland Place about forty (40) feet south of the south line of Fulton Street and runs through and under Ashland Place and private property on the West side of Ashland Place, under the present Subway structure in Flatbush Avenue, and along and under Fourth Avenue and private property on the Easterly side thereof to Pacific Street; thence continuing Southerly along and under Fourth Avenue to a point about sixty (60) feet North of the North line of Sackett Street.

The general plan of construction calls for a four-track sub-surface Railroad, but the contractor will not be required under the contract proposed to provide or lay tracks, ties or ballast. A station on Fourth Avenue between Pacific Street and Dean Street, will be constructed; and suitable cross-overs, turn-outs and sidings are also to be provided, all as indicated on the detailed plans of construction. The tunnels are to have a height of not less than thirteen (13) feet in the clear, and a maximum width of fifteen (15) feet for each track, except at curves, etc., where the width may be increased. The roof of the tunnels is generally to be as near the surface of the street as street conditions and grades will permit. The roof and sides of the tunnels will be of iron or steel and masonry. Entrances to the station are intended to be placed within private property, rights in which will be acquired for the purpose, or on the streets, or on the sidewalks adjacent to private property, as indicated on the plans.

The manner of construction shall be by excavation under cover, unless otherwise provided in the contract or permitted by the Commission.

In the detailed plans for construction, provisions for pipe galleries along the line of the railroad are included. Bids for the construction of the railroad must be accompanied by a separate bid for the construction of the pipe galleries above referred to, as it is essential for the City to separate the cost of the railroad from the cost of the pipe galleries. The Commission reserves the right to accept a bid for construction of the railroad and at the same time to reject the accompanying bid for pipe galleries.

Bidders must visit the location of the railroad and station to be built under this contract and note the present conditions along the line of the proposed railroad.

A fuller description of the work to be done is set forth, and other requirements, provisions, details, and specifications are stated in the printed form of contract now on file in the office of the Commission, No. 154 Nassau Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, and in the detailed drawings therein referred to, at which office copies of the contract and of the form of bond and contractor's proposal may be had on application. The contract drawings may be inspected at the same office. The printed form of contract and the detailed drawings are to be deemed a part of this Invitation.

Partial payments to the contractor will be made monthly as the work proceeds, as provided in the form of contract.

The work of construction (including pipe galleries) is to be completed as soon as practicable, and within twenty-four months from the date of the delivery of the contract.

Sealed bids or proposals will be received at the said office of the Commission, at No. 154 Nassau Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, The City of New York, until Friday, the 8th day of May, 1908, at twelve o'clock noon, at which time or at a later date to be fixed by the Commission the proposals will be publicly opened.

The proposal must contain a statement, in the form prescribed, of the quantities and unit values upon which the bid is based. Such statement shall be merely for the information of the Commission to enable it to determine upon what basis the proposal is made and for no other purpose whatsoever, and the Commission shall not be bound in any way to make payments or value work done, upon the basis of such quantities and unit values contained in such statement.

No proposal will be allowed to be withdrawn for any reason whatever after it shall have been deposited with the Commission.

The award of the contract or contracts (if awarded) will be made by the Commission within twenty days after the opening of the proposals. The bidder whose proposal shall be accepted shall in person or by duly authorized representative attend at the said office of the Commission within ten days after the delivery of a notice by the Commission that his proposal is accepted and that the contract is approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment; and such bidder shall then deliver a contract in the form referred to, duly executed and with its execution duly proved.

At the time of the delivery of the contract, the contractor will be required to furnish security to the City by giving a bond in the penalty of two hundred thousand dollars. At the option of the successful bidder, cash or approved securities may be deposited instead of giving a bond. If securities are deposited in place of a bond under this contract, they must be of the character of securities in which Savings Banks may invest their funds and must be approved by the Commission. The Contractor's bond must be in the form annexed to the form of contract.

In addition and as further security to the City, ten per cent. of each amount certified from time to time to be due to the contractor will be retained until the work is fully completed.

Bidders whose proposals are otherwise satisfactory to the Commission may, in case the sureties or securities named by them are not approved by the Commission, substitute in their proposals the names of new sureties or a different schedule of securities approved by the Commission; but such substitution must be made within five days after notice of disapproval by the Commission, unless this period is extended by the Commission.

In case of failure or neglect to execute and deliver the contract or to make the required deposit or to execute and deliver the required bond, such bidder will, at the option of the Commission, be deemed either to have made the contract or to have abandoned the contract. In the latter case the Commission will give notice thereof to the defaulting bidder. And the Commission may thereupon proceed to make another contract with such, if any, of the original bidders, as, in the opinion of the Commission, it will be to the best interest of the City to contract with, or may by new advertisement invite further proposals. The defaulting bidder shall thereupon be liable to the City for all loss and damage by it sustained, including the excess, if any, of the amount it shall pay any other contractor over the amount of the bid of such defaulting bidder.

Every proposal must, when submitted, be enclosed in a sealed envelope endorsed "PROPOSAL FOR CONSTRUCTING RAPID TRANSIT RAILROAD—FOURTH AVENUE AND ASHLAND PLACE FROM FULTON STREET TO SACKETT STREET," and must be delivered to the Commission or to its Secretary; and in the presence of the person offering the proposal it will be deposited in a sealed box in which all proposals will be deposited. No proposal will be received or deposited unless accompanied by a certified check drawn upon a National or State Bank or Trust Company within The City of New York and satisfactory to the Commission, payable to the order of the Comptroller of The City of New York, for the sum of fifteen thousand dollars.

If the Commission shall give notice to any bidder that his or its proposal is accepted and that the contract is approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and if the bidder shall fail within ten days thereafter or within such further period, if any, as may be prescribed by the Commission, to execute and deliver the contract and to execute and deliver the bond with sureties, or make a deposit in cash or securities, then this Invitation to Contractors and proposal accepted as aforesaid shall be a contract binding the bidder to pay to the City the damages by it sustained by reason of such failure; and in such case the bidder shall, by the terms of the proposal, absolutely assign to the City the ownership of the check accompanying his or its proposal as a payment on account of such damages.

All such deposits made by bidders whose proposals shall not be accepted by the Commission will be returned to the person or persons making the same within five days after the contract shall be executed and delivered. The deposit of the successful bidder will be returned when the contract is executed and its provisions as to security are complied with.

The City of New York, acting by the Public Service Commission for the First District, by this advertisement invites proposals to construct that part of the proposed Fourth Avenue Subway in the Borough of Brooklyn between points on Fourth Avenue 15 feet south of the south line of Twenty-seventh Street and 150 feet south of the south line of Forty-second Street.

The general plan of construction calls for a four-track sub-surface Railroad, but the Contractor will not be required under the contract proposed to provide or lay tracks, ties or ballast. A station at Thirty-sixth Street will be constructed; and suitable cross-overs, turnouts and sidings are also to be provided, all as indicated on the detailed plans of construction. The tunnels are to have a height of not less than thirteen (13) feet in the clear, and a maximum width of fifteen (15) feet for each track, except at curves, etc., where the width may be increased. The roof of the tunnels is generally to be as near the surface of the street as street conditions and grades will permit. The roof and sides of the tunnels will be of iron or steel and masonry. Entrances to the station are intended to be placed within private property, rights in which will be acquired for the purpose, or on the streets or on the sidewalks adjacent to private property, as indicated on the plans.

The manner of construction shall be by excavation in open trench, unless otherwise provided in the contract or directed by the Commission.

In the detailed plans for construction, provisions for pipe galleries along the line of the railroad are included. Bids for the construction of the railroad must be accompanied by a separate bid for the construction of the pipe galleries above referred to, as it is essential for the City to separate the cost of the railroad from the cost of the pipe galleries. The Commission reserves the right to accept a bid for construction of the railroad and at the same time to reject the accompanying bid for pipe galleries.

Bidders must visit the location of the railroad and stations to be built under this contract and note the present conditions along the line of the proposed railroad.

A fuller description of the work to be done is set forth, and other requirements, provisions, details and specifications are stated in the printed form of contract now on file in the office of the Commission, No. 154 Nassau Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, and in the detailed drawings therein referred to, at which office copies of the contract and of the form of bond and contractor's proposal may be had on application. The contract drawings may be inspected at the same office. The printed form of contract and the detailed drawings are to be deemed a part of this Invitation.

Partial payments to the contractor will be made monthly as the work proceeds, as provided in the form of contract.

The work of construction (including pipe galleries) is to be completed as soon as practicable, and within twenty-four months from the date of delivery of the contract.

Sealed bids or proposals will be received at the said office of the Commission, at No. 154 Nassau Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, The City of New York, until Friday, the 8th day of May, 1908, at twelve o'clock noon, at which time or at a later date to be fixed by the Commission the proposals will be publicly opened.

The proposal must contain a statement, in the form prescribed, of the quantities and unit values upon which the bid is based. Such statement shall be merely for the information of the Commission, to enable it to determine upon what basis the proposal is made and for no other purpose whatsoever, and the Commission shall not be bound in any way to make payments or value work done, upon the basis of such quantities and unit values contained in such statement.

No proposal will be allowed to be withdrawn for any reason whatever after it shall have been deposited with the Commission.

The award of the contract or contracts (if awarded) will be made by the Commission within twenty days after the opening of the proposals. The bidder whose proposal shall be accepted shall in person or by duly authorized representative attend at the said office of the Commission within ten days after the delivery of a notice by the Commission that his proposal is accepted and that the contract is approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment; and such bidder shall then deliver a contract in the form referred to, duly executed and with its execution duly proved.

At the time of the delivery of the contract, the contractor will be required to furnish security to the City by giving a bond in the penalty of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. At the option of the successful bidder cash or approved securities may be deposited instead of giving a bond. If securities are deposited in place of a bond under this contract they must be of the character of securities in which Savings Banks may invest their funds and must be approved by the Commission. The Contractor's bond must be in the form annexed to the form of contract.

In addition and as further security to the City, ten per cent. of each amount certified from time to time to be due to the contractor will be retained until the work is fully completed.

Bidders whose proposals are otherwise satisfactory to the Commission may, in case the sureties or securities named by them are not approved by the Commission, substitute in their proposals the names of new sureties or a different schedule of securities approved by the Commission, but such substitution must be made within five days after notice of disapproval by the Commission, unless this period is extended by the Commission.

In case of failure or neglect to execute and deliver the contract or to make the required deposit or to execute and deliver the required bond, such bidder will, at the option of the Commission, be deemed either to have made the contract or to have abandoned the contract. In the latter case the Commission will give notice thereof to the defaulting bidder. And the Commission may thereupon proceed to make another contract with such, if any, of the original bidders as, in the opinion of the Commission, it will be to the best interest of the City to contract with, or may by new advertisement invite further proposals. The defaulting bidder shall thereupon be liable to the City for all loss and damage by it sustained, including the excess, if any, of the amount it shall pay any other contractor over the amount of the bid of such defaulting bidder.

Every proposal must, when submitted, be enclosed in a sealed envelope endorsed "PROPOSAL FOR CONSTRUCTING RAPID TRANSIT RAILROAD—(FOURTH AVENUE, TWENTY-SEVENTH STREET TO FORTY-THIRD STREET)" and must be delivered to the Commission or to its Secretary; and in the presence of the person offering the proposal it will be deposited in a sealed box in which all proposals will be deposited. No proposal will be received or deposited unless accompanied by a certified check drawn upon a National or State bank or Trust Company within The City of New York and satisfactory to the Commission, payable to the order of the Comptroller of The City of New York, for the sum of twelve thousand five hundred dollars.

If the Commission shall give notice to any bidder that his or its proposal is accepted and that the contract is approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and if the bidder shall fail within ten days thereafter or within such further period, if any, as may be prescribed by the Commission, to execute and deliver the contract and to execute and deliver the bond with sureties, or make a deposit in cash or securities, then this Invitation to Contractors and proposal accepted as aforesaid shall be a contract binding the bidder to pay to the City the damages by it sustained by reason of such failure; and in such case the bidder shall, by the terms of the proposal, absolutely assign to the City the ownership of the check accompanying his or its proposal as a payment on account of such damages.

All such deposits made by bidders whose proposals shall not be accepted by the Commission will be returned to the person or persons making the same within five days after the contract shall be executed and delivered. The deposit of the successful bidder will be returned when the contract is executed and its provisions as to security are complied with.

BUSINESS TROUBLES

THOMAS J. BEATTIE.—Thomas J. Beattie, a riveter, (mechanic,) of 269 West 133d Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy to get rid of a judgment obtained against him on Aug. 20, 1904, by the State Excise Commission as surety on an excise bond. He formerly had a liquor saloon on Third Avenue, near 125th Street.

MAX MEIROWITZ.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Max Meirowitz, cloak manufacturer, 29 East Tenth Street, by three creditors: Samuel Levy, $157; Abraham B. Albert, $175, and Joseph Schoenfeld, $426, all on assigned claims. It was alleged that he was insolvent, made preferential payments of $1,000, and transferred merchandise and accounts of $2,000. He started business in November, 1904. Max Meirowitz, a cloak manufacturer, went through bankruptcy in 1901.

GARSON VENDING MACHINE COMPANY.—Deputy Sheriff Murray has received permission from Judge Hough of the United States District Court to sell the property of the Garson Vending Machine Company, at 219 East 144th Street, which he levied upon on Jan. 15 last under an attachment for $1,318 in favor of the Knock Down Case Company, which has since been merged into judgment. A petition in bankruptcy was filed against the company on Jan. 30, which was dismissed, and another petition was filed on Feb. 24 and a receiver appointed.

MORRIS A. BERKOWITZ. — Pollak & Deutsch, counsel for Morris A. Berkowitz of 57 West Houston Street, against whom a petition in bankruptcy was filed on Tuesday, said yesterday that at the creditors' meeting on Monday afternoon a final offer of settlement of 25 cents on the dollar, cash, was made, and a majority of the creditors agreed to accept such a settlement. Late the same evening, however, a City Marshal, under a replevin issued for A. & J. Sheinberg, who had a claim of $281, levied upon goods amounting to nearly $6,000, resulting in the petition being filed.

CAROLINE E. SCALLEN.—Caroline E. Scallen, a florist of 1,242 Broadway, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $8,303 and assets of $4,531, consisting of stock, $200; three delivery wagons, $750; fixtures, $1,000, and accounts, $2,581. Among the creditors are Mrs. Robert Stafford, $1,635; George Schlegel, $1,098; John J. Rayner, $575; A. J. Guttman, $531; Julius Roehrs Company, $460, and Walter F. Sheridan, $349. The business was started many years ago by her husband, who died in February, 1908, and she has carried it on since. The bankruptcy is attributed to trading going further uptown and inability to collect accounts.

A Period of Sober Reflection

The Lawyers Mortgage Company is the only Mortgage Company that limits its mortgages to those on improved income-producing business or residence property within the limits of New York City. It rejects the extra risk involved in lending on vacant land and on special utilizations, such as theatres, churches, factories, etc.

It is the only Mortgage Company which limits it profits to one-half per cent. per annum. In Europe such limitation is required by law, and removes the temptation to accept doubtful loans in order to make greater profits.

PLATT SOUVENIRS GO TO-DAY.

Contents of Rooms He Used in Fifth Avenue Hotel to be Sold.

The contents of the suite of apartments so long occupied by Senator Platt and his first wife, on the third floor of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, will be sold to-day. This is the first of the historic apartments to be reached.

There was another large crowd at the sale yesterday, and the real buyers again had trouble in getting near the articles they wished to purchase because of the curiosity seekers. One unfortunate man buyer was so troubled by a couple of women who followed around in the procession and got in his way that he resorted to school-day tactics, held up his hand and complained to the auctioneer.

"One dollar admission to this room," said the auctioneer, scowling at the persistent two, as he entered the next apartment, and they shrank back abashed.

There will be a demand for pictures to-day, for etchings and water colors went yesterday for from 50 cents up, and rumor said that one man who bought two water colors for $2.50 sold them for $20 each before he left the corridor of the hotel. Catalogues with lists of the rooms and their contents found buyers yesterday among souvenir seekers, and 2,000 were sold at 10 cents apiece.

KITTY JOYCE FOOLS THE POLICE AGAIN

MADE A LARCENY CHARGE

Kitty Joyce, known to every policeman who ever patrolled the Tenderloin for the number of practical jokes she has perpetrated at their expense, walked into Police Headquarters yesterday and fooled Inspector McCafferty and half a dozen Central Office detectives into believing her an unfortunate bride from Flagstaff, Ariz., who had been robbed of $1,700. Once before she smeared red ink on her forehead and rode in an ambulance to Roosevelt Hospital as an attempted suicide. Once again she was carried to the Morgue, apparently dead from carbolic acid poisoning. When she arrived there she sat up and laughed at the Morgue keepers.

With eyes red from weeping, and in a pathetically broken voice, which left no doubt in the minds of her hearers of the truth of her story, she confided to Inspector McCafferty yesterday how she had been lunching in a Broadway restaurant with her husband of only a month, when they had seen a young girl partaking only of toast and tea.

"I though she might be without funds," explained Mrs. John J. Donnelly, as Kitty Joyce called herself this time, "so I asked my husband to invite her to lunch with us. He did so, and when John left us to attend to some business downtown, this girl and myself went shopping. We had a drink or two in a café, and when I came to my senses again I was wandering around Broadway, near Forty-seventh Street. A roll of bills, $1,700 in all, which I had carried in my waist, was missing."

"Mrs. Donnelly" was invited to look over the pictures in the Rogues' Gallery, and, carefully skipping her own, which the police say is No. 397, she finally selected the picture of a woman whom the police knew to be living in West Thirty-eighth Street as the young woman who had robbed her.

"Why, this woman is well known to us, Madam," said Inspector McCafferty gallantly. "I regret that you should have been so unfortunate as to meet her on your first visit to New York. But it is well we know her, for my men will get your money back for you."

Then the Inspector called Detectives Carbonelle, Carrette, and Toner, and after introducing them to "Mrs. Donnelly" explained her misfortune to them. "Mrs. Donnelly" agreed to accompany them, and the quartet went to West Thirty-eighth Street. When a young woman came to the door of the house at which they stopped she exclaimed:

"Yes, that's the woman. Oh, you ungrateful wretch, when I took you up and fed you. Oh, how could you rob me?"

The young woman stared in amazement. She wept and protested that she knew nothing about it when the detectives told her she must go to Headquarters. There "Mrs. Donnelly" continued to berate her. The girl said she was Prue Salky of 245 West Thirty-eighth Street, and denied that she had ever met "Mrs. Donnelly," much less robbed her.

"Give me $700 and I'll call it square," said "Mrs. Donnelly" at last, and then the suspicions of the detectives were aroused. When "Mrs. Donnelly" asserted suddenly that she was a friend of Inspector Russell, Detective Carrette called the Inspector into the room from the hall in Headquarters, where he happened to be standing.

"Why, hello, Kitty," was the Inspector's greeting. Then turning to the detectives he exclaimed: "Is it possible that you don't know Kitty Joyce?"

Miss Joyce denied her identity for some time, but admitted at last when the Inspector, followed by several chagrined detectives, again led the way to the Rogues' Gallery and silently pointed to picture No. 397. So then they arrested Kitty Joyce also, charging her with intoxication.

She and the young woman whose arrest she caused were both arraigned before Magistrate Moss in the Night Court who recognized Miss Joyce and paroled the other woman, the complainant failing to produce evidence against her. He held Kitty Joyce in $500 bail for a hearing to-night. She said that she really had had $1,700, and that it had been really stolen from her. She said the money was left to her by her mother, who died recently in Pennsylvania, and that she had received it from a brother of John Cavanaugh, the race horse man, who keeps a saloon at 153d Street and Eighth Avenue.

She Left Them in a Wash Room and Now Advertises Their Loss.

Some one who washed her hands in the washroom in a Fifth Avenue department store on Tuesday afternoon must have been surprised to see two valuable rings lying on the shelf just above the basin.

Whoever that some one was is a question Mrs. F. B. Hurd of 14 East Sixty-fourth Street would like very much to know, as it was Mrs. Hurd who carelessly left the rings there.

Mrs. Hurd has asked THE TIMES to find the missing jewels. In the Lost and Found column she announces that she will pay $100 for the return of the rings, one of which is set with a pearl surrounded with diamonds, and the other a diamond band ring.

H. J. PIERCE ACCUSES WIFE.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 8.—Henry J. Pierce of Buffalo testified in his divorce suit to-day that his wife, Mrs. Violetta Pierce, threatened to kill their seven children if he did not leave their education and training wholly in her hands.

When Pierce was asked what his business now is he replied: "I am President of several street railway companies which serve Buffalo and vicinity. I am President of the Netherlands Tramway Company, a corporation of New York, which owns a system of railways in Holland. I am interested in the Chicago City Railway, the Manila Railway & Electric Company, a construction company in New York which builds railroads, and am a Director in the American Car Company of St. Louis."

Since the separation, he said, he had placed at his wife's disposal $1,250 a month. Mrs. Pierce, whose home is in Yonkers, N. Y., is in St. Louis with her seven children and two maids.

JURY PLAYED POKER.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., April 8.—Poker with a 10-cent ante and a quarter limit, with plenty of liquids to accompany it, is said to have helped a jury at Belmar in the office of Justice Milo H. Crego last night to pass the time while reaching a verdict in a suit over a horse. William Rose of Belmar sued to recover $35, the purchase price of a horse bought of Grandon Clayton, which the latter seized at Wanamassa last week because Rose had not paid a balance of $26.

The trial began last night at 8 o'clock before Justice Crego. A jury of six men was empaneled to hear the case. After much argument it went to the jury soon after 10 o'clock, and the room which had been packed to suffocation was cleared, leaving the jurors alone.

The crowd collected outside the office and peered through the windows, expecting to be admitted in a few minutes. There was a warm argument, much nodding of heads, banging of hands on knees, and after a time it became apparent the jury was hung. The argument died down and the six sat silent. Finally some one produced a deck of cards. The crowd watched for the cut, thinking the issue was to be decided by the run of the cards.

Nickels and dimes, quarters and half dollars, appeared in a few minutes. A round of jackpots, 10 cents ante, quarter limit, witnesses say, was on. Some one sent for bottled beer and the jury seemed agreed not to agree.

Finally, a little after 2 o'clock this morning, Justice Crego was sent for. The jury was still split, two holding out for a verdict of $35, several favoring a smaller amount. The Justice, it is alleged, suggested that the factions grade the amounts up and down until the amount was split. There was a lot of bickering; some went up, others down, until a verdict of $17 was awarded Rose for the seizure of his horse.

LONSTORF CASE DISMISSED.

Defendant Charged with Conspiracy Agrees to Provide for Daughter-in-Law.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 8.—The famous $750,000 Lonstorf case, which has been on trial in the Circuit Court of Milwaukee County at different times for several years, was to-day taken from a jury in Judge Tarrant's court and dismissed upon stipulation by attorneys for all parties to the trial.

It is said that Mrs. Margaret Lonstorf, the principal defendant, has agreed to care for the complainant daughter-in-law as long as she lives, in addition to making large monetary concessions.

The suit grew originally out of the charge that the Lonstorf family had entered into a conspiracy to alienate the affections of Otto Lonstorf from his wife, formerly Emma Sturm, daughter of the janitor of the Sixteenth Ward school. It is alleged that her husband deserted her, and that as a result of the sorrow which she suffered she became insane. She was cared for at public expense. The suit for damages was instituted by John Randall, who was appointed her guardian.

PLUMBERS NOT A TRUST.

Suit Brought in Ohio Against National Association Is Dismissed.

SANDUSKY, Ohio, April 8.—The onus of being an illegal combination in restraint of trade was removed to-day from the National Association of Master Plumbers of the United States. Judge Reed of the Court of Common Pleas dismissed the suit instituted by ex-Attorney General Frank S. Monnett on behalf of Hoehlein & Bertsch, plumbers.

This firm sought $25,000 damages, averring that the object of the association was the restriction of manufacture of plumbing supplies as well as the advancing of prices.

$100 FOR READING A WILL.

Ex-Surrogate Upholds Lawyer's Fee, to Which Heirs Objected.

The reading of a will is worth $100. Ex-Surrogate James C. Church of Brooklyn, appearing as a witness in a case to have alleged legal fees reduced, so testified yesterday.

Mrs. Anna M. Rothmann of Sea Cliff, L. I., died in August, 1906. She left an estate worth $300,000 or $400,000. Her executors, Jacob Marsh and Edward W. Marsh, employed Lawyer Otto F. Struse of 99 Broadway, Brooklyn, and he charged $3,500 for his services. One item in his bill was $100 for reading the will at Sea Cliff, which is twenty-seven miles from Brooklyn.

When the executors gave an accounting to Surrogate Jackson of Nassau County, sitting in Mineola, George W. Rothmann and his daughter, Anna, to whom most of the property was devised, filed formal objections. They were joined in their objections by persons to whom small bequests had been made.

"The lawyer did not charge too much," testified former Surrogate Church, a witness for Struse. "Indeed, I consider his services worth from $4,500 to $5,000."

GIRL STOPS JAIL DELIVERY.

MURPHYSBOROUGH, Ill., April 8.—Miss Zora Hanson, 17 years old, daughter of Sheriff Sylvester Hanson, interrupted a jail delivery early this morning. She was awakened by a storm; and, glancing out the window, saw prisoners climbing past her window.

She seized the foot of a man and screamed for her parents. Her mother went to her assistance and held to the man while Sheriff Hanson rushed into the cellroom and prevented seven prisoners from leaving. Six convicts had escaped through a window from which a bar had been pried. Four are negroes.
